El Dorado Worker Injured As He Is Pinned Under Cars

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 16 (AP)—A railroad employe was injured seriously and damage totaling thousands of dollars was wrought today in three unrelated train wrecks in Arkansas.

Two of the wrecks, one at Greenland in northwest Arkansas and another near Ogden in the southwest corner of the state, apparently occurred within minutes of each other.

Later today, 28-year-old T. G. French of El Dorado, Ark., suffered serious head and shoulder injuries when he was pinned beneath two derailed box cars at a siding near Harrell in Calhoun County.

Details of the accident weren't known. The Rock Island Railroad trainmaster at El Dorado said he had received a report that "four or five cars derailed" when they were being switched from the main Rock Island line onto a siding. He said French was pinned between two of the cars.

At the quiet Ozark Mountain hamlet of Greenland in northwest Arkansas, 15 cars of a southbound Frisco freight crashed through a bridge railing and plunged into a stream which cuts through the center of town.

Both accidents reportedly occurred a few minutes after mid-

Rifle Shot Fired Into Child's Room At Godchaux Plant

NEW ORLEANS, April 16 (AP)—Godchaux Sugars Inc. said someone fired a rifle bullet this morning into the room of the sleeping child of a foreman at the company's strike-bound refinery in nearby Reserve, La.

No one was hurt. The child's mother was sleeping in the next room. John Jean Barre, the foreman, was at the plant helping to complete shut-down operations.

President Leon Godchaux II of the sugar firm offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person who fired the bullet.

Charles Fischer of Chicago, assistant to the president of the striking United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO) said:

"We think the incident is most unfortunate and deplorable. We hope whoever fired the shot is quickly apprehended."

About 1500 members of the union struck the Godchaux plant and the Colonial Sugars Co. refinery at nearby Gramercy, La., Thursday. The union asked for a 14½ cent raise in the hourly wage, matching a scale recently set by the American Sugar Refinery in Chalmette, southeast of New Orleans.

Godchaux and Colonial offered five cents. The firms said the present scale ranges from a minimum of $1.34 to a maximum of $1.84 an hour.

Kidnaping Charge Filed Against La. Forestry Workers

BATON ROUGE April 16 —UP—Charges of kidnaping were filed today against two state forestry department agents, accusing them of abducting a youth they charged with setting 21 fires.

Charged with arson was Newton H. Stafford of Holden.

Haney Stafford, Newton's father, charged the investigators "persuaded" his son to enter their car for questioning. He said the agents then drove his son to Baton Rouge to take a lie detector test.

Smith denied the charge. He said if Stafford thought he were being kidnaped he could have tried to leave the car, but did not.

State Forester James E. Mixon, in reporting the arrest of Stafford, said 632 forest fires swept through Livingston parish last month.

Asian Conference

Nehru Proposes Conferees Ignore Formosan Issues

BANDUNG, Indonesia, April 16 (AP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru proposed tonight that the conference of 29 Asian and African countries talk generally about world peace and economic conditions—and not about details like Formosa.

Nehru and Red China's Premier Chou En-lai are the two dominating figures of the conference which opens Monday. But Nehru will have the stronger voice in charting the course the discussions will take.

India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon and Indonesia are the conference's sponsoring powers. They will huddle in a key meeting tomorrow to decide on what subjects should be up for discussion.

Arriving tonight, Nehru called for talks on "general principles rather than specific problems." Formosa, he said, was a specific problem—"a controversial issue which I imagine should hardly be discussed at this conference."

As Nehru spoke to newsmen here, Chou remained overnight in Jakarta, 75 miles away, where he received a noisy welcome at the closely guarded airport on his arrival from Rangoon, Burma. More than 5,000 Indonesian Chinese cheered and waved Red China's flag.

Fight For Control Of Wards Reaches Climax On Friday

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP) — Louis Wolfson will lay his proxies on the table Friday in his attempt to gain control of Montgomery Ward & Co.

After eight months of hectic campaigning between Wolfson and Sewell Avery, Ward's chairman, the people who own the big mail order and retail merchandising firm will render their verdict.

What that verdict will be, no one will know immediately. The proxies of both sides will be collected. But it may be weeks before the tabulation is finished because of the number of proxy mailings by both sides and the complexities of cumulative voting.

Wolfson and Avery will meet for the first time at this annual stockholders meeting. If the meeting is conducted as in the past, the 81-year-old Avery will preside. Wolfson will be seated in the audience of stockholders.

Both sides claim victory. Wolfson's chances of at least getting several seats on Ward's board of directors boomed last Friday when the Illinois Supreme Court ruled all nine of Ward's directors must stand for re-election.

Partly Cloudy Skies Forecast

Clear to partly cloudy and warm today and tomorrow with gentle to moderate southerly winds on the coast are predicted for the Louisiana area by government weather forecasters.

A similar forecast was given for Arkansas.

The CAA weather station at Selman Field reported that the maximum and minimum temperatures yesterday were 86 and 57 degrees.

Polio Vaccine Shipment Arrives Here; Shots Are Scheduled For Students

The first of more than 4600 first and second grade students in Ouachita Parish are tenatively scheduled to receive injections of Salk polio vaccine Monday.

Dr. W. C. Carroll Summer, director of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit, announced last week that all preliminary measures had been taken and that the administration of the injections would begin as soon as the vaccine arrived. At the time, he said he hoped the first shipment would arrive in time to get the mass inoculation underway Monday. His wishes were granted yesterday morning, when first shipment arrived here by Delta Airlines.

Monday—Ransom School, where 167 students will be inoculated between 8:30 a.m. and noon; Georgia Tucker School 109 students, 8:30 a.m. to noon; Lexington, 130, 1 to 4 p.m.; Mitchell, 128, 1 to 4 p.m.; Millsaps, 283, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.; including 54 students from Claiborne and 45 from St. Paschals will be transported to Millsaps where they will be vaccinated; and

Rebel Force Gets New Strength As Viets Quit Posts

SAIGON, Indo-China, April 16—UP—Rebel Gen. Ba Cut strengthened his hold on the rich rice bowl area of West Cochin China Saturday. Some government troops deserted their outposts and went over to the enemies of American-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The opposition "Unified National Front" of sects also moved against the premier on the diplomatic front. A rebel communique announced the sects would send their own delegates to the Afro-Asian conference in Bandung, Indonesia, to "indict" the premier.

Reports reaching here from West Cochin China said a large number of national auxiliary provincial guards had deserted to Ba Cut's Hao Hoa forces, which control the rich rice-producing area.

The reports said the deserters turned over their outposts to the rebels, along with stores of arms and ammunition.

A National army company was ambushed by guerrillas in the same general area Thursday while trying to dismantle roadblocks on the important highway between Long Uyen and Chaudoc, 60 miles southwest of here. Ten government soldiers were killed and scores wounded.

The announcement of rebel plans to send a delegation to the Bandung conference coincided with reports that the head of the official South Vietnam delegation, Reconstruction Minister Nguyen Van Thoai, is at odds with the premier.

Truman Raps GOP Policies In Formosa Crisis

Freeing Chiang To Attack Reds Cited As Cause Of Woes

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Harry S. Truman accused the Eisenhower administration tonight of political fraud and trickery in the field of foreign policy.

From Adlai Stevenson came a call to Democrats to "stand for peace—which is the most urgent business of the 20th century, the hydrogen age."

The former President and the 1952 contender spoke at a huge, $100 - a - plate banquet honoring House Speaker Sam Rayburn—the beloved "Mr. Sam" of legions of Democrats.

Truman's speech was a raking attack on the administration. He accused it of bad management and blundering as well as playing "political tricks with the grave and serious issues of both foreign and domestic policies."

For one thing, he lit into the administration for its announcement in 1953 that the 7th Fleet would no longer be used to "shield" Red China from Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

"The Republican administration must have known," Truman said, "that the picture of an unleashed Chiang Kai - shek invading China was a barefaced political fraud. But the idea behind all this was to attempt to discredit the sound policy of the Democratic administration which was carefully designed to limit the conflict in the Far East."

This was a reference to an order Truman issued in 1950, at the time of the Korean War. It directed the 7th Fleet to prevent Red China from attacking Formosa and to halt any Chinese Nationalist raids on the mainland. The aim, officials explained at the time, was to prevent the Korean war from spreading.

"And now the Republican administration is desperately trying not only to limit the conflict in Asia, but to get a permanent cease-fire there. I fervently hope they do. But the administration, by this unfortunate political maneuver in its State of the Union message, (in 1953) has enabled the Communists to picture us as instigating and preparing an attack on China and has embroiled us in controversies with almost all our allies in Asia and in Europe.

"If we are face to face in Asia with the prospect of war, a war which the administration says may have to be fought with atomic weapons, nobody is going to get

Bank Officers In Dither After Call

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 16—UP—A man, whose identity was withheld, telephoned police Saturday asking why there wasn't any one in one of the Ohio National Bank branch offices here.

Officers patiently explained the bank is closed on Saturday.

Well, the man said, he was calling from the bank and wondered why there wasn't anyone around.

Police rushed to the bank and waited until embarrased bank officials arrived to lock the door that had been left open all night.

Police said apparently no one but the honest citizen had entered the bank from the time it closed Friday.

Southern Railroad Strike Spreading

Seven Injured As Group Of Insane Negroes Riot In Texas Mental Hospital

RUSK, Tex., April 16 —UP—A gang of criminally insane Negroes, led by a black giant who calls himself the "son of God," rioted Saturday in Rusk state mental hospital, wounded at least seven men and held two top officials of the hospital as hostages.

But at 3:15 p.m. (CST) more than five hours after the riot started, Ben Riley, a 200-pound murderer who refers to himself as the "son of God," came down from the second floor of maximum security ward 7 and threw a knife at the feet of Texas Ranger Capt. Bob Crowder of Dallas.

He went back and got the rest of the rioters weapons—ice picks, scissors and clubs — which he also surrendered to the tough, grizzled Crowder.

Five minutes after Riley surrendered his weapons, officers reported that "everything is under control." The riot was over.

The hero of the riot apparently was the hospital's superintendent, Dr. Charles Castner, who offered himself as a hostage so another wounded psychiatrist would be freed.

Dr. Castner, a tall, distinguished-looking psychiatrist, surrendered himself as a hostage so that Dr. L. D. Hancock, who was jumped and stabbed at the outset of the riot, would be freed and could be given medical attention.

Harold Whittington, editor of the Jacksonville, Tex., Daily Progress, who went into the compound alone earlier to talk with the rioters at their request, reported a prisoner killed. He said he saw him being taken out on a stretcher, with blood pouring from his ears and scalp.

Sheriff Allen Dotson said, however, that the prisoner, Pharo Tilley, had not died, though he was in grave condition. Dr. Hancock's wounds were not serious. The wounds of William Taylor, an attendant, also were critical.

Other inmates who were wounded were Robert Williams, Frank Garrett, Henry Crawford and Eddie Wilson. Bill Taylor, another attendant — all the attendants were white — was released along with Dr. Hancock and William Taylor.

When the riot ended Dr. Cast-

Two Monroe Negroes were being held in the Ouachita Parish jail yesterday charged with murder in connection with the Friday night slaying of a third Negro, Jewel (Junior) Hardwell, 18, of 101 Magnolia street. Charged in the slaying were Herbert (Doc) Nash, 40, of 2326 Adams street, and Lonzo Austin, 42, of 308 North Eighteenth street.

According to detectives they received a call about 6:30 a.m. Saturday to meet a uniformed officer behind the Home Ice Company, 2409 DeSiard street, in regard to a dead man. Upon arrival they found Hardwell's body. After examining the body, Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita Parish Coroner, said Hardwell had been dead for sometime. He attributed death to a gun shot wound in the upper right chest.

Subsequent investigation revealed that H. M. Hildabridle, 2409 DeSiard street, was working behind

French Sources Disclose Move To Call Big-4 Meet

PARIS, April 16—UP— Authoritative French sources disclosed Saturday the Western allies are moving rapidly toward the actual planning stage for a big-four meeting with Russia.

The sources aid the United States, Britain and France have almost reached agreement on setting up a working group to lay the groundwork for such a conference.

They predicted that Big Three diplomats will meet later this month in London to set up the working group. France is pressing for the meeting to get underway as soon as possible and the sources said the three powers are in almost constant telephone and telegraph consultation.

The Big Three foreign ministers will meet to review the possibilities of a Big Four conference in Paris early next month when the full NATO council convenes to admit West Germay.

French Premier Edgar Faure, hailing the Soviet-Austrian treaty accord as a sign of hope for Big Four negotiations, has called for talks with Russia as early as July.

The United States has asked for French ratification of West German rearmament as soon as possible. But France put her emphasis on establishment of the working group as soon as possible.

4 More Unions Plan Walkouts For Tomorrow

Transportation In Dixie Bogs Down With New Threats

ATLANTA, April 16 (AP) —A transportation grip was closing tighter on southern states today as a major passenger train was discontinued because of a derailment and four more rail unions prepared to walk out Monday.

Telephone service, however, was reported increasing in effectiveness despite the Communications Workers (CIO) strike and continued incidents of violence.

Law enforcement officers received special orders in two states.

Police at Birmingham were ordered to work overtime and other new precautions were taken to halt dynamitings and cable cuttings in and around Alabama's largest city.

And orders from Gov. Frank G. Clement engaged all Tennessee law enforcement agencies in the investigation of the Dixie Flyer derailment last night near Nashville.

Meanwhile, the presidents of two more unions, the Railroad Yardmasters of America and the American Train Dispatchers Assn., called strikes against the Louis-

Dulles Summoned To Augusta After Stump Briefs Ike

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 16—UP—President Eisenhower received a first-hand report on Formosa from his top commander in the Pacific Saturday and immediately summoned Secretary of State John Foster Dulles here for further talks Sunday.

The temporary White House at the Augusta National Golf Club emphasized that "no emergency" surrounds the meetings.

Admiral Felix B. Stump reported to the President "the general situation as I saw it" in the Formosan area which he visited as commander-in-chief of American forces in the Pacific.

On a flying visit to home base, Stump talked with the President for an hour at the gulf club. Then after further conferences at the Pentagon in Washington Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The admiral plans to return to his headquarters at Pearl Harbor. He left here in a Navy plane right after talking with Mr. Eisenhower.

Secretary Dulles will give the President an up to date review of the foreign situation, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said. This is sure to include the latest on Formosa and the Chinese coastal isles of Quemoy and Matsu as well as the recent peace treaty developments between Russia and Austria.

Stump smiled when he was asked after his conference with Mr. Eisenhower if he could give an assessment of Red China's intentions.

"If I could, I'd be better off," he said. Like Hagerty, Stump was quick to say no emergency "whatever" prompted the meeting.

"The President has a policy of wanting to see his unified commanders from time to time," the admiral said. "I reported on the general situation as I saw it."

Bridge Victims

Diver Abandons Search For Bodies In Muddy Waters

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 16 (AP)—Diving operations ended today after an unsuccessful attempt to locate victims whose cars plunged through a washed-out bridge into the Homochitto River.

C. O. Danese, 54-year-old New Orleans diver, probed the bottom of the river for 200 feet, finding only one of two cars which a witness said plunged into the stream after the Wednesday washout.

Officials said only the owner of the recovered car was listed as missing and the second car probably was owned by tourists whose absence won't be discovered until they fail to show up at home later. All persons listed earlier as missing have been accounted for.

The search will be carried on by air and local officers who hope to spot the bodies if they rise to the surface. Backwater areas also will be watched.

Sheriff W. F. James of adjacent Wilkinson County said Danese was paid $100, donated largely at the scene and in Natchez.

Today's finds included only pieces of bridge. Officials feared the churning river may have carried the second vehicle and the bodies far downstream.

No bodies have been found.

The first car, found yesterday, was 70 yards from the bridge in 25 feet of water. A rear door hung open and the back window was smashed out, but only river silt was in the car.

A relative identified the vehicle as belonging to P. O. Brady, 38, of Baton Rouge, La., a salesman returning home when the car rolled off the washed-out bridge.

Heavy rains swelled the normally treacherous Homochitto River into a raging torrent that swept away a railroad bridge at Rosetta, a few miles east of the disaster; the old U.S. highway 61 bridge, and finally the new highway 61 bridge Wednesday afternoon.

Louisiana Politicians Face Ribbing at Banquet

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.

BATON ROUGE, April 16 (AP) — Former Gov. Earl Long did a song and dance act and insisted "old governors never die."

Gov. Robert Kennon — after Eisenhower promised to make him a circuit judge and then vice president — backed up the Louisiana tidelands boundary all the way north of Minden.

State Police Supt. Francis Grevemberg announced a crackdown "in every school room in the state" on "cheating on examinations."

It all happened.

But it was all in fun as the Capital Correspondents Association took its annual potshots at the publishers and politicians in the fourth annual gridiron show tonight.

Some 650 state officials, legislators, politicians and newspaper people gathered to laugh at each other and watch "their feet held to the fire in a spirit of good fun."

Kennon, Long, Grevemberg and Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans — dominant figures in the Louisiana scene — were the stars of the show.

Their parts were played by a cast composed primarily of newspaper, radio and television men and women.

They also gave state education Supt. Shelby Jackson, state auditor Allison Kolb, institutions director Dr. Edward Grant and the Louisiana State University board of supervisors and President Troy Middleton a going over.

Four announced candidates for governor, Long, McLemore, state revenue collector Rufus Fontenot and Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham, attended the show, plus prospective candidates Morrison, former Gov. Jimmy Davis, highway board chairman Fred Preaus, William J. Dodd and Carlos Spaht, beaten by Kennon in the 1952 runoff primary.

The skit opened as the governor signed a bill claiming "the Louisiana offshore boundary from now on is just a little north of Tampico in the Gulf of Mexico."

A call from the President and Kennon said "stop at the first Brewery in Monterey . . . but stay away from Texas, Allan Shivers is a friend of mine."

Another telephone call. This time Eisenhower offered to make him circuit judge, and Kennon warned his assistants "be sure you get Grand Isle in the Louisiana boundary."

A final telephone call, offering him vice president, and Kennon found the "federal tidelands boundary just three miles north of Minden."

Morrison insisted that "when I'm running for governor this fall, I'll let the archbishop carry the ball. And we'll make a sweep, counting his blessings."

And the New Orleans mayor added, "with all the gamblers I'll make my peace. I'll put Joe Scheuering in state police. And I'll pay my way, counting the jackpots."

Grevemberg was the subject of a "This is Your Life" skit with slot machine commercials. His traffic violation teams (TVT) were spoofed when public safety commissioner Chester Owen told of a motorist who got out of a car on the airline highway to pick up a safety leaflet.

Asked if the leaflet had a favorable result, Owen replied, "we don't know. He got run down by a TVT car."

Grant, Dr. William Hurder and Mayor Willie Kees of Pineville joined in song about the State Colony and Training School. Kees and Hurder argued about who is boss, both quit and finally Grant boasted, "I'm the one who got his salary raised."

"We've been taken, Dr. Hurder," said Kees.

"By an expert, Mr. Kees," replied Hurder.

Lawrence Linck, of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, is author of a story that is of interest. Also it concerns his own family which makes it all the more interesting.

He relates that his younger son in the grades at school was experiencing a hard time in keeping his marks up where they would be presentable.

The boy was bemoaning to a pal, the fact that his latest report was not what he wanted to have disclosed to his parents. The pal sided in with him and added that

Rebel Force Gets New Strength As Viets Quit Posts

SAIGON, Indo-China, April 16—UP—Rebel Gen. Ba Cut strengthened his hold on the rich rice bowl area of West Cochin China Saturday. Some government troops deserted their outposts and went over to the enemies of American-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The opposition "Unified National Front" of sects also moved against the premier on the diplomatic front. A rebel communique announced the sects would send their own delegates to the Afro-Asian conference in Bandung, Indonesia, to "indict" the premier.

Reports reaching here from West Cochin China said a large number of national auxiliary provincial guards had deserted to Ba Cut's Hao Hoa forces, which control the rich rice-producing area.

The reports said the deserters turned over their outposts to the rebels, along with stores of arms and ammunition.

A National army company was ambushed by guerrillas in the same general area Thursday while trying to dismantle roadblocks on the important highway between Long Uyen and Chaudoc, 60 miles southwest of here. Ten government soldiers were killed and scores wounded.

The announcement of rebel plans to send a delegation to the Bandung conference coincided with reports that the head of the official South Vietnam delegation, Reconstruction Minister Nguyen Van Thoai, is at odds with the premier.

Truman Raps GOP Policies In Formosa Crisis

Freeing Chiang To Attack Reds Cited As Cause Of Woes

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Harry S. Truman accused the Eisenhower administration tonight of political fraud and trickery in the field of foreign policy.

From Adlai Stevenson came a call to Democrats to "stand for peace—which is the most urgent business of the 20th century, the hydrogen age."

The former President and the 1952 contender spoke at a huge, $100 - a - plate banquet honoring House Speaker Sam Rayburn—the beloved "Mr. Sam" of legions of Democrats.

Truman's speech was a raking attack on the administration. He accused it of bad management and blundering as well as playing "political tricks with the grave and serious issues of both foreign and domestic policies."

For one thing, he lit into the administration for its announcement in 1953 that the 7th Fleet would no longer be used to "shield" Red China from Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

"The Republican administration must have known," Truman said, "that the picture of an unleashed Chiang Kai - shek invading China was a barefaced political fraud. But the idea behind all this was to attempt to discredit the sound policy of the Democratic administration which was carefully designed to limit the conflict in the Far East."

This was a reference to an order Truman issued in 1950, at the time of the Korean War. It directed the 7th Fleet to prevent Red China from attacking Formosa and to halt any Chinese Nationalist raids on the mainland. The aim, officials explained at the time, was to prevent the Korean war from spreading.

"And now the Republican administration is desperately trying not only to limit the conflict in Asia, but to get a permanent cease-fire there. I fervently hope they do. But the administration, by this unfortunate political maneuver in its State of the Union message, (in 1953) has enabled the Communists to picture us as instigating and preparing an attack on China and has embroiled us in controversies with almost all our allies in Asia and in Europe.

"If we are face to face in Asia with the prospect of war, a war which the administration says may have to be fought with atomic weapons, nobody is going to get

Bank Officers In Dither After Call

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 16—UP—A man, whose identity was withheld, telephoned police Saturday asking why there wasn't any one in one of the Ohio National Bank branch offices here.

Officers patiently explained the bank is closed on Saturday.

Well, the man said, he was calling from the bank and wondered why there wasn't anyone around.

Police rushed to the bank and waited until embarrased bank officials arrived to lock the door that had been left open all night.

Police said apparently no one but the honest citizen had entered the bank from the time it closed Friday.

Southern Railroad Strike Spreading

Seven Injured As Group Of Insane Negroes Riot In Texas Mental Hospital

RUSK, Tex., April 16 —UP—A gang of criminally insane Negroes, led by a black giant who calls himself the "son of God," rioted Saturday in Rusk state mental hospital, wounded at least seven men and held two top officials of the hospital as hostages.

But at 3:15 p.m. (CST) more than five hours after the riot started, Ben Riley, a 200-pound murderer who refers to himself as the "son of God," came down from the second floor of maximum security ward 7 and threw a knife at the feet of Texas Ranger Capt. Bob Crowder of Dallas.

He went back and got the rest of the rioters weapons—ice picks, scissors and clubs — which he also surrendered to the tough, grizzled Crowder.

Five minutes after Riley surrendered his weapons, officers reported that "everything is under control." The riot was over.

The hero of the riot apparently was the hospital's superintendent, Dr. Charles Castner, who offered himself as a hostage so another wounded psychiatrist would be freed.

Dr. Castner, a tall, distinguished-looking psychiatrist, surrendered himself as a hostage so that Dr. L. D. Hancock, who was jumped and stabbed at the outset of the riot, would be freed and could be given medical attention.

Harold Whittington, editor of the Jacksonville, Tex., Daily Progress, who went into the compound alone earlier to talk with the rioters at their request, reported a prisoner killed. He said he saw him being taken out on a sretcher, with blood pouring from his ears and scalp.

Sheriff Allen Dotson said, however, that the prisoner, Pharo Tilley, had not died, though he was in grave condition. Dr. Hancock's wounds were not serious. The wounds of William Taylor, an attendant, also were critical.

Other inmates who were wounded were Robert Williams, Frank Garrett, Henry Crawford and Eddie Wilson. Bill Taylor, another attendant — all the attendants were white — was released along with Dr. Hancock and William Taylor.

When the riot ended Dr. Cast-

Two Monroe Negroes were being held in the Ouachita Parish jail yesterday charged with murder in connection with the Friday night slaying of a third Negro, Jewel (Junior) Hardwell, 18, of 101 Magnolia street. Charged in the slaying were Herbert (Doc) Nash, 40, of 2326 Adams street, and Lonzo Austin, 42, of 308 North Eighteenth street.

According to detectives they received a call about 6:30 a.m. Saturday to meet a uniformed officer behind the Home Ice Company, 2409 DeSiard street, in regard to a dead man. Upon arrival they found Hardwell's body. After examining the body, Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita Parish Coroner, said Hardwell had been dead for sometime. He attributed death to a gun shot wound in the upper right chest.

Subsequent investigation revealed that H. M. Hildabridle, 2409 DeSiard street, was working behind

French Sources Disclose Move To Call Big-4 Meet

PARIS, April 16—UP— Authoritative French sources disclosed Saturday the Western allies are moving rapidly toward the actual planning stage for a big-four meeting with Russia.

The sources aid the United States, Britain and France have almost reached agreement on setting up a working group to lay the groundwork for such a conference.

They predicted that Big Three diplomats will meet later this month in London to set up the working group. France is pressing for the meeting to get underway as soon as possible and the sources said the three powers are in almost constant telephone and telegraph consultation.

The Big Three foreign ministers will meet to review the possibilities of a Big Four conference in Paris early next month when the full NATO council convenes to admit West Germay.

French Premier Edgar Faure, hailing the Soviet-Austrian treaty accord as a sign of hope for Big Four negotiations, has called for talks with Russia as early as July.

The United States has asked for French ratification of West German rearmament as soon as possible. But France put her emphasis on establishment of the working group as soon as possible.

4 More Unions Plan Walkouts For Tomorrow

Transportation In Dixie Bogs Down With New Threats

ATLANTA, April 16 (AP)—A transportation grip was closing tighter on southern states today as a major passenger train was discontinued because of a derailment and four more rail unions prepared to walk out Monday.

Telephone service, however, was reported increasing in effectiveness despite the Communications Workers (CIO) strike and continued incidents of violence.

Law enforcement officers received special orders in two states.

Police at Birmingham were ordered to work overtime and other new precautions were taken to halt dynamitings and cable cuttings in and around Alabama's largest city.

And orders from Gov. Frank G. Clement engaged all Tennessee law enforcement agencies in the investigation of the Dixie Flyer derailment last night near Nashville.

Meanwhile, the presidents of two more unions, the Railroad Yardmasters of America and the American Train Dispatchers Assn., called strikes against the Louis-

Dulles Summoned To Augusta After Stump Briefs Ike

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 16—UP—President Eisenhower received a first-hand report on Formosa from his top commander in the Pacific Saturday and immediately summoned Secretary of State John Foster Dulles here for further talks Sunday.

The temporary White House at the Augusta National Golf Club emphasized that "no emergency" surrounds the meetings.

Admiral Felix B. Stump reported to the President "the general situation as I saw it" in the Formosan area which he visited as commander-in-chief of American forces in the Pacific.

On a flying visit to home base, Stump talked with the President for an hour at the gulf club. Then after further conferences at the Pentagon in Washington Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The admiral plans to return to his headquarters at Pearl Harbor. He left here in a Navy plane right after talking with Mr. Eisenhower.

Secretary Dulles will give the President an up to date review of the foreign situation, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said. This is sure to include the latest on Formosa and the Chinese coastal isles of Quemoy and Matsu as well as the recent peace treaty developments between Russia and Austria.

Stump smiled when he was asked after his conference with Mr. Eisenhower if he could give an assessment of Red China's intentions.

"If I could, I'd be better off," he said. Like Hagerty, Stump was quick to say no emergency "whatever" prompted the meeting.

"The President has a policy of wanting to see his unified commanders from time to time," the admiral said. "I reported on the general situation as I saw it."

Bridge Victims

Diver Abandons Search For Bodies In Muddy Waters

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 16 (AP)—Diving operations ended today after an unsuccessful attempt to locate victims whose cars plunged through a washed-out bridge into the Homochitto River.

C. O. Danese, 54-year-old New Orleans diver, probed the bottom of the river for 200 feet, finding only one of two cars which a witness said plunged into the stream after the Wednesday washout.

Officials said only the owner of the recovered car was listed as missing and the second car probably was owned by tourists whose absence won't be discovered until they fail to show up at home later. All persons listed earlier as missing have been accounted for.

The search will be carried on by air and local officers who hope to spot the bodies if they rise to the surface. Backwater areas also will be watched.

Sheriff W. F. James of adjacent Wilkinson County said Danese was paid $100, donated largely at the scene and in Natchez.

Today's finds included only pieces of bridge. Officials feared the churning river may have carried the second vehicle and the bodies far downstream.

No bodies have been found.

The first car, found yesterday, was 70 yards from the bridge in 25 feet of water. A rear door hung open and the back window was smashed out, but only river silt was in the car.

A relative identified the vehicle as belonging to P. O. Brady, 38, of Baton Rouge, La., a salesman returning home when the car rolled off the washed-out bridge.

Heavy rains swelled the normally treacherous Homochitto River into a raging torrent that swept away a railroad bridge at Rosetta, a few miles east of the disaster; the old U.S. highway 61 bridge, and finally the new highway 61 bridge Wednesday afternoon.

Louisiana Politicians Face Ribbing at Banquet

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.

BATON ROUGE, April 16 (AP) — Former Gov. Earl Long did a song and dance act and insisted "old governors never die."

Gov. Robert Kennon — after Eisenhower promised to make him a circuit judge and then vice president — backed up the Louisiana tidelands boundary all the way north of Minden.

State Police Supt. Francis Grevemberg announced a crackdown "in every school room in the state" on "cheating on examinations."

It all happened.

But it was all in fun as the Capital Correspondents Association took its annual potshots at the publishers and politicians in the fourth annual gridiron show tonight.

Some 650 state officials, legislators, politicians and newspaper people gathered to laugh at each other and watch "their feet held to the fire in a spirit of good fun."

Kennon, Long, Grevemberg and Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans — dominant figures in the Louisiana scene — were the stars of the show.

Their parts were played by a cast composed primarily of newspaper, radio and television men and women.

They also gave state education Supt. Shelby Jackson, state auditor Allison Kolb, institutions director Dr. Edward Grant and the Louisiana State University board of supervisors and President Troy Middleton a going over.

Four announced candidates for governor, Long, McLemore, state revenue collector Rufus Fontenot and Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham, attended the show, plus prospective candidates Morrison, former Gov. Jimmy Davis, highway board chairman Fred Preaus, William J. Dodd and Carlos Spaht, beaten by Kennon in the 1952 runoff primary.

The skit opened as the governor signed a bill claiming "the Louisiana offshore boundary from now on is just a little north of Tampico in the Gulf of Mexico."

A call from the President and Kennon said "stop at the first Brewery in Monterey . . . but stay away from Texas, Allan Shivers is a friend of mine."

Another telephone call. This time Eisenhower offered to make him circuit judge, and Kennon warned his assistants "be sure you get Grand Isle in the Louisiana boundary."

A final telephone call, offering him vice president, and Kennon found the "federal tidelands boundary just three miles north of Minden."

Morrison insisted that "when I'm running for governor this fall, I'll let the archbishop carry the ball. And we'll make a sweep, counting his blessings."

And the New Orleans mayor added, "with all the gamblers I'll make my peace. I'll put Joe Scheuering in state police. And I'll pay my way, counting the jackpots."

Grevemberg was the subject of a "This is Your Life" skit with slot machine commercials. His traffic violation teams (TVT) were spoofed when public safety commissioner Chester Owen told of a motorist who got out of a car on the airline highway to pick up a safety leaflet.

Asked if the leaflet had a favorable result, Owen replied, "we don't know. He got run down by a TVT car."

Grant, Dr. William Hurder and Mayor Willie Kees of Pineville joined in song about the State Colony and Training School. Kees and Hurder argued about who is boss, both quit and finally Grant boasted, "I'm the one who got his salary raised."

"We've been taken, Dr. Hurder," said Kees.

"By an expert, Mr. Kees," replied Hurder.

Wheat Continues Dive; Other Grain Shows Strength

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP)—Wheat continued its slow, sickening slide on the Board of Trade this week but feed grains showed some strength.

It was the fifth straight week in which wheat prices have declined. New seasonal lows were set by all contracts except May and only a last hour rally on Friday lifted these deliveries off their lows.

Soybeans also sank and here, too, new lows were registered in all deliveries except May.

Wheat closed the week 1¼ to 2¾ lower, corn ¼ to 2¼ higher, oats 1⅛ to 1¾ higher, rye 1¾ to 3½ lower, soybeans 1 to 4½ lower and lard 3 cents lower to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Mexico Now Able To Meet Oil Needs

MEXICO CITY, April 16 (AP) — Mexico's government oil industry, for the first time since the 1938 expropriation of foreign companies, now claims to be able to fill all the country's needs.

Antonio Bermudez, head of the government company Pemex, said recent investments in refineries and transportation facilities have made the change.

Bermudez, speaking at the annual ceremony on the March 18 anniversary of the expropriation, said completion of the Salamanca refinery enables Mexico to produce all the lubricants she needs. He added that better distribution facilities have enabled Pemex to supply areas along the U.S. frontier which formerly imported fuel from the United States.

"At the end of this year we will be able to halt imports of gasoline, kerosene, diesel oil and so on," Bermudez said.

The basic aim of Pemex, Bermudez said, is to produce oil for the country's industrial machinery and not to produce for export.

"Mexico's oil," he said, "will produce goods and not merely serve to buy them."

As an example, he said the Salamanca refinery will save the country 15 million dollars it formerly spent abroad for lubricating oils.

Bermudez reported 1954 production was 85 million barrels, an increase of 15 per cent over 1953. Of this total, 23 million barrels were exported.

He said production has been increasing since the first of the year and is now at the rate of 97 million barrels a year. If production increases as expected, he said, the 1955 production will be 105 million barrels and the productive capacity for 1956 will be 114 million.

The Pemex head, a leading Mexican industrialist, said reserves have risen during the past year to 2,609,000 barrels, an increase of 396 million barrels.

He said this increase "makes it possible to say that the present and future demands of the home market will be fully satisfied. The increase in the production and reserves is very much greater than the rhythm of growth in domestic consumption."

Bermudez reported that 45 exploration crews at work last year had brought in information for the drilling of 121 exploration wells. These new holes, he said, brought in 10 new oil and gas fields in 1954 and four more in the first three months of this year. In addition, 172 wells were drilled in proven formations for production.

Pemex's 1954 income was reported as two and a half billion pesos, about 200 million dollars. A fourth of this was paid out in wages and another fourth in taxes. Bermudez said during the 17 years since expropriation, Pemex has paid the government nearly 200 million dollars for road building.

He announced that natural gas in the Gulf Coast oil fields will be brought to Mexico City for use in the industrial areas around the capital.

Bermudez said that Mexico is now the world's fifth largest producer.

Senate Prepares To Vote On Question

Echo Park--Dinosaur Monument Dam Controversy Near End

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—One summer day in 1953 a nature lover named Howard Zahniser was standing, perplexed, by the brownish waters of the Green River in northwest Colorado.

On a sudden impulse — "something moved me," he says — Zahniser yelled a question across at majestic Steamboat Rock: "Should we build a dam here?"

And back from the flat face of the huge wilderness landmark bounced a taunting echo: "Dam here?"

The reverberations of that echo have traveled, ever louder and angrier, from the mineral-streaked walls of the Green River canyon to the halls of Congress. And the thunder of controversy approaches a peak as the Senate prepares to vote on the question:

Should the government build a big power and water storage dam on the Green River at Echo Park in Dinosaur Natl. Monument Park the eerily beautiful federal preserve where lie the 100-million-year-old bones of prehistoric monsters?

Locked in battle over this issue, which has stirred nationwide interest, are:

1. On the pro-dam side, the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and the states of Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming and Arizona. They regard an Echo Park dam as a vital element in the upper Colorado development program—a nine-dam, 1½-billion-dollar project that ultimately would dwarf the Tennessee Valley Authority.

2. Against the dam, the National Park Service and an array of outraged conservationist groups. They look on such a dam as a desecration of a scenic wonderland — if not of America's spiritual heritage. And they fear Echo Park would be the forerunner of massive "invasion" of the national parks.

The Echo Park fight stalled the whole upper Colorado program in Congress last year. Now the first installment of the program, including Echo Park, is up for a Senate vote which may come in a week or so. The House Interior Committee expects to complete hearings late this month.

Just what is Echo Park?

It's a flat green expanse, encircled by yellow cliffs, just below the junction of two Colorado River tributaries — the Green and the Yampa rivers. Only a stone's throw from the Colorado-Utah border, it lies in the "national monument" area set aside by President Wilson in 1915 and enlarged to 208,885 acres by President Roosevelt in 1938.

Nobody disputes that the region is an unspoiled wonderland. Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) waxed poetic in describing it during recent hearings: "Indescribable beauty . . . mountains that rear their heads into the sky, own whose sides tumble pure, cold streams of water teeming with trout."

And yet, say the reclamationists, that water goes to waste while the surrounding region parches for lack of it. As Colorado's governor, former Democratic Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, puts it: "Water is life in Colorado. So in reality we are fighting for our very lives."

To impound the waters and harness them to turbines, the Reclamation Bureau would build at Echo Park a 700-foot-high concrete dam at an estimated cost of 176 million dollars — plus another 21 millions for developing beaches and other recreation facilities.

This dam would make a 100-mile-long lake of the Green and Yampa rivers — in effect, turning the now spectacular gorges into gentler fiords. And here is where the reclamation Bureau and the conservationists part company.

Reclamation Commissioner Wilbur A. Dexheimer takes the position that a lake is as good as a river any day— just as pretty and a lot more enjoyable to the people when 21 million dollars is spent on play facilities.

But a leader of the opposition, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, declares you might as well say "cutting off the tails of your swallow-tail dress coat will change it but not destroy it."

Grant, grandson of the President and Civil War general, took this position when he appeared as a witness on behalf of the American Planning and Civic Assn.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), one of the staunchest dam backers, was moved to comment that you don't see many swallow tail coats these days.

"I still feel," retorted the general, "that your dress coat with the tails cut off would be unsuitable for the purpose for which it was purchased."

Strangely, for a row in Congress, there seems to be no political partisanship in this dispute. The warring Reclamation Bureau and the National Park Service both are part of the Interior Department. The department has declared itself, after much soul-searching, for the dam. And President Eisenhower implicitly has endorsed it.

The two sides can't get anywhere near agreement on the facts in the dispute, much less on the pros and cons. For instance:

1. Pro-dam people say Echo Park is the best possible site. Anti-dam people say the reclamationists didn't look hard enough for a better site. The pro-dams say they did too—that too much water would be lost through evaporation at other possible cites. The anti-dams say the pro-dams resorted to tricky arithmetic to prove this. Reclamation officials have acknowledged some of their figures were faulty.

2. The pro-dams say Echo Park is so remote that hardly anybody goes there. The anti-dams say that's one of the charms of the place—and also that the number of visitors has been rising and would rise faster if the government would forget about the dam and build some decent roads.

3. Pro-dams say the dinosaur bones, contrary to widespread rumors, are well downstream from the dam site and wouldn't be disturbed. But anti-dams said many other fossils remain in the canyons which would be flooded, to say nothing of still undeciphered Indian hieroglyphs on the canyon walls.

4. Pro-dams say the power which would be generated would bring industrial health to an underdeveloped region — that the upper Colorado basin could be made a second line of industrial defense if war came. Anti-dams reply it would be cheaper to build a steam generating plant.

So the battle of words rages — at times bitter, at times eloquent.

Howard Zahniser, the man who shouted a question across the Green River, came up with an answer to it. Said Zahniser, executive secretary of a conservationist group called the Wilderness Society: Leave Steamboat Rock alone.

Zahniser said that as he stood looking up at the vast stone wedge he felt "a sort of presence" there —"with a capital 'P' if you get what I Mean."

Business Puts On Burst Of Speed In Drive Toward All-Time Record In Year

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Business, boiling along since January at its hottest pace in two years, put on an extra burst of speed this week. Indications were that activity in the second quarter, just beginning to take shape, would smash all records.

This was the situation:

Gross national product in January-February-March was at an annual rate of 369 billion dollars, making it the biggest first quarter American business ever had. Only the second quarter of 1953, when gross national product hit an annual rate of 371½ billions, was higher.

Gross national products it the sum total of all business activity—the combined dollar volume of all goods and services produced and sold.

Activity in key lines was faster at the end of the first quarter than at the start. Since then it has gained further momentum, and many economists figure it will pick up added speed from now through June. That should put this year's second quarter ahead of the record April-June period of 1953, making it the biggest ever.

This week you could see new evidence of the upturn almost everywhere.

Steel production was booming at 95 per cent of the industry's recently enlarged capacity. Detroit was turning out new automobiles at the rate of 28,000 a day; the industry's combined output of cars and trucks for the week—206,458—was the highest yet recorded. Second quarter production of cars was scheduled at 2,200,000.

Construction, already booming as never before, was headed for new peaks. F. W. Dodge Corp. said dollar volume of construction contracts awarded in March was the highest ever for that month and a sweeping 40 per cent ahead of March last year. Contract awards are looked upon by bankers and builders as an important gauge of building activity in the immediate future.

Housing starts, after reaching a new first-quarter high of 295,000, were expected to set records between now and the end of June.

The total for January-through-March was six per cent ahead of the previous first quarter peak in 1950.

Signs of a rising business trend were reflected in the stock market which thrust to an all-time high.

The increased tempo of business also produced new symptoms of tightening credit. Led by Kansas City, most of the nation's federal reserve banks jacked up their discount rates. That's the rate at which member banks borrow from the system. With funds for business increasingly in demand, higher interest rates were quoted by finance companies and dealers in "commercial paper" Short-term business loans.

Retail trade held at a high level despite fears of a post-Easter letdown. Virtually all the nation's auto manufacturers reported rising sales and rising output; most reported sales at an all-time peak. Chrysler's Plymouth division announced plans for a 100-million-dollar expansion program. It will include a new engine plant in Detroit. Cigarette manufacturers, hit by talk of lung cancer in 1954, reported higher sales for the first three months this year; some raised wholesale prices of king-sized brands. Drug manufacturers braced themselves for crushing demand for the new Salk polio vaccine, following release of an official report describing it as "safe, effective and potent."

Occasional rumblings of labor strife gave new evidence of strains and stresses within the economy. In the auto industry, company-union talks on the issue of a guaranteed wage proceeded quietly amid predictions that the bargaining might not reach the strike state. Elsewhere, however, the labor scene was less tranquil. Industrial activity in the South was curbed by strikes of rail and telephone workers; in New England, cotton textile workers struck after turning down a cut in pay.

Minnesota farmers will put 8,000 miles of farm drain tile in the ground this year.

Lumpkin Drops '56 Candidacy

TUPELO, Miss., April 16 (AP) — Sam Lumpkin today withdrew from the 1956 race for his old post as lieutenant governor of Mississippi.

Doctors advised the Tupelo city attorney that ill health would not allow him to conduct a statewide campaign.

Other men who have entered the race include present Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, Circuit Judge Sebe Dale of Columbia and Sen. J. O. Clarke of Iuka.

May Legislature

PAR Outlines Limitations And Goals Of Session

BATON ROUGE, April 16 (AP)—The Public Affairs Research Council today outlined the objectives and limitations for the first 30-day budgetary session of the Louisiana Legislature opening May 9.

The session is limited to budgetary and fiscal matters unless the members agree to introduce other measures by a three-fourths vote. It will be held from now on in odd-numbered years under the provisions of a constitutional amendment approved last fall.

Since 1879, regular legislative sessions have been limited to 60-day sessions on even-numbered years.

PAR said the advantages in the extra session included:

1. More realistic budgeting, since revenue and expenditure estimates will be made for one year rather than two.

Reduction in frequency of special sessions.

3. Increased opportunity for review of executive fiscal management.

Bills may be introduced in the first 10 days of the session and all legislation must be through both houses five days prior to the end of the session. Unlike the 60-day session, the time limit for bill introduction cannot be extended.

Louisiana Flood Control And Navigation Budget

Work on the Old River closure project near Angola, to prevent diversion of the Mississippi River down the Atchafalaya basin, is scheduled to be started during the 1955-56 fiscal year under a $2,250,000 budget item in the rivers and harbors appropriation bill now before Congress.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, Democrat of Louisiana, chairman of the Public Works Subcommittee of the Senate appropriations Committee, has scheduled hearings this week.

In an address in New Orleans last night, he pointed out that the Old River project will cost an estimated $47 million, with 1966 set as the target date for completion. This project was authorized last year. It will prevent the erratic Mississippi River from changing its course and leaving Baton Rouge and New Orleans by-passed and waterless. The entire cost will be borne by the federal government.

Ellender pointed to other flood control projects and navigation in or closely affecting Louisiana, forming a proposed budget total of $12,350,000 for the next fiscal year. Efforts will be made to increase some of the items, in committee—particularly the $450,000 expenditure for stabilization of the Red River's banks.

Among the navigation improvements, perhaps the most important is a $1,260,000 item requested by the Corps of Engineers to continue work on the Port Arthur shortcut to the Intracoastal Canal in the vicinity of Baton Rouge, on which construction was started during the current fiscal year. The shortcut will lop 160 miles from the Intracoastal Canal route between Morgan City and Baton Rouge.

All of the proposed expenditures are important to Louisiana's continued growth. Many worth-while flood control projects, some of them affecting Northeastern Louisiana, are ommitted from the budget.

Sens. Ellender and Long are co-authors of a bill providing for a year-round "storm ship" to be stationed off the coast, in the Gulf of Mexico, as a means of warning shore residents, fishermen and offshore drilling crews against bad weather.

The cost of maintaining such a floating weather station is small in comparison to the savings in property that would result—not to mention the savings in human life.

Feeding Meats To Infants

Shades of our cave-man ancestors!

Here comes a public relations release from one of the "Big Four" packing companies that would seem to indicate a strong carnivorous appetite among suckling infants, along with a bundle of scientific studies tending to show that they thrive on meat almost from the day they are born.

This company now manufactures eight different varieties of strained meat for babies—beef, lamb, veal, pork, heart, liver, chicken and bacon—one for every day in the week, with one to spare.

It seems that the scientists are digging deeper and deeper into the question of baby food, and what is really best for the infant. Dr. Thomas R. C. Sisson, a research associate and instructor in pediatrics at the University of Rochester Medical Center in New York, is one of these savants. He is in a three-year study to determine whether his theory is correct that meat feeding will prevent the anemia so often accepted as customary during the first few months of life. He seeks, in addition, to determine the effects of meat in the diet of children suffering from chronic infections such as colds.

Dr. T. D. Spies, director of the Institute of Human Nutrition at Northwestern Medical School, is leading a group study of the effects of a well-balanced diet containing ample amounts of strained meats, insofar as the development of teeth and bone structure in infants is involved.

These are only two of many such studies, varied in scope. One, already concluded, resulted in development of calcium-enriched strained meats as a substitute for milk in babies who are allergic to milk.

The final results probably won't be compiled for several years. But the results to date would indicate that meats, no less than milk, are important to baby's growth and health.

Bi-State Construction At A Peak

Construction contracts awarded in Louisiana and Mississippi during March were the highest on record, according to figures released yesterday by the New Orleans office of the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

The combined total for the two states was $77,155,000, an increase of 99 per cent over the same month last year. During the first quarter of 1955, the total of construction contracts was $171,807,000, 53 per cent above the aggregate for the first three months of 1954.

All categories of construction showed major gains.

These figures are heartening, since they represent progress in building homes, offices and industrial plants. They reveal that residents of the two states are not afraid of the future; and that outside capital is willing to venture into the rich country along the Lower Mississippi River and its tributaries.

Prophets of gloom are not lacking in Louisiana and Mississippi, and to hear their dire whisperings one might be led to believe that the bottom is about to fall out of American economy.

Yet employment continues at a relatively high level, business is setting new records, construction is at an all-time peak, and savings continue to increase.

The farm situation is the worst feature of economic life in Louisiana and Mississippi today. Prolonged drouth, recent severe freezes, reduced acreage allotments for cotton, and lowered prices for farm commodities have combined to work hardships upon the farmers. They are one of the mainstays of the bi-state economy.

Let us hope that the current year will bring them good crops and good prices.

Post Office Clerks Merit Wage Increase

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In the Monroe News-Star Tuesday, May 12, 1955, Fulton Lewis in his syndicated column criticized the postal employees' unions for not accepting the administration's proposal for a pay increase with reclassification. He stated that the only excuse we have for existing was to collect dues from the rank and file members.

Undoubtedly Fulton Lewis doesn't know that the infamous Gag law was repealed in 1912 by the enactment of the Lloyd LaFollette law which states that an employee shall not be subject to reduction in rank or compensation or dismissal from service because of membership in any organization that has for its object the improvement of wages and working conditions.

The National Federation of Post Office Clerks has accomplished a great deal in the last fifty years through the effective leadership of its National officers who are now, or were former, postoffice clerks. Mr. Lewis has the advantage over us in that in his syndicated column he can criticize us and spread his false propaganda while we have to be content with the Public Forum (which we thank this newspaper for having). Postal employees are now $600 behind their 1939 standard of living. They have not had an increase in wages in over three years. Their productivity, however, has increased more than 24 per cent in the last five years. We expected more considerate treatment from the president who, as a candidate in October, 1952, had said: "I am aware, despite wage increases, that the ordinary federal employee is economically worse off than in 1939 due to inflation and high taxes." "I do not believe that we can enlist or keep employees competent to conduct the business of the United States with that kind of economic prospect confronting them. We can, and will, do better than that."

For two years, the National Federation of Post Office clerks has proved the need for and the merit of an $800 a year increase. Other postal employee organizations have demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that same need and merit. In the interest of compromise and in the hope of obtaining the speedy passage of wage increase legislation, we approved a 10 per cent or $400 a year increase early in this session of Congress. The 10 per cent increase appeared to be the figure around which Congressmen, the employees and the administration could agree. Unfortunately, however, the administration wants postal employees to have a reclassification plan that will put all post office employees in jeopardy, especially post office clerks. The president vetoed a meager five per cent increase in 1954. This same bill had provisions for setting up a joint House and Senate committee with representatives from employee organizations and post office department officials with the posmaser general as chairman.

We are recommending this year that: 1. The Senate and House add a provision calling for the establishment of a commission made up of post office department officials, Congressmen and Senators and post office employee leaders to study postal job reclassification and propose fair procedures. 2. That the House of Representatives enact Senate bill S. 1 without reclassification and 3. That Congress, if necessary, override a veto of S.1.

I would suggest that Mr. Lewis get some material from us to print in his column next time in as much as we have read the propaganda he writes before.

NEWTON M. HORNE,
Vice President, Louisiana State Federation of Post Office Clerks.

An Injustice To Telephone Employes

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The newspapers all over the south, many of them with ulterior motives, continue to accuse the telephone employes of all the cable cutting, or sabotage in general. Here is something the papers or partial periodicals haven't published: Some of those cable - cutters, evidently hired amateurs who know nothing about the telephone wires, are cutting Uncle Sam's wires. An employe of the telephone company wouldn't make that mistake; laying all the blame on the strikers is an injustice.

In a way, this sabotage is beneficial to the telephone company. These cable cutters, with the assistance of the newspapers, have enabled the company to gain the sympathy of the public. The telephone company must have the backing of the people because these people enabled the company to accumulate more than ten billion dollars.

Before this dispute is over it will be proven these cable vandals are not reliable telephone employees. If the experienced employees should turn to this sabotage, they wouldn't use such crude implements as an ax or gun to kill a cable. They know where to drill into these cables, dope it with acid or water and it would be almost impossible to locate the damage.

The telephone company, even before this strike, has shown they don't want to be fair with the laboring people: They demand a "no strike" clause. This is the role of a dictator which is now in service. Dictators recognize nothing but power and a union without a right to strike has no power. I know from experience and observation that laboring people not under the aegis of some strong organization are as helpless as lielots. Back at the beginning of this century there was practically no organized labor and people were treated like cattle. To get a job with the express companies I signed a clause that I wouldn't join any union. My wages were $50.00 a month and my working hours were unlimited. Understand, please, I believe in our capitalist form of government. But they should not be allowed to become dictators.

The A. T. & T. is now the wealthiest corporation on earth, rated at more than $10 billion, all of which came from the people of this nation. What's the matter with our public service commissions. How could any corporation take some wire and poles and accumulate this much wealth.

I do not believe that communism or any of its concomitant evils play any part in this strike but if the employees lose it will furnish Russia some fine propaganda. The headlines in "Pravda" and the "Daily Worker" will read Capitalistic Imperialists of America Take Ten Billion Dollars From People Then Turn Off Fifty Thousand Of Them Because They Asked For Fraction Of The Ten Billions.

Editor, Morning World:

The old rock of England is gone. For many years not only Great Britain but the rest of the world had often profited by his statements and judgment.

During the worst stages of the bombardment of England in the 2nd World War, by the Germans' planes, Churchill daily strolled or visited in different places and cities that had just been bombed, his smile and words of encouragement, and his famous cigars helped keep the morale and courage of the English people up, and gave them stamina to stand their ordeals.

Good-by, old Warrior, and may your days of retirement be happy and cheerful ones, they were very well earned in a world of strife.

Attention — Retired-Active Railroad Employees

Gibsland, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I will thank you to bring this Forum open letter to attention of retired — active railroad employees. Legislations at Baton Rouge and Washington, D. C., U. S. Congress in 1937 enacted into law, the Railroad Retirement Act. Under this law, any one receiving pension payments cannot be garnisheed for payment of debts, nor are they subject to attachment, assignment or tax. Railroad employees pay nothing into Social Security fund, consequently they get go social security benefits. The two cent state sales tax is dedicated to Welfare and Old Age Pension fund. Railroad employees are forced to pay sales tax, but like Social Security will never be eligible for State welfare or old age benefits. This is un-American, unconstitutional and when Legislature convenes next month our Legislators should correct this injustice by exempting all railroad employees from paying state sales tax and refund all monies paid towards state welfare.

I have been retired thirteen years account of disability and receiving a railroad retirement pension check just a few dollars more than a couple receives on state old age pension, and yet my pension check is taxed to make that possible. If that's right, then Russia is right.

If I were working on my former run today, I would pay monthly $22.88 towards railroad retirement, plus 7 or 8 dollars monthly in sales tax, and, if dead, my widow would receive $46.23. Listen, fellow dupes, write your Senator and Congressman at Washington, D. C. to work for and support Bill HR 859, now pending in the 4th Congress, which, if enacted, would provide 25 per cent increase in railroad retirement annuities and pensions. Thanks, Mr. Editor.

Those Silly Jingles

Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Editor, Morning World:

It seems the agitators are not satisfied with whining the R-A-C-E, C-R-E-E-D, C-O-L-O-R dirge continually but now they have started singing it.

Just this afternoon a thirty minute program was interrupted three times so they could sing three of those silly jingles.

If these agitators are not satisfied with America as it is, then my advice is for them to pack up and go back where they are satisfied, if there is such a place on earth.

Everyone I have talked to feels as I do, that this thing has been harped to death.

Some Bad Thoughts

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

There are some bad thoughts existing in the minds of some of our people that have to be settled wisely to bring it home to the entire nation, and it will have to be done through the righteousness of God's word, who says — together we stand, divided we fall. People today are trying to kill prosperity which God has granted and which has brought us through nineteen hundred and fifty - five years safely.

Just as God gives to us now, some of us want to bring about a change without His consent. To my people it would be wise for the thoughtful people to stop and think and examine what is best for all in future life. If the colored teachers will accept their present opportunities and stand fast, God will grant peace unto them and prosperity will never leave them in the life to come.

Gambling

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you allow me the privileges to comment on your editorial entitled "Restrictions Unnecessary," which appeared in your paper on the 13th of April? (This editorial was in the Monroe News-Star.)

You said at a meeting of the Ouachita parish grand jury, that laws had been suggested and considered to make gambling illegal. Penalties were also suggested at that same meeting. Now as to just what kind of penalties to impose on those that break the law would be another thing. That, of course would have to be decided by the lawmakers themselves.

We have laws now dealing with gambling, but as you say, these laws are not enforced. Gambling has always been a hobby with people and they like the game and they are going to gamble some—law or no law, but I think the law should not apply just to the city, but should be a parish-wide law with no favoritism shown.

We have state laws governing gambling but as we all know gambling is still going on. Now I know the law enforcement can do most anything they set out to do, if they want to do it bad enough, and really mean business.

The people will talk about this and that, what should be done, then it will soon blow over and nothing is done. That is usually the case, in such matters, as stopping gambling. When people want to do things they can usually find ways and means to do it.

There is all kinds of gambling going on. They may have different names for it, but it is gambling just the same. The people have always been inclined to gamble—they like to take a chance and win if they can—get something for nothing is what to my mind has motivated gambling and makes so thrilling and interesting games.

Fulton Lewis And The Postal Unions

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

On April 12, 1955, the columnist Fulton Lewis, Jr. in the News-Star attacked the Federal and Postal employee unions. Mr. Lewis is against all unions, therefore he would be against postal and federal employee unions. (He doesn't know "why" the postal employees need a union.) Every postal employee, present, past and future, knows the need of the postal unions. At one time before the advent of postal unions, employees did not even have the right to write to their congressmen.

There are less than ten congressmen in the House and Senate who would agree with Mr. Lewis' statement as to the need of postal unions.

Mr. Lewis has been accused in the past of having his columns written for him in the Post Office Department.

Now concerning Mr. Lewis' misstatements on the reclassification and pay raises for postal employees:

Last year the president vetoed an across the board 5 per cent raise for postal and federal employees after it had been passed by all but four members of Congress in both Houses. His reason was that it didn't include an increase in postal rates even though the Constitution says that Congress will fix postage rates.

The postal clerks have fallen behind in the cost of living $600.00 and in the past six years have increased their efficiency by approximately 30 per cent which in private industry would have some bearing on wage increases. The postal clerks have shown a definite need for an across the board increase of at least $800.00 per year but have been willing to compromise for the sake of half a loaf rather than none.

The Post Office Department has a reclassification pay which would give the postal clerks from $310.00 to $290.00 increase per year. This would amount to 6.1 per cent to 6.9 per cent, not 7.6 per cent nor $400.00 nor $800.00. But this is not the whole story of Reclassification: This gives the Post Office Department the power to reassign duties and fix salaries downward for these new jobs and duties. Employees could be used on higher paying jobs but would be paid at the lower rate they were classified under.

It gives the Post Office Department the right to hire someone at the lowest classification and immediately be promoted to a supervisory position. This could cause a complete breakdown of the Civil Service system as it relates to the postal department. The Constitution of the United States of America provides that congress will fix salaries of the postal and federal workers. The fact that the U. S. Senate passed the 10 per cent increase for postal and federal workers by a vote of 72 for to 21 against and the House rejected the administration sponsored bill by a 302 to 120 should have some bearing on the matter.

We are thankful that Congressman Passman has gone on record for a substantial raise for postal employees. His feelings are that satisfied public employees are more efficient employees and contribute their fair share to the community life.

JILES N. DAVIS.
Post Office Clerk.

Red Chinese Not Worried

Editor, Morning World:

Success, Americans have been told, consists pretty much of learning "to think in terms of bigger numbers." We have learned our lesson well. Teheran and Yalta, so long past that had the press generally not have abrogated its duty to keep Americans informed instead of half informed, now discloses that a vote-hungry Democratic Administration callously traded the enslavement to Communism of some six hundred million foreigners for an election at home.

And people, those remaining capable of righteous indignation in the midst of a cold-war prosperity, voice their anger and humiliation.

But, Panmunjom, where a Republican (sic) Administration, far seeing to a second election, (whatelse?) to be bought by a continuing cold-war prosperity, betrayed only its millions, by some strange alchemy of numbers becomes "a high order of statesmanship."

No wonder Ike can't be pinned down on Quemoy and Matsu. However, no Red Chinese is worried.

Criticism Of Others

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Morning World:

The New York Times headlines: "HARRIMAN BIDS U. S. CONFER WITH ALLIES ABOUT FORMOSA."

Governor Harriman not only overlooked the fact that our only allies in that part of the world with men, guns and guts are the Republic of China and the Republic of Korea, but he overlooked a gentle suggestion from me, as well. On March 26th I wrote him:

".... it seemed to me particularly inappropriate this very week of the release of the Yalta Papers, for you to criticize the foreign policy of anyone.

"Secretary Stettinius' memoirs and the Yalta Papers would seem to provide you with such wide scope for self-criticism, that criticism of others might be postponed."

'Let Christ Be The Answer'

Archibald, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I enjoy reading your public forum very much. I want to thank Mrs. Philip Inzina for her fine letter on "Love Your Enemies." We know all things are possible with God and that prayer will change things.

I would like to tell you of the fine spiritual revival we had at the Archibald Baptist Church this past week with Evangelist, Brother Elliff. All came, old and young alike and Sunday morning when opportunity was given to come and confess Christ I never saw a happier face on a father as when he saw his son walking down the aisle for Christ.

We all need to grow in God's grace if we are to stand the temptations that come before us in these trying days. So, let us all come together and pray for one another — for we all have a "Cross to Bear" and let Christ be our answer.

Military Secrets

The virtual impossibility of keeping much of anything secret under a republican form of government has finally impressed itself on President Eisenhower. For the past 18 months, some cautious Americans have been grumbling at the free flow of information to Soviet Russia about our defense plans. We in turn know very little about their plans, particularly in the air.

Now the president has come out of his arm chair with an order barring further release of U. S. military technical secrets, most of which have been almost public property up until this time. Those who have deplored the almost complete lack of restriction on defense information are inclined to ask, "Why the delay?" But the fault has not been entirely that of General Eisenhower.

Used to complete military censorship at his command posts, he did not appreciate how easily confidential defense information could be obtained. Attempt to shut it off now involves difficulties, for competing publications will resort to private channels of information, refusing as they have in the past to concede that United States defense may be harmed by revelation of practically all of its defense plans and equipment.

Recently there has been no discernible ban on information about new planes, new guided missiles, pictures and full descriptions of which have been published in many magazines. The same arguments are being made on each side as they were earlier. The authorities who see no harm in free circulation of facts concerning our defense improvements contend that the information published is not sufficient to give the Russians much to go on, but that it does impress them that our "greatest military asset" as it was in World War II, is our ability to produce arms and munitions of war.

The other attitude, which seems to be taken by the president, is that this freedom of information constitutes a major security leak, which gives production experts in an enemy country many a hint they might have otherwise sought for in vain.

Armed service officers in some cases deplore the lack of secrecy, but point out that our intelligence services say that enemy agents hang out in the vicinity of defense plants and extract even more vital information from employees. Furthermore the finished weapon can be seen in tests, since the vicinity cannot be cleared entirely of observers.

The president is said to have been shocked into action over the extensive disclosures of the operation of the U S S Nautilus, first atomic powered submarine, though he had previously deplored in general terms the inability of the armed services to keep anything secret. Now the ban is expected to be so complete that the information channels into the defense department will be almost completely blocked.

This likelihood has already been pointed up by the experience of the army, navy and air force journal, leading service publication, which had to get clearance for the obituary of a marine corps officer. Junior defense officials who dislike sweeping directives, will carry them out to the letter.

Among veteran observers, the possibility that the United States will be able to clamp down much on leakage of defense information is believed small because:

1. All defense information is paraded before members of congress in connection with legislation or appropriations and many of them refuse to recognize any danger in passing on for publication any information they may have obtained.

2. Despite outward unification of the military service, rivalry between them is still so keen that they like to boast about their advances in armament. Army officers ask, "Is it any more dangerous for us to tell about some of our guided missiles than for the navy to give all the details on its new 60,000 ton carrier USS Forrestal?"

3. Rivalry between technical publications about obtaining all the details of new devices within their field. This may be the most dangerous "leak" of all since Russia has scientists who can understand the details given as well as can our scientists. The reports also serve to call attention of the Reds to information they may already have, but which had been overlooked in the files.

An atomic war may be different but heretofore the element of surprise in use of new weapons has been largely a part of their effectiveness. That applies to British tanks in World War I, German dive bombers in World War II and V-2 missiles dropped on London from the continent.

Now we'll see if the president himself can do anything to keep a few details from the Communists.

Louisiana Flood Control And Navigation Budget

Work on the Old River closure project near Angola, to prevent diversion of the Mississippi River down the Atchafalaya basin, is scheduled to be started during the 1955-56 fiscal year under a $2,250,000 budget item in the rivers and harbors appropriation bill now before Congress.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, Democrat of Louisiana, chairman of the Public Works Subcommittee of the Senate appropriations Committee, has scheduled hearings this week.

In an address in New Orleans last night, he pointed out that the Old River project will cost an estimated $47 million, with 1966 set as the target date for completion. This project was authorized last year. It will prevent the erratic Mississippi River from changing its course and leaving Baton Rouge and New Orleans by-passed and waterless. The entire cost will be borne by the federal government.

Ellender pointed to other flood control projects and navigation in or closely affecting Louisiana, forming a proposed budget total of $12,350,000 for the next fiscal year. Efforts will be made to increase some of the items, in committee—particularly the $450,000 expenditure for stabilization of the Red River's banks.

Among the navigation improvements, perhaps the most important is a $1,260,000 item requested by the Corps of Engineers to continue work on the Port Arthur shortcut to the Intracoastal Canal in the vicinity of Baton Rouge, on which construction was started during the current fiscal year. The shortcut will lop 160 miles from the Intracoastal Canal route between Morgan City and Baton Rouge.

All of the proposed expenditures are important to Louisiana's continued growth. Many worth-while flood control projects, some of them affecting Northeastern Louisiana, are ommitted from the budget.

Sens. Ellender and Long are co-authors of a bill providing for a year-round "storm ship" to be stationed off the coast, in the Gulf of Mexico, as a means of warning shore residents, fishermen and offshore drilling crews against bad weather.

The cost of maintaining such a floating weather station is small in comparison to the savings in property that would result—not to mention the savings in human life.

Feeding Meats To Infants

Shades of our cave-man ancestors!

Here comes a public relations release from one of the "Big Four" packing companies that would seem to indicate a strong carnivorous appetite among suckling infants, along with a bundle of scientific studies tending to show that they thrive on meat almost from the day they are born.

This company now manufactures eight different varieties of strained meat for babies—beef, lamb, veal, pork, heart, liver, chicken and bacon—one for every day in the week, with one to spare.

It seems that the scientists are digging deeper and deeper into the question of baby food, and what is really best for the infant. Dr. Thomas R. C. Sisson, a research associate and instructor in pediatrics at the University of Rochester Medical Center in New York, is one of these savants. He is in a three-year study to determine whether his theory is correct that meat feeding will prevent the anemia so often accepted as customary during the first few months of life. He seeks, in addition, to determine the effects of meat in the diet of children suffering from chronic infections such as colds.

Dr. T. D. Spies, director of the Institute of Human Nutrition at Northwestern Medical School, is leading a group study of the effects of a well-balanced diet containing ample amounts of strained meats, insofar as the development of teeth and bone structure in infants is involved.

These are only two of many such studies, varied in scope. One, already concluded, resulted in development of calcium-enriched strained meats as a substitute for milk in babies who are allergic to milk.

The final results probably won't be compiled for several years. But the results to date would indicate that meats, no less than milk, are important to baby's growth and health.

Bi-State Construction At A Peak

Construction contracts awarded in Louisiana and Mississippi during March were the highest on record, according to figures released yesterday by the New Orleans office of the F. W. Dodge Corporation.

The combined total for the two states was $77,155,000, an increase of 99 per cent over the same month last year. During the first quarter of 1955, the total of construction contracts was $171,807,000, 53 per cent above the aggregate for the first three months of 1954.

All categories of construction showed major gains.

These figures are heartening, since they represent progress in building homes, offices and industrial plants. They reveal that residents of the two states are not afraid of the future; and that outside capital is willing to venture into the rich country along the Lower Mississippi River and its tributaries.

Prophets of gloom are not lacking in Louisiana and Mississippi, and to hear their dire whisperings one might be led to believe that the bottom is about to fall out of American economy.

Yet employment continues at a relatively high level, business is setting new records, construction is at an all-time peak, and savings continue to increase.

The farm situation is the worst feature of economic life in Louisiana and Mississippi today. Prolonged drouth, recent severe freezes, reduced acreage allotments for cotton, and lowered prices for farm commodities have combined to work hardships upon the farmers. They are one of the mainstays of the bi-state economy.

Let us hope that the current year will bring them good crops and good prices.

Post Office Clerks Merit Wage Increase

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In the Monroe News-Star Tuesday, May 12, 1955, Fulton Lewis in his syndicated column criticized the postal employees' unions for not accepting the administration's proposal for a pay increase with reclassification. He stated that the only excuse we have for existing was to collect dues from the rank and file members.

Undoubtedly Fulton Lewis doesn't know that the infamous Gag law was repealed in 1912 by the enactment of the Lloyd LaFollette law which states that an employee shall not be subject to reduction in rank or compensation or dismissal from service because of membership in any organization that has for its object the improvement of wages and working conditions.

The National Federation of Post Office Clerks has accomplished a great deal in the last fifty years through the effective leadership of its National officers who are now, or were former, postoffice clerks. Mr. Lewis has the advantage over us in that in his syndicated column he can criticize us and spread his false propaganda while we have to be content with the Public Forum (which we thank this newspaper for having). Postal employees are now $600 behind their 1939 standard of living. They have not had an increase in wages in over three years. Their productivity, however, has increased more than 24 per cent in the last five years. We expected more considerate treatment from the president who, as a candidate in October, 1952, had said: "I am aware, despite wage increases, that the ordinary federal employee is economically worse off than in 1939 due to inflation and high taxes." "I do not believe that we can enlist or keep employees competent to conduct the business of the United States with that kind of economic prospect confronting them. We can, and will, do better than that."

For two years, the National Federation of Post Office clerks has proved the need for and the merit of an $800 a year increase. Other postal employee organizations have demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that same need and merit. In the interest of compromise and in the hope of obtaining the speedy passage of wage increase legislation, we approved a 10 per cent or $400 a year increase early in this session of Congress. The 10 per cent increase appeared to be the figure around which Congressmen, the employees and the administration could agree. Unfortunately, however, the administration wants postal employees to have a reclassification plan that will put all post office employees in jeopardy, especially post office clerks. The president vetoed a meager five per cent increase in 1954. This same bill had provisions for setting up a joint House and Senate committee with representatives from employee organizations and post office department officials with the posmaser general as chairman.

We are recommending this year that: 1. The Senate and House add a provision calling for the establishment of a commission made up of post office department officials, Congressmen and Senators and post office employee leaders to study postal job reclassification and propose fair procedures. 2. That the House of Representatives enact Senate bill S. 1 without reclassification and 3. That Congress, if necessary, override a veto of S.1.

I would suggest that Mr. Lewis get some material from us to print in his column next time in as much as we have read the propaganda he writes before.

Vice President, Louisiana State Federation of Post Office Clerks.

An Injustice To Telephone Employes

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The newspapers all over the south, many of them with ulterior motives, continue to accuse the telephone employes of all the cable cutting, or sabotage in general. Here is something the papers or partial periodicals haven't published: Some of those cable - cutters, evidently hired amateurs who know nothing about the telephone wires, are cutting Uncle Sam's wires. An employe of the telephone company wouldn't make that mistake; laying all the blame on the strikers is an injustice.

In a way, this sabotage is beneficial to the telephone company. These cable cutters, with the assistance of the newspapers, have enabled the company to gain the sympathy of the public. The telephone company must have the backing of the people because these people enabled the company to accumulate more than ten billion dollars.

Before this dispute is over it will be proven these cable vandals are not reliable telephone employees. If the experienced employees should turn to this sabotage, they wouldn't use such crude implements as an ax or gun to kill a cable. They know where to drill into these cables, dope it with acid or water and it would be almost impossible to locate the damage.

The telephone company, even before this strike, has shown they don't want to be fair with the laboring people: They demand a "no strike" clause. This is the role of a dictator which is now in service. Dictators recognize nothing but power and a union without a right to strike has no power. I know from experience and observation that laboring people not under the aegis of some strong organization are as helpless as Helots. Back at the beginning of this century there was practically no organized labor and people were treated like cattle. To get a job with the express companies I signed a clause that I wouldn't join any union. My wages were $50.00 a month and my working hours were unlimited. Understand, please, I believe in our capitalist form of government. But they should not be allowed to become dictators.

The A. T. & T. is now the wealthiest corporation on earth, rated at more than $10 billion, all of which came from the people of this nation. What's the matter with our public service commissions. How could any corporation take some wire and poles and accumulate this much wealth.

I do not believe that communism or any of its concomitant evils play any part in this strike but if the employees lose it will furnish Russia some fine propaganda. The headlines in "Pravda" and the "Daily Worker" will read Capitalistic Imperialists of America Take Ten Billion Dollars From People Then Turn Off Fifty Thousand Of Them Because They Asked For Fraction Of The Ten Billions.

Good-By, Old Warrior

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The old rock of England is gone. For many years not only Great Britain but the rest of the world had often profited by his statements and judgment.

During the worst stages of the bombardment of England in the 2nd World War, by the Germans' planes, Churchill daily strolled or visited in different places and cities that had just been bombed, his smile and words of encouragement, and his famous cigars helped keep the morale and courage of the English people up, and gave them stamina to stand their ordeals.

Good-by, old Warrior, and may your days of retirement be happy and cheerful ones, they were very well earned in a world of strife.

Your services to England and the world are over, but your spirit and courage will live forever in the memory of mankind.

Attention — Retired-Active Railroad Employees

Gibsland, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I will thank you to bring this Forum open letter to attention of retired — active railroad employees. Legislations at Baton Rouge and Washington, D. C., U. S. Congress in 1937 enacted into law, the Railroad Retirement Act. Under this law, any one receiving pension payments cannot be garnisheed for payment of debts, nor are they subject to attachment, assignment or tax. Railroad employees pay nothing into Social Security fund, consequently they get go social security benefits. The two cent state sales tax is dedicated to Welfare and Old Age Pension fund. Railroad employees are forced to pay sales tax, but like Social Security will never be eligible for State welfare or old age benefits. This is un-American, unconstitutional and when Legislature convenes next month our Legislators should correct this injustice by exempting all railroad employees from paying state sales tax and refund all monies paid towards state welfare.

I have been retired thirteen years account of disability and receiving a railroad retirement pension check just a few dollars more than a couple receives on state old age pension, and yet my pension check is taxed to make that possible. If that's right, then Russia is right.

If I were working on my former run today, I would pay monthly $22.88 towards railroad retirement, plus 7 or 8 dollars monthly in sales tax, and, if dead, my widow would receive $46.23. Listen, fellow dupes, write your Senator and Congressman at Washington, D. C. to work for and support Bill HR 859, now pending in the 4th Congress, which, if enacted, would provide 25 per cent increase in railroad retirement annuities and pensions. Thanks, Mr. Editor.

Those Silly Jingles

Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Editor, Morning World:

It seems the agitators are not satisfied with whining the R-A-C-E, C-R-E-E-D, C-O-L-O-R dirge continually but now they have started singing it.

Just this afternoon a thirty minute program was interrupted three times so they could sing three of those silly jingles.

If these agitators are not satisfied with America as it is, then my advice is for them to pack up and go back where they are satisfied, if there is such a place on earth.

Everyone I have talked to feels as I do, that this thing has been harped to death.

Some Bad Thoughts

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

There are some bad thoughts existing in the minds of some of our people that have to be settled wisely to bring it home to the entire nation, and it will have to be done through the righteousness of God's word, who says — together we stand, divided we fall. People today are trying to kill prosperity which God has granted and which has brought us through nineteen hundred and fifty - five years safely.

Just as God gives to us now, some of us want to bring about a change without His consent. To my people it would be wise for the thoughtful people to stop and think and examine what is best for all in future life. If the colored teachers will accept their present opportunities and stand fast, God will grant peace unto them and prosperity will never leave them in the life to come.

Gambling

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you allow me the privileges to comment on your editorial entitled "Restrictions Unnecessary," which appeared in your paper on the 13th of April? (This editorial was in the Monroe News-Star.)

You said at a meeting of the Ouachita parish grand jury, that laws had been suggested and considered to make gambling illegal. Penalties were also suggested at that same meeting. Now as to just what kind of penalties to impose on those that break the law would be another thing. That, of course would have to be decided by the lawmakers themselves.

We have laws now dealing with gambling, but as you say, these laws are not enforced. Gambling has always been a hobby with people and they like the game and they are going to gamble some—law or no law, but I think the law should not apply just to the city, but should be a parish-wide law with no favoritism shown.

We have state laws governing gambling but as we all know gambling is still going on. Now I know the law enforcement can do most anything they set out to do, if they want to do it bad enough, and really mean business.

The people will talk about this and that, what should be done, then it will soon blow over and nothing is done. That is usually the case, in such matters, as stopping gambling. When people want to do things they can usually find ways and means to do it.

There is all kinds of gambling going on. They may have different names for it, but it is gambling just the same. The people have always been inclined to gamble—they like to take a chance and win if they can—get something for nothing is what to my mind has motivated gambling and makes so thrilling and interesting games.

Fulton Lewis And The Postal Unions

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

On April 12, 1955, the columnist Fulton Lewis, Jr. in the News-Star attacked the Federal and Postal employee unions. Mr. Lewis is against all unions, therefore he would be against postal and federal employee unions. (He doesn't know "why" the postal employees need a union.) Every postal employee, present, past and future, knows the need of the postal unions. At one time before the advent of postal unions, employees did not even have the right to write to their congressmen.

There are less than ten congressmen in the House and Senate who would agree with Mr. Lewis' statement as to the need of postal unions.

Mr. Lewis has been accused in the past of having his columns written for him in the Post Office Department.

Now concerning Mr. Lewis' misstatements on the reclassification and pay raises for postal employees:

Last year the president vetoed an across the board 5 per cent raise for postal and federal employees after it had been passed by all but four members of Congress in both Houses. His reason was that it didn't include an increase in postal rates even though the Constitution says that Congress will fix postage rates.

The postal clerks have fallen behind in the cost of living $600.00 and in the past six years have increased their efficiency by approximately 30 per cent which in private industry would have some bearing on wage increases. The postal clerks have shown a definite need for an across the board increase of at least $800.00 per year but have been willing to compromise for the sake of half a loaf rather than none.

The Post Office Department has a reclassification pay which would give the postal clerks from $310.00 to $290.00 increase per year. This would amount to 6.1 per cent to 6.9 per cent, not 7.6 per cent nor $400.00 nor $800.00. But this is not the whole story of Reclassification: This gives the Post Office Department the power to reassign duties and fix salaries downward for these new jobs and duties. Employees could be used on higher paying jobs but would be paid at the lower rate they were classified under.

It gives the Post Office Department the right to hire someone at the lowest classification and immediately be promoted to a supervisory position. This could cause a complete breakdown of the Civil Service system as it relates to the postal department. The Constitution of the United States of America provides that congress will fix salaries of the postal and federal workers. The fact that the U. S. Senate passed the 10 per cent increase for postal and federal workers by a vote of 72 for to 21 against and the House rejected the administration sponsored bill by a 302 to 120 should have some bearing on the matter.

We are thankful that Congressman Passman has gone on record for a substantial raise for postal employees. His feelings are that satisfied public employees are more efficient employees and contribute their fair share to the community life.

Post Office Clerk.

Red Chinese Not Worried

Editor, Morning World:

Success, Americans have been told, consists pretty much of learning "to think in terms of bigger numbers." We have learned our lesson well. Teheran and Yalta, so long past that had the press generally not have abrogated its duty to keep Americans informed instead of half informed, now discloses that a vote-hungry Democratic Administration callously traded the enslavement to Communism of some six hundred million foreigners for an election at home.

And people, those remaining capable of righteous indignation in the midst of a cold-war prosperity, voice their anger and humiliation.

But, Panmunjom, where a Republican (sic) Administration, far seeing to a second election, (whatelse?) to be bought by a continuing cold-war prosperity, betrayed only its millions, by some strange alchemy of numbers becomes "a high order of statesmanship."

No wonder Ike can't be pinned down on Quemoy and Matsu. However, no Red Chinese is worried.

Criticism Of Others

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Morning World:

The New York Times headlines: "HARRIMAN BIDS U. S. CONFER WITH ALLIES ABOUT FORMOSA."

Governor Harriman not only overlooked the fact that our only allies in that part of the world with men, guns and guts are the Republic of China and the Republic of Korea, but he overlooked a gentle suggestion from me, as well. On March 26th I wrote him:

"... it seemed to me particularly inappropriate this very week of the release of the Yalta Papers, for you to criticize the foreign policy of anyone.

"Secretary Stettinius' memoirs and the Yalta Papers would seem to provide you with such wide scope for self-criticism, that criticism of others might be postponed."

'Let Christ Be The Answer'

Archibald, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I enjoy reading your public forum very much. I want to thank Mrs. Philip Inzina for her fine letter on "Love Your Enemies." We know all things are possible with God and that prayer will change things.

I would like to tell you of the fine spiritual revival we had at the Archidbald Baptist Church this past week with Evangelist, Brother Elliff. All came, old and young alike and Sunday morning when opportunity was given to come and confess Christ I never saw a happier face on a father as when he saw his son walking down the aisle for Christ.

We all need to grow in God's grace if we are to stand the temptations that come before us in these trying days. So, let us all come together and pray for one another — for we all have a "Cross to Bear" and let Christ be our answer.

Military Secrets

The virtual impossibility of keeping much of anything secret under a republican form of government has finally impressed itself on President Eisenhower. For the past 18 months, some cautious Americans have been grumbling at the free flow of information to Soviet Russia about our defense plans. We in turn know very little about their plans, particularly in the air.

Now the president has come out of his arm chair with an order barring further release of U. S. military technical secrets, most of which have been almost public property up until this time. Those who have deplored the almost complete lack of restriction on defense information are inclined to ask, "Why the delay?" But the fault has not been entirely that of General Eisenhower.

Used to complete military censorship at his command posts, he did not appreciate how easily confidential defense information could be obtained. Attempt to shut it off now involves difficulties, for competing publications will resort to private channels of information, refusing as they have in the past to concede that United States defense may be harmed by revelation of practically all of its defense plans and equipment.

Recently there has been no discernible ban on information about new planes, new guided missiles, pictures and full descriptions of which have been published in many magazines. The same arguments are being made on each side as they were earlier. The authorities who see no harm in free circulation of facts concerning our defense improvements contend that the information published is not sufficient to give the Russians much to go on, but that it does impress them that our "greatest military asset" as it was in World War II, is our ability to produce arms and munitions of war.

The other attitude, which seems to be taken by the president, is that this freedom of information constitutes a major security leak, which gives production experts in an enemy country many a hint they might have otherwise sought for in vain.

Armed service officers in some cases deplore the lack of secrecy, but point out that our intelligence services say that enemy agents hang out in the vicinity of defense plants and extract even more vital information from employees. Furthermore the finished weapon can be seen in tests, since the vicinity cannot be cleared entirely of observers.

The president is said to have been shocked into action over the extensive disclosures of the operation of the USS Nautilus, first atomic powered submarine, though he had previously deplored in general terms the inability of the armed services to keep anything secret. Now the ban is expected to be so complete that the information channels into the defense department will be almost completely blocked.

This likelihood has already been pointed up by the experience of the army, navy and air force journal, leading service publication, which had to get clearance for the obituary of a marine corps officer. Junior defense officials who dislike sweeping directives, will carry them out to the letter.

Among veteran observers, the possibility that the United States will be able to clamp down much on leakage of defense information is believed small because:

1. All defense information is paraded before members of congress in connection with legislation or appropriations and many of them refuse to recognize any danger in passing on for publication any information they may have obtained.

2. Despite outward unification of the military service, rivalry between them is still so keen that they like to boast about their advances in armament. Army officers ask, "Is it any more dangerous for us to tell about some of our guided missiles than for the navy to give all the details on its new 60,000 ton carrier USS Forrestal?"

3. Rivalry between technical publications about obtaining all the details of new devices within their field. This may be the most dangerous "leak" of all since Russia has scientists who can understand the details given as well as can our scientists. The reports also serve to call attention of the Reds to information they may already have, but which had been overlooked in the files.

An atomic war may be different but heretofore the element of surprise in use of new weapons has been largely a part of their effectiveness. That applies to British tanks in World War I, German dive bombers in World War II and V-2 missiles dropped on London from the continent.

Now we'll see if the president himself can do anything to keep a few details from the Communists.

282 Oil, 38 Gas Wells Completed

AUSTIN, April 16 (AP)—Oil and gas activity resulted in completion of 282 oil wells and 38 gas wells this week in Texas.

The completions kept oil well activity well ahead of last year's work, with 4270 wells brought in this year to 3,420 at this time in 1954.

The state now has 156,013 wells in operation.

A total of 128 dry holes were reported, bringing the year's total to 1,934.

The total average calendar day allowable was raised 8,293 barrels per day, from 3,278,293 last week to 3,286,345 this week.

Some 187 wells were plugged—128 dry holes, 1 gas well and 58 oil wells—to bring the total for the year to 2,649.

Single Producer Is Brought In During Past Week

Only one producer, located in the Big Creek field of Franklin parish, was brought in during the past week, according to the weekly field report of oil and gas wells drilled and completed in the Monroe district for the period ending April 14. The report which also listed two wells plugged and abandoned and five new locations, was issued by the local office of the department of conservation, minerals division.

The single producer was the Allen J. Dykes-A. B. Love, No. 1, drilled to 2,918 feet in 2,000 MCF. It is located in Section 32, township 17, range 8 east of the Big Creek field.

Wells plugged and abandoned were:

Concordia parish (Deer Creek field) W. L. Bill-Gauthier & Heard-C. Graham No. 1-A abandoned on April 12 in Sec. 84-5-9E, and the Jett Drlg. Co.-Graham No. 1, abandoned on April 10 in section 48-5-9E.

New locations included:

Caldwell parish (wild cat field) Magnolia Pet. Co.-Hogg No. 1, 945' east of the west line and 712' south of the north line, Sec. 29-13-3E.

Catahoula parish (Ross Bayou field) — R. A. Campbell - Davis et al No. 1, from the southwest corner of section 5, go north 0 degrees 17' west for 1736.5', thence north 89 degrees 43' east for 340' to location in section 5-6-7E.

Concordia parish (wild cat field) —E. C. Wentworth-Sunnyland Contracting Co.-Madison Dev. Co. A-1, from the southwest corner of section 6, run north for 2356.2', thence north 89 degrees 45' east for 676.5' to location in section 6-5-8E.

Richland parish (Big Creek field) — A. & B. Well Service Inc., - Walker No. 1, 430' south of the north line-280' east of the west line of the NW¼ of the NW¼, Sec. 11-16-7E.

Cotton Futures Move Irregularly During Last Week

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Cotton futures prices traced an irregular pattern this week and closed out the period with small net changes.

Active contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices which ranged from $1.25 a bale lower to 65 cents a bale higher than at the close of the previous week. The only deliveries showing net losses were nearby May and July.

Weakness in the nearer months resulted from May liquidation in advance of first notice day. Another depressing factor was a somewhat gloomy outlook for cotton exports for the balance of the current marketing season.

Meanwhile prices were bolstered by trade and mill price fixing and prompted by reports of damaging rains in major growing areas. Some traders bought new crop contracts because they felt prices were only slightly above the prospective 1955 loan rate.

Also on the encouraging side was Exchange Service Bureau of cotton consumption during March.

U.S. textile mills used cotton at the rate of 35,400 bales a day last month, the bureau estimated. This represented a normal seasonal decline from the daily rate of 36,600 bales in February but was well ahead of the 33,800 bales-per-day consumption in March a year ago.

Total use of the staple last month was estimated at 885,000 bales as compared to 844,000 in March last year.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday, April 12, were estimated by the Service Bureau at 59,000 bales vs. 80,000 the previous week and 85,000 in the like week last year. This would lift the total for bales—only a scant 13 per cent above the 2,514,000 recorded at the same time a year ago.

Price Of King-Size Pall Mall, Herbert Tareytons Raised

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) —The American Tobacco Co. has raised the price on its king size Pall Mall and non-filter tip Herbert Tareyton cigarettes.

The price was hiked from $9.10 to $9.50 a thousand. This is a wholesale boost of a little less than one cent a pack.

American Tobacco made no increase in the price of Lucky Strike and filter tip Hebert Tareyton cigarettes. Lucky Strike remains at $9 per thousand and Tareyton at $10 per thousand.

Band Boosters Slate Minstrel

The Band Boosters of Ouachita Parish High School will present "Dixie Chips", a Negro minstrel at the O.P.H.S. auditorium next Saturday evening April 23.

Featuring local talent in its entirety, the minstrel will be packed full of fun and merriment, the sponsor pointed out. Entertainment between acts is also planned.

Proceeds of the show will be used to defray the band's expenses to the Cotton Carnival, which will be held at Memphis, Tenn. in late May.

At Northeast

Yearbook Clinic Is Scheduled

Northeast State will sponsor a yearbook clinic on April 27 for sponsors and staffs of publications produced by high schools and grade schools throughout North Louisiana.

The one day conference on the college campus is being conducted by Dr. Otto W. Quale, a director of the National Scholastic Press Association, with representatives from various yearbook publishing companies participating.

In addition to the program of yearbook preparation, displays and exhibits prepared by publishers in this area will be open to the visitors throughout the clinic.

Purpose of the program is to gain knowledge which will enable the staffs to develop more effective annuals, according to Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, director of publications at Northeast.

The day's conference will open with registration and an informal social period for visiting sponsors and students to become acquainted.

Next on the agenda will be discussions of pertinent factors regarding the preparation of yearbooks. Dr. Quale, formerly a member of the journalism faculty of the University of Minnesota, will emphasize yearbook planning and content. He is to consider such phases as the all-school history, themes and plans, assignment calendar and ladder diagram.

Yearbook layout will be dicussed by a representative of the Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas. Consideration will be given to combining the four page elements and blank space versus white space.

Also scheduled on the agenda will be photography, artwork and its purpose, copywriting and fitting.

Organization of the annual staff, advertising and financing, and a period for questions and review will round out the clinic.

Oklahoma City Selected For Cowboy Hall-Of-Fame

DENVER, April 16—UP— Oklahoma City Saturday was picked as the site for the proposed cowboy hall of fame by a 51-member comstates.

Oklahoma City, whose representatives had offered to underwrite the cost of the hall of fame structure to the extent of $500,000 was picked after the committee members had balloted twice in sessions held at the Brown Palace Hotel.

The other contenders were Dodge City, Kan., and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Dodge City, which sent a huge delegation to push its claim Friday, received only eight votes on the first ballot to 18 for Oklahoma City. Colorado Springs got six.

On the second and final ballot, Oklahoma City got 20, Dodge City 11 and Colorado Springs 1.

Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma and former Gov. Roy J. Turner, wealthy Oklahoma oilman and cattle breeder, headed the Oklahoma delegation.

The three finalists had staged impressive arguments before the selection board Friday.

Three other communities, Cheyenne, Wyo., Canyon, Tex., and North Platte, Neb., which had been eliminated by a site selection committee earlier, also sought re-consideration.

Dodge City put on the most colorful display. A group of 800 Kansans headed by Gov. Fred Hall and Sen. Andrew Schoeppel (R-Kan.) stormed into Denver early Friday. Attired in buckskin, clothing, they paraded through Denver's downtown district before besieging the committee.

Hall told the selection committee that his state had a million residents who had pledged a dollar each to finance construction of the hall of fame, which will honor the men who built the west.

But the Oklahoma delegation promptly offered $500,000 cash to build the structure.

The Oklahoma argument apparently was the more impressive.

Hall said after the result was announced that he was "very disappointed over the outcome and the manner in which the choice was made."

"The entire decision was made on the basis of the offer by Turner and other Oklahomans to underwrite the project financially and not on the basis of the cowboy," the Kansas governor said.

Newellton Seniors Will Present Play

NEWELLTON, La., April 16 — (Special) The senior class of Newellton high school will present its senior play, which is entitled "Cupid in Pigtails," Friday night, April 22.

The play, a Jay Tobias comedy in three acts, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the High School gymnasium.

The senior class invites the general public to attend.

282 Oil, 38 Gas Wells Completed

AUSTIN, April 16 (AP)—Oil and gas activity resulted in completion of 282 oil wells and 38 gas wells this week in Texas.

The completions kept oil well activity well ahead of last year's work, with 4270 wells brought in this year to 3,420 at this time in 1954.

The state now has 156,013 wells in operation.

A total of 128 dry holes were reported, bringing the year's total to 1,934.

The total average calendar day allowable was raised 8,293 barrels per day, from 3,278,293 last week to 3,286,345 this week.

Some 187 wells were plugged—128 dry holes, 1 gas well and 58 oil wells—to bring the total for the year to 2,649.

Single Producer Is Brought In During Past Week

Only one producer, located in the Big Creek field of Franklin parish, was brought in during the past week, according to the weekly field report of oil and gas wells drilled and completed in the Monroe district for the period ending April 14. The report which also listed two wells plugged and abandoned and five new locations, was issued by the local office of the department of conservation, minerals division.

The single producer was the Allen J. Dykes-A. B. Love, No. 1, drilled to 2,918 feet in 2,000 MCF. It is located in Section 32, township 17, range 8 east of the Big Creek field.

Wells plugged and abandoned were:

Concordia parish (Deer Creek field) W. L. Bill-Gauthier & Heard-C. Graham No. 1-A abandoned on April 12 in Sec. 84-5-9E, and the Jett Drlg. Co.-Graham No. 1, abandoned on April 10 in section 48-5-9E.

New locations included:

Catahoula parish (Ross Bayou field) — R. A. Campbell - Davis et al No. 1, from the southwest corner of section 5, go north 0 degrees 17' west for 1736.5', thence north 89 degrees 43' east for 340' to location in section 5-6-7E.

Concordia parish (wild cat field) —E. C. Wentworth-Sunnyland Contracting Co.-Madison Dev. Co. A-1, from the southwest corner of section 6, run north for 2356.2', thence north 89 degrees 45' east for 676.5' to location in section 6-5-8E.

Richland parish (Big Creek field) — A. & B. Well Service Inc., - Walker No. 1, 430' south of the north line-280' east of the west line of the NW¼ of the NW¼, Sec. 11-16-7E.

Cotton Futures Move Irregularly During Last Week

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Cotton futures prices traced an irregular pattern this week and closed out the period with small net changes.

Active contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices which ranged from $1.25 a bale lower to 65 cents a bale higher than at the close of the previous week. The only deliveries showing net losses were nearby May and July.

Weakness in the nearer months resulted from May liquidation in advance of first notice day. Another depressing factor was a somewhat gloomy outlook for cotton exports for the balance of the current marketing season.

Meanwhile prices were bolstered by trade and mill price fixing and prompted by reports of damaging rains in major growing areas. Some traders bought new crop contracts because they felt prices were only slightly above the prospective 1955 loan rate.

Also on the encouraging side was Exchange Service Bureau of cotton consumption during March.

U.S. textile mills used cotton at the rate of 35,400 bales a day last month, the bureau estimated. This represented a normal seasonal decline from the daily rate of 36,600 bales in February but was well ahead of the 33,800 bales-per-day consumption in March a year ago.

Total use of the staple last month was estimated at 885,000 bales as compared to 844,000 in March last year.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday, April 12, were estimated by the Service Bureau at 59,000 bales vs. 80,000 the previous week and 85,000 in the like week last year. This would lift the total for bales—only a scant 13 per cent above the 2,514,000 recorded at the same time a year ago.

Price Of King-Size Pall Mall, Herbert Tareytons Raised

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) —The American Tobacco Co. has raised the price on its king size Pall Mall and non-filter tip Herbert Tareyton cigarettes.

The price was hiked from $9.10 to $9.50 a thousand. This is a wholesale boost of a little less than one cent a pack.

American Tobacco made no increase in the price of Lucky Strike and filter tip Hebert Tareyton cigarettes. Lucky Strike remains at $9 per thousand and Tareyton at $10 per thousand.

Band Boosters Slate Minstrel

The Band Boosters of Ouachita Parish High School will present "Dixie Chips", a Negro minstrel at the O.P.H.S. auditorium next Saturday evening April 23.

Featuring local talent in its entirety, the minstrel will be packed full of fun and merriment, the sponsor pointed out. Entertainment between acts is also planned.

Proceeds of the show will be used to defray the band's expenses to the Cotton Carnival, which will be held at Memphis, Tenn. in late May.

Yearbook Clinic Is Scheduled

Northeast State will sponsor a yearbook clinic on April 27 for sponsors and staffs of publications produced by high schools and grade schools throughout North Louisiana.

The one day conference on the college campus is being conducted by Dr. Otto W. Quale, a director of the National Scholastic Press Association, with representatives from various yearbook publishing companies participating.

In addition to the program of yearbook preparation, displays and exhibits prepared by publishers in this area will be open to the visitors throughout the clinic.

Purpose of the program is to gain knowledge which will enable the staffs to develop more effective annuals, according to Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, director of publications at Northeast.

The day's conference will open with registration and an informal social period for visiting sponsors and students to become acquainted.

Next on the agenda will be discussions of pertinent factors regarding the preparation of yearbooks. Dr. Quale, formerly a member of the journalism faculty of the University of Minnesota, will emphasize yearbook planning and content. He is to consider such phases as the all-school history, themes and plans, assignment calendar and ladder diagram.

Yearbook layout will be dicussed by a representative of the Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas. Consideration will be given to combining the four page elements and blank space versus white space.

Also scheduled on the agenda will be photography, artwork and its purpose, copywriting and fitting.

Organization of the annual staff, advertising and financing, and a period for questions and review will round out the clinic.

Oklahoma City Selected For Cowboy Hall-Of-Fame

DENVER, April 16—UP— Oklahoma City Saturday was picked as the site for the proposed cowboy hall of fame by a 51-member comstates.

Oklahoma City, whose representatives had offered to underwrite the cost of the hall of fame structure to the extent of $500,000 was picked after the committee members had balloted twice in sessions held at the Brown Palace Hotel.

The other contenders were Dodge City, Kan., and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Dodge City, which sent a huge delegation to push its claim Friday, received only eight votes on the first ballot to 18 for Oklahoma City. Colorado Springs got six.

On the second and final ballot, Oklahoma City got 20, Dodge City 11 and Colorado Springs 1.

Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma and former Gov. Roy J. Turner, wealthy Oklahoma oilman and cattle breeder, headed the Oklahoma delegation.

The three finalists had staged impressive arguments before the selection board Friday.

Three other communities, Cheyenne, Wyo., Canyon, Tex., and North Platte, Neb., which had been eliminated by a site selection committee earlier, also sought re-consideration.

Dodge City put on the most colorful display. A group of 800 Kansans headed by Gov. Fred Hall and Sen. Andrew Schoeppel (R-Kan.) stormed into Denver early Friday. Attired in buckskin, clothing, they paraded through Denver's downtown district before besieging the committee.

Hall told the selection committee that his state had a million residents who had pledged a dollar each to finance construction of the hall of fame, which will honor the men who built the west.

But the Oklahoma delegation promptly offered $500,000 cash to build the structure.

The Oklahoma argument apparently was the more impressive.

Hall said after the result was announced that he was "very disappointed over the outcome and the manner in which the choice was made."

"The entire decision was made on the basis of the offer by Turner and other Oklahomans to underwrite the project financially and not on the basis of the cowboy," the Kansas governor said.

Newellton Seniors Will Present Play

NEWELLTON, La., April 16 — (Special) The senior class of Newellton high school will present its senior play, which is entitled "Cupid in Pigtails," Friday night, April 22.

The play, a Jay Tobias comedy in three acts, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the High School gymnasium.

The senior class invites the general public to attend.

Abolition Of Public Schools

South Issues Ultimatum To U. S. Supreme Court

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—The United States Supreme Court heard something from some Southern states this week that sounded a lot like an ultimatum.

If the court orders an immediate end to segregation of white and Negro school children, they said, then there won't be any public schools in some states.

Lawyers representing Negroes and the federal government took the position that was pretty much scare talk—that when it comes to a showdown there won't be as much trouble as some people predict over putting into effect the Supreme Court's decision that segregated schools violate the Constitution.

Even the Southern states said they can work things out—if the problem is left to their own school boards and there is enough time to remold the attitudes of people brought up in the biracial tradition.

Right there is the crux of the arguments that took up four days of the Supreme Court's time this week. The question is how and when to enforce its ruling, handed down 11 months ago tomorrow, that racial segregation in public schools goes against the guarantee of equal rights for all under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

Should the court issue a decree turning the enforcement problem back to federal district courts in which the segregation cases developed? On that, the answer all along the line was "Yes."

Well, then, should it tell these courts that segregation must be ended immediately, and Negroes admitted to the schools of their choice, or should it allow for a gradual period of adjustment?

The answers on that split off in three directions.

There was the repeated refrain from Dixie that there must be no deadline and no definite orders to the lower courts on the way to abolish segregation.

There was the Negro argument that the states already have had 11 months to bring about integration, that they can do it if the national capital could, and that there is no sound reason why it can't be accomplished by next September. But they also said they were willing to wait another year, if the Supreme Court feels more time is needed to work out physical and administrative problems.

Then there was the in-between stand of the U.S. government that the court should avoid both "a fixed and inflexible" time limit and "no limitation at all."

Then the lower courts, it suggested, to allow 90 days for submission of plans for integration "as soon as feasible," or more if there is a "proper showing", that 90 days is unreasonable. But also tell them, it said, that if no satisfactory plan is submitted and approved, then nonsegregated schools must be set up by the time the next school term begins.

All this was in a relaxed, almost casual atmosphere that often contrasts with the weightiness of the issues before the court and with the severity, discipline and fervent legal oratory that may characterize the handling of some criminal case in a lesser tribunal.

Rival lawyers didn't pound fists on tables and shout, although now and then they turned on sarcasm. The nine justices tilted back in their black leather chairs, leaned on their elbows, chatted occasionally among themselves.

Perched far above their heads was an experimental amplifier, in a chamber noted for both its dignified majesty and poor acoustics. There was a microphone for the lawyers and one for each three justices. Those for the justices are movable, but some didn't bother to use them.

So there still were dead spots in the room. A person in one place could catch a question; another somewhere else missed it.

And there were plenty of questions from the bench pointing up the perplexing problem before the court and an awareness of the momentous impact its decree will have.

Only the District of Columbia and four states—Delaware, Kansas, Virginia and South Carolina—are involved directly in the cases before the court. But in 17 other states segregated schools have been required or permitted by law.

One of the questions that seemed to concern the justices was the extent to which their decree can reach the segregation problem in the other 17 states, or even be applied through the whole of the four states directly affected, since the cases arose in individual school districts, communities or counties.

Yet in their original decision of last May 17, the court said that "these are class actions" and their ruling had a "wide applicability."

As most of the lawyers appeared to see it, the decree the justices are expected to issue before the court term ends in June will apply technically to the individual Negro plaintiffs and any others who may intervene in advance of a final judgment.

But attorneys for Negroes and the government indicated the court ought to go beyond that and set up a pattern to guide the entire nation. And the court can say anything it wants to in its decree, or even write an opinion supplementing the one of last May.

U. S. Solicitor Gen. Simon E. Sobeloff said the United States is not concerned merely with a few individuals and "the named plaintiffs" in the segregation cases but whites and Negroes."

Thurgood Marshall, counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, urged upon the court "uniform application of the provisions of the Constitution throughout the country." He said he believes states will end segregation "once the law is made clear."

Some of the court members, Justice Frankfurter in particular, appeared to recognize that there is might do away with their public a possibility that some states might do away with their public school systems rather than accept integration. A state, Frankfurter remarked, "could bring up its children in ignorance."

Frankfurter also said a state might set up a plan for educating children by means of a centralized radio or television system.

On another point that appeared to perturb the justices, Frankfurter commented a bit acidy that "You don't fold your hands and wait for an attitude to change." And Chief Justice Warren said that it isn't a question of attitude but of conforming to court decrees.

Both Warren and Frankfurter aimed their remarks at a South Carolina attorney, S. E. Rogers, who told the court:

"We do wish to work within the framework of the decision. But we do know there must be a change of attitude and those attitudes can't be changed quickly. . . . To say that you have got to change the attitude simply doesn't change it."

Rogers mentioned attitudes, too, when Warren asked whether an "honest attempt" would be made to comply with the court's decision against segregation.

This issue of changing attitudes and obtaining public acceptance was pinpointed time after time, by attorneys for Delaware, Florida, Virginia, Texas and North Carolina.

President Eisenhower has said he believes the court won't be arbitrary and will take emotional and practical problems into consideration. As the administration spokesman before the court, Sobeloff said that: "Attitudes are to be considered but attitudes are not to control."

Throughout the arguments, some of the court members appeared to be pleased when some of the states said they have taken steps toward integration and to bristle a bit when others reported none.

Appealing for time, as opposed to a court order for immediate end to segregation, South Carolina attorney Robert McC Figg jr., said that to direct authorities in his state "to comply tomorrow or else, that would destroy the school system." Similarly, Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almong Jr. of Virginia, said he measured his words in declaring: "We are facing the bleak prospects of serious impairment or possible destruction of the free public school system."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Beverly Lake of North Carolina said a decree to integrate at once would bring "turmoil and confusion" and probably "a death blow" to the public school system. He said there might be "racial tensions and animosities unparalleled" since the days of the Ku Klux Klan.

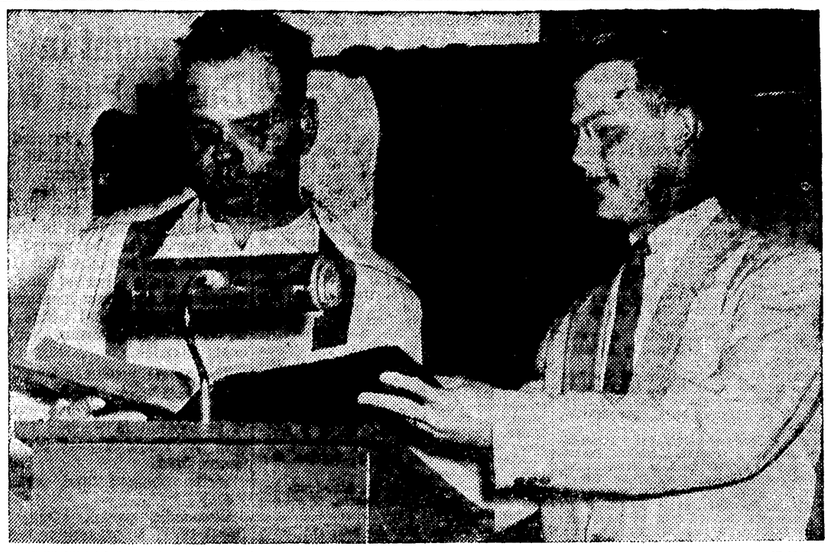

Atty. Gen. Richard W. Ervin of Florida said a "do it and do it now" rule might arouse local resentment, but:

"If you allow us the opportunity to work—not against some deadline—we can bring about complete integration."

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd of Texas warned against possible "social and economic upheaval" from integration before the people are ready to accept it.

To all of which Marshall retorted that those arguing delay mentioned only attitudes and public opinion polls and offered no real plans for desegregation at any time. He said there was no semblance of legal authority for saying that "If you don't give me what I want, I'll close up the public schools."

"There is nothing before this court," the Negro lawyer said, "that shows any justification for giving this interminable gradual adjustment."

Municipal Assn. Convention To Be Group's Largest

The Louisiana Municipal Association's 18th annual convention here April 21-23 is expected to be the largest in history if advance registration is any indication, Mayor P. Armand Viator of New Iberia, LMA president said today.

"It will also be one of the most interesting," Viator predicted.

A major issue to be discussed by representatives of more than 200 of the state's municipalities will be finance—how the cities can meet the growing burden of responsibility placed upon them.

Meeting concurrently with the LMA will be the City Attorneys Association, the City Engineers, and City Clerks Associations.

Viator said the convention will feature discussions on every phase of municipal affairs and an exhibit of municipal equipment that is expected to be the largest in the history of any state association.

The "Mayor of the Year" award will be made at the concluding luncheon of the association on the last day of the session.

Students Kicked Off Campus For Roles In Rioting

LINCOLN, Neb., April 16 —UP— Seven students were expelled Saturday for their part in a "panty raid" that turned into a riot in which seven persons were injured.

The disorders Thursday night drew a severe reprimand from the state legislature and a threat of prosecution from county officials.

The trouble began with a fraternity-sorority water fight.

It grew into a raid on a women's dormitory and sorority houses where male students filched unmentionables, then blossomed into property destruction and violence.

The four - hour demonstration wound up on Lincoln's Main street where students marched shouting "We want beer. We want beer."

A resolution was introduced in the state legislature condemning the "disgraceful" action, calling for the guilty students to be booted out of school and for senators to take another look at the university's 1955-57 budget request.

One state senator got caught in the mob while visiting the campus. He said: "They ought to kick about a hundred of those buzzards out of school and make it stick."

Coeds described the rioters as "a bunch of thugs."

The most serious injury was a broken nose suffered by a male student trying to stop destruction of sorority house property. Eight coeds were hurt trying to protect their unmentionables and other clothing, jewelry and cash.

One coed saw $50 of her money tossed on a bonfire in the middle of the street.

Damage to rooms from which clothing, jewelry, lingerie and money were stolen and furnishings destroyed, has not yet been estimated.

Leaders Converge On Washington

Democrats Predict Victory In '56

WASHINGTON, April 16— UP— Democratic leaders, heady with optimism, heard predictions Saturday that the glamor is wearing off President Eisenhower's administration and that they will "take it all in 1956."

The Democratic leaders gathered here from all over the nation to dine on roast beef, to roast Republicans, and pay tribute to their beloved "Mr. Sam"—Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas—at a $100-a-plate dinner Saturday night.

There were unusual displays of party harmony. Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, leader of the Senate's Southern bloc, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, frequent sponsor of party-splitting civil rights legislation, appeared as featured speakers at a breakfast which started off the day's gatherings.

Russell told the gathering that "we'll take it all in 1956, from 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. down to the precincts."

"The glamor is wearing off this administration," Russell said.

"People are catching onto the fact that Democrats serve all the people and they (the Republicans) have been the party of special interest."

Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.) commented drily on Russell's forecast: "He's a pretty good predicter."

Humphrey said the "real test of a responsible political party is when its members can disagree with respect and decency."

"We have a unity in our party—not a unanimity. If we had unanimity, somebody would be cracking the whip."

A special advisory committee on rules, meanwhile, discussed a proposal for dropping the controversial "loyalty oath" which provoked a North-South split at the 1952 convention.

The proposed resolution before the committee would declare that "no commitments shall be required of delegates to the Democratic national convention in the absence of credentials contests."

The resolution carried with it "the assumption and understanding" that certified delegates automatically undertake to assure that voters in their states will have an opportunity to cast ballots for the presidential and vice presidential nominees under the traditional label.

George Expresses Hope Conference To Get Stability

WASHINGTON, April 16 —UP— Sen. Walter F. George expressed hope Saturday that the Afro-Asian conference opening in Bandung, Indonesia, Monday "may lead to more stability" in Asia.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, told reporters he feels sure the Chinese Communists will not attack in the Formosa Straits while the meeting is in progress.

What will happen as a result of the conference, the Georgia Democrat said, "no one knows." But he said the parley "may be a stepping stone to future conferences among Africans and Asians."

Diplomats here said the Bandung meeting may decide whether the Chinese Communists attack the off-shore islands of Quemoy and Matsu and whether they carry out their threat to assault Nationalist-held Formosa.

If China's cocky premier, Chou En lai, gets heavy conference support for his claim to Formosa and the off-shore islands, experts here feel there probably will be major new trouble in the Formosa Straits.

But if he fails to get much support, they said the chances of avoiding war in the area will be considerably better, although the possibility is not ruled out altogether.

Officials here doubt that Chou En Lai can whip up much enthusiasm for Red China's claim to Formosa. But they think he might get some backing for the off-shore islands which have traditionally been linked to the mainland.

While the Bandung conference is on, the United States and Britain have agreed not to pursue any diplomatic moves that might tip African - Asian sentiment against the West.

Georgia Attorney General Hits U. S. High Court Ruling

ATLANTA, April 16 (AP) — Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook of Georgia today challenged authority of the U. S. Supreme Court to fix some future date for its decision outlawing public school segregation to become effective.

Defending his decision not to take part in recent arguments before the court on that question, Cook said only Congress has authority to implement an amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

In a letter to editor W. J. Robertson of the Savannah Morning News, Cook said an amendment to the federal Constitution "becomes the law of the land instanter, unless implemented by Congress."

On last May 17, the court said public school segregation violates the 14th Amendment. Attorneys general of affected states were invited to argue how and when the decision should be put into effect.

Cook said the court "very shrewdly obligated" the attorneys general who did participate "to insist that the citizens of their respective states comply with such decree or decrees."

Challenging the court's authority to hold the arguments, Cook said, "constitutional lawyers are unable to find any precedent in which the U. S. Supreme Court said to the President of the United States and to Congress that an amendment to the federal constitution could not be enforced until a given date."

"Had I officially appeared," Cook wrote Robertson, ". . . I would have necessarily officially conceded the right of that court to usurp the prerogative of Congress and the people."

Some of the Southern States pleaded for time in which to put the desegregation decree into effect. Cook said Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, argued the court should enforce its decision forthwith because it was without authority to postpone it.

"In this I concur with Mr. Marshall," the Georgia official added.

Cook also noted that "in his first brief, U. S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell demanded that the court enforce its decision forthwith." Twelve months later, in his second brief, Cook said, Brownell "completely reversed this position and begged the court to proceed with caution, for fear enforcement would result in violence."

Mexico-New York Marijuana Racket Smashed By U. S.

HOUSTON —UP— Police and federal narcotics agents broke up a $1 million Mexico-to-New York marijuana ring which used Houston for a headquarters.

Disclosure of the narcotics ring came in a sealed indictment by a federal grand jury Friday charging 12 persons with conspiracy and smuggling of more than 840 pounds of marijuana, worth more than $1 million on the retail market. Five persons were arrested Saturday and police and agents here and in Mexico were hunting the others.

Two of those indicted, arrested Friday night, were John E. Sutton, 27, and Everett V. Cooper, 35, both Negroes. Bond was set at $50,000. Jailed Saturday under $10,000 bonds were three other Negroes—Nathan Johnson, 32; Ed Riley, 61, and Willie Winn, 41.

Agents said the supplier of the narcotic weed was Leo Ochoa, at large in Mexico. He was named in the indictment, opened Saturday. Nine other persons were named in the indictment but were not charged.

Abolition Of Public Schools

South Issues Ultimatum To U. S. Supreme Court

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—The United States Supreme Court heard something from some Southern states this week that sounded a lot like an ultimatum.

If the court orders an immediate end to segregation of white and Negro school children, they said, then there won't be any public schools in some states.

Lawyers representing Negroes and the federal government took the position that was pretty much scare talk—that when it comes to a showdown there won't be as much trouble as some people predict over putting into effect the Supreme Court's decision that segregated schools violate the Constitution.

Even the Southern states said they can work things out—if the problem is left to their own school boards and there is enough time to remold the attitudes of people brought up in the biracial tradition.

Right there is the crux of the arguments that took up four days of the Supreme Court's time this week. The question is how and when to enforce its ruling, handed down 11 months ago tomorrow, that racial segregation in public schools goes against the guarantee of equal rights for all under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

Should the court issue a decree turning the enforcement problem back to federal district courts in which the segregation cases developed? On that, the answer all along the line was "Yes."

Well, then, should it tell these courts that segregation must be ended immediately, and Negroes admitted to the schools of their choice, or should it allow for a gradual period of adjustment?

The answers on that split off in three directions.

There was the repeated refrain from Dixie that there must be no deadline and no definite orders to the lower courts on the way to abolish segregation.

There was the Negro argument that the states already have had 11 months to bring about integration, that they can do it if the national capital could, and that there is no sound reason why it can't be accomplished by next September. But they also said they were willing to wait another year, if the Supreme Court feels more time is needed to work out physical and administrative problems.

Then there was the in-between stand of the U.S. government that the court should avoid both "a fixed and inflexible" time limit and "no limitation at all."

Then the lower courts, it suggested, to allow 90 days for submission of plans for integration "as soon as feasible," or more if there is a "proper showing", that 90 days is unreasonable. But also tell them, it said, that if no satisfactory plan is submitted and approved, then nonsegregated schools must be set up by the time the next school term begins.

All this was in a relaxed, almost casual atmosphere that often contrasts with the weightiness of the issues before the court and with the severity, discipline and fervent legal oratory that may characterize the handling of some criminal case in a lesser tribunal.

Rival lawyers didn't pound fists on tables and shout, although now and then they turned on sarcasm. The nine justices tilted back in their black leather chairs, leaned on their elbows, chatted occasionally among themselves.

Perched far above their heads was an experimental amplifier, in a chamber noted for both its dignified majesty and poor acoustics. There was a microphone for the lawyers and one for each three justices. Those for the justices are movable, but some didn't bother to use them.

So there still were dead spots in the room. A person in one place could catch a question; another somewhere else missed it.

And there were plenty of questions from the bench pointing up the perplexing problem before the court and an awareness of the momentous impact its decree will have.

Only the District of Columbia and four states—Delaware, Kansas, Virginia and South Carolina—are involved directly in the cases before the court. But in 17 other states segregated schools have been required or permitted by law.

One of the questons that seemed to concern the justices was the extent to which their decree can reach the segregation problem in the other 17 states, or even be applied through the whole of the four states directly affected, since the cases arose in individual school districts, communities or counties.

Yet in their original decision of last May 17, the court said that "these are class actions" and their ruling had a "wide applicability."

As most of the lawyers appeared to see it, the decree the justices are expected to issue before the court term ends in June will apply technically to the individual Negro plaintiffs and any others who may intervene in advance of a final judgment.

But attorneys for Negroes and the government indicated the court ought to go beyond that and set up a pattern to guide the entire nation. And the court can say anything it wants to in its decree, or even write an opinion supplementing the one of last May.

U. S. Solicitor Gen. Simon E. Sobeloff said the United States is not concerned merely with a few individuals and "the named plaintiffs" in the segregation cases but whites and Negroes."

Thurgood Marshall, counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, urged upon the court "uniform application of the provisions of the Constitution throughout the country." He said he believes states will end segregation "once the law is made clear."

Some of the court members, Justice Frankfurter in particular, appeared to recognize that there is might do away with their public a possibility that some states might do away with their public school systems rather than accept integration. A state, Frankfurter remarked, "could bring up its children in ignorance."

Frankfurter also said a state might set up a plan for educating children by means of a centralized radio or television system.

On another point that appeared to perturb the justices, Frankfurter commented a bit acidy that "You don't fold your hands and wait for an attitude to change." And Chief Justice Warren said that it isn't a question of attitude but of conforming to court decrees.

Both Warren and Frankfurter aimed their remarks at a South Carolina attorney, S. E. Rogers, who told the court:

"We do wish to work within the framework of the decision. But we do know there must be a change of attitude and those attitudes can't be changed quickly. . . . To say that you have got to change the attitude simply doesn't change it."

Rogers mentioned attitudes, too, when Warren asked whether an "honest attempt" would be made to comply with the court's decision against segregation.

This issue of changing attitudes and obtaining public acceptance was pinpointed time after time, by attorneys for Delaware, Florida, Virginia, Texas and North Carolina.

President Eisenhower has said he believes the court won't be arbitrary and will take emotional and practical problems into consideration. As the administration spokesman before the court, Sobeloff said that: "Attitudes are to be considered but attitudes are not to control."

Throughout the arguments, some of the court members appeared to be pleased when some of the states said they have taken steps toward integration and to bristle a bit when others reported none.

Appealing for time, as opposed to a court order for immediate end to segregation, South Carolina attorney Robert McC Figg jr., said that to direct authorities in his state "to comply tomorrow or else, that would destroy the school system." Similarly, Atty. Gen. J. Lindsay Almong Jr. of Virginia, said he measured his words in declaring: "We are facing the bleak prospects of serious impairment or possible destruction of the free public school system."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Beverly Lake of North Carolina said a decree to integrate at once would bring "turmoil and confusion" and probably "a death blow" to the public school system. He said there might be "racial tensions and animosities unparalleled" since the days of the Ku Klux Klan.

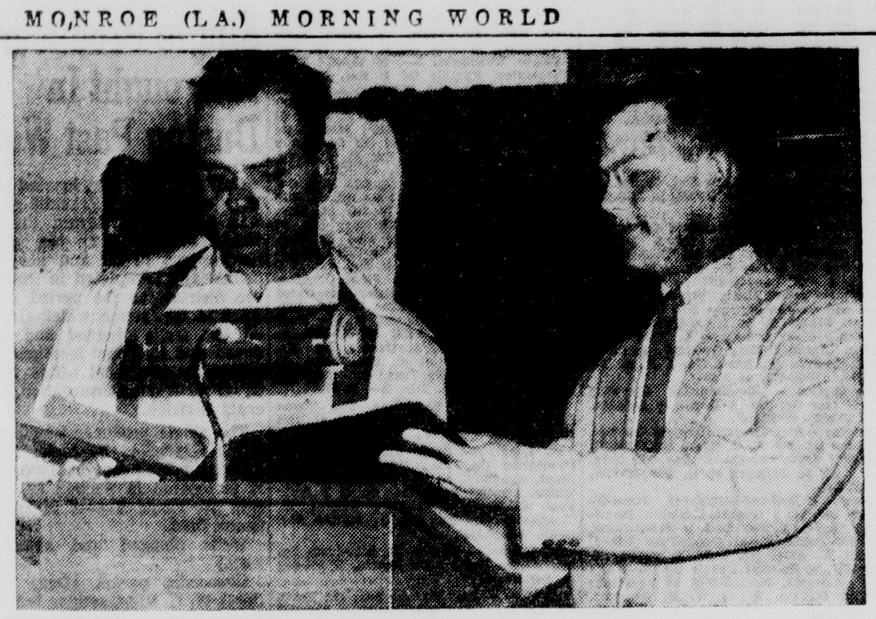

Atty. Gen. Richard W. Ervin of Florida said a "do it and do it now" rule might arouse local resentment, but:

"If you allow us the opportunity to work—not against some deadline—we can bring about complete integration."

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd of Texas warned against possible "social and economic upheaval" from integration before the people are ready to accept it.

To all of which Marshall retorted that those arguing delay mentioned only attitudes and public opinion polls and offered no real plans for desegregation at any time. He said there was no semblance of legal authority for saying that "If you don't give me what I want, I'll close up the public schools."

"There is nothing before this court," the Negro lawyer said, "that shows any justification for giving this interminable gradual adjustment."

Municipal Assn. Convention To Be Group's Largest

The Louisiana Municipal Association's 18th annual convention here April 21-23 is expected to be the largest in history if advance registration is any indication, Mayor P. Armand Viator of New Iberia, LMA president said today.

"It will also be one of the most interesting," Viator predicted.

A major issue to be discussed by representatives of more than 200 of the state's municipalities will be finance—how the cities can meet the growing burden of responsibility placed upon them.

Meeting concurrently with the LMA will be the City Attorneys Association, the City Engineers, and City Clerks Associations.

Viator said the convention will feature discussions on every phase of municipal affairs and an exhibit of municipal equipment that is expected to be the largest in the history of any state association.

The "Mayor of the Year" award will be made at the concluding luncheon of the association on the last day of the session.

Students Kicked Off Campus For Roles In Rioting

LINCOLN, Neb., April 16 —UP— Seven students were expelled Saturday for their part in a "panty raid" that turned into a riot in which seven persons were injured.

The disorders Thursday night drew a severe reprimand from the state legislature and a threat of prosecution from county officials.

After One Of Naval History's Greatest Disasters

U. S. Aircraft Carrier Bennington Ready For Return To Sea; 11 Months' Repair Work Ends

By WATSON SIMS

BAYONNE, N. J., April 16 (AP)—"That's a good lead for you," said the stocky, red-haired man with four gold stripes on his sleeve.

"You can say that our deck is canted and our hats are cocked," said Capt. William F. Raborn. "We're ready to go."

For almost a year the carrier has been bound to the docks and coastal waters of the New York-New England area. Nine months were spent in the New York Naval Shipyard, where the 40,000-ton craft was launched in 1944.

Now sea trials and final checks have been completed. Next Monday she will sail into her home port of Quonset Point, R.I., fully equipped and ready for duty.

The Bennington goes back not simply as a discharged patient, healed of wounds ripped last May 26 by explosions that killed 103 men and wounded more than a hundred others.

Those wounds have long since been closed. In addition, the Bennington has undergone an 11½-million-dollar overhaul that makes her perhaps the most up-to-date carrier in the fleet.

Her catapults, where the explosions began, have been repaired and improved for the handling of heavier aircraft.

Her 856-foot flight deck has been strengthened and "canted." The effect of canting is as if a giant plank had been pushed slightly out flush with, the flight deck, beginning at the stern and extending more than half the length of the ship; and then the front of the plank had been pushed sligtly out to port.

Incoming planes land on this angled section. The forward section of the flight deck is given over exclusively to parking or launching aircraft. And there is no danger now that the pilot who overshoots his landing will crash into parked aircraft or those being launched.

The Bennington now is the only U.S. carrier in which the bow has been built up and molded with the flight deck itself. On other carriers the flight deck juts shelflike above the bow. Under extreme weather conditions, there is a danger that the old-style deck might be warped or pushed upward by the sea while ploughing through towering waves.

These alterations bring to the Bennington the very latest trends in carrier design, both from the standpoint of seaworthiness and efficient handling of bigger, faster and heavier planes.

How many of these changes were affected by the disaster off Newport?

Very few, says Capt. Raborn.

The modernization had been scheduled before the explosions. It was to have begun last November. The accident only advanced the date.

Then what, if any, lessons were taught by the Navy's second major catapult casualty in less than a year?

Both the Bennington and the USS Leyte have hydraulic type catapults—devices which used fluid and air pressure of around 4,000 pounds per square inch to launch planes at flying speeds of more than 100 m.p.h.

On Oct. 16, 1953, an explosion in the Leyte's catapult killed 37 men while the mechanism was being tested in the Boston Naval Shipyard.

The Leyte and Bennington accidents were similar in one respect: both involved explosions of vaporized hydraulic fluid.

A naval board of inquiry concluded that the Leyte explosion was touched off when "someone unknown or dead" injected air under great pressure into a closed-end gauge tube of oil. The oil was ignited and the flames spread to the main hydraulic system.

The board of inquiry which investigated the Bennington casualty has never made public its report. It has been made clear, however, that the tragedy was due to an "unnatural and abnormal phenomena" in which no human error was involved.

In some freak manner vaporized fluid in the hydraulic system was ignited after the catapult had been used to launch 20 planes.

The initial explosion was in the port catapult room. Deadly gases were carried by the ventilation system to other sections of the ship, and new explosions took a heavy toll in officers' wardrooms and a crew's living space.

Even before — and completely unconnected with — these accidents, a potential revolution had been under way in naval catapults. A steam-driven model, capable of handling heavier planes, was being installed on new carriers.

Although the Bennington retained her hydraulic catapults, Capt. Raborn said they were modified so as to make "extremely remote" any possibility that the accident might be repeated.

Swooosh Again!

Yes, the builders have now moved us back to the other side of our building.

You'll find us there Monday — Officers, Tellers, Savings, Statements, Safety Deposit, Trust — all of us back in the big building, where we shall remain until completion of the entire remodeling.

We appreciate your kind indulgence and hope we have continued to serve you in the same old "Central way," even under rather upset circumstances.

And, when it is all completed — around the first of June — how fine it will then be, "as time goes on."

Oil Import Cuts

Close Ballot In Senate Finance Group Expected

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — Both sides today predicted a close vote in the Senate Finance Committee on the proposal to cut the nation's oil imports — a key issue in the battle over President Eisenhower's foreign trade program.

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla), who opposes the oil quota amendment, said he believed it might be adopted in the committee by one vote, 8-7.

But a committee member supporting the proposal, who declined use of his name, said "as of now we lack the eighth vote" needed to win.

The Finance Committee, which has been working for a month and a half on the foreign trade bill passed by the House, plans to start voting Tuesday on numerous amendments.

The bill extends the reciprocal trade agreements law three years and gives the President new power to cut tariffs 15 per cent.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) would like to complete work on the measure and report it to the floor by the end of the week.

But he declined to predict the outcome of the voting other than to say "it is going to be a tough battle."

The Virginian, who is generally supporting the President's program, said he hoped he could persuade a sizeable majority of the committee to agree on a bill and then stand behind it on the floor.

A key point in the strategy of the supporters is to beat off all amendments designed to give relief to one specific product. They believe that if one gets in, it will be impossible to head off a flood of amendments.

The oil quota amendment, sponsored by Sen. Neely (D-WVa) and 16 other senators, is regarded as highly important in this strategy, because it has perhaps the most potent support.

It would limit all oil imports to 10 per cent of domestic consumption. This would mean a substantial cut in crude imports and a much heavier slash in shipments to this country of residual oil. This is oil left over from the refining process and is used for industrial fuel.

Lined up behind the amendment are oil, coal and railroad interests, the latter because some coal-hauling lines have lost much business and blame it on residual fuel oil imports.

The oil industry is split on the amendment; independents support it but the giant companies with foreign holdings oppose it and say they will voluntarily limit imports.

Stocks Finish Recovery From March Break; Move To New All-Time Records

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—A new record high mark was reached this week by the stock market. That completes the recovery from the major March break.

The market now has racked up eight straight advances, an unusually long string, with the last four establishing new highs.

It was last March 4 that the market reached a new top with the Associated Press average of 60 stocks at $162.60. Right after that it tumbled for six days in a major reaction. It took nearly five weeks of steady recovery to overcome the effects of that deep drop. At the end of this week the AP average stood at $164.80, a new record high.

The fact that the market was able to rise out of the depths with continuous strength to new highs doesn't mean that it can keep on going at that same rate, brokers point out. When the market starts probing into uncharted territory as it is now, it immediately becomes vulnerable to another reaction.

Of course the market has a solid platform of excellent business on which to stand. Here are some of the items.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks thinks this year may be the nation's best business year. The Federal Reserve said industrial production in March was at a two-year high.

And a trickle of first quarter earnings reports made cheerful reading.

Perhaps the most gratifying development was the manner in which the stock market took the news that the Federal Reserve discount rate had been boosted to 1 per cent from 1½ per cent.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Avco Mfg. up ⅜ at 7⅞ on 341,700 shares; Chrysler up 6⅝ at 80, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton off ¾ at 19⅛; Anaconda Copper up 2 at 63½, and Merck off ¾ at 27.

U. S. government bonds ended the week on a firm note.

After One Of Naval History's Greatest Disasters

U. S. Aircraft Carrier Bennington Ready For Return To Sea; 11 Months' Repair Work Ends

By WATSON SIMS

BAYONNE, N. J., April 16 (AP)—"That's a good lead for you," said the stocky, red-haired man with four gold stripes on his sleeve.

"You can say that our deck is canted and our hats are cocked," said Capt. William F. Raborn. "We're ready to go."

For almost a year the carrier has been bound to the docks and coastal waters of the New York-New England area. Nine months were spent in the New York Naval Shipyard, where the 40,000-ton craft was launched in 1944.

Now sea trials and final checks have been completed. Next Monday she will sail into her home port of Quonset Point, R.I., fully equipped and ready for duty.

The Bennington goes back not simply as a discharged patient, healed of wounds ripped last May 26 by explosions that killed 103 men and wounded more than a hundred others.

Those wounds have long since been closed. In addition, the Bennington has undergone an 11½-million-dollar overhaul that makes her perhaps the most up-to-date carrier in the fleet.

Her catapults, where the explosions began, have been repaired and improved for the handling of heavier aircraft.

Her 856-foot flight deck has been strengthened and "canted." The effect of canting is as if a giant plank had been pushed slightly out flush with, the flight deck, beginning at the stern and extending more than half the length of the ship; and then the front of the plank had been pushed sligtly out to port.

Incoming planes land on this angled section. The forward section of the flight deck is given over exclusively to parking or launching aircraft. And there is no danger now that the pilot who overshoots his landing will crash into parked aircraft or those being launched.

The Bennington now is the only U.S. carrier in which the bow has been built up and molded with the flight deck itself. On other carriers the flight deck juts shelflike above the bow. Under extreme weather conditions, there is a danger that the old-style deck might be warped or pushed upward by the sea while ploughing through towering waves.

These alterations bring to the Bennington the very latest trends in carrier design, both from the standpoint of seaworthiness and efficient handling of bigger, faster and heavier planes.

How many of these changes were affected by the disaster off Newport?

Very few, says Capt. Raborn.

The modernization had been scheduled before the explosions. It was to have begun last November. The accident only advanced the date.

Then what, if any, lessons were taught by the Navy's second major catapult casualty in less than a year?

Both the Bennington and the USS Leyte have hydraulic type catapults—devices which used fluid and air pressure of around 4,000 pounds per square inch to launch planes at flying speeds of more than 100 m.p.h.

On Oct. 16, 1953, an explosion in the Leyte's catapult killed 37 men while the mechanism was being tested in the Boston Naval Shipyard.

The Leyte and Bennington accidents were similar in one respect: both involved explosions of vaporized hydraulic fluid.

A naval board of inquiry concluded that the Leyte explosion was touched off when "someone unknown or dead" injected air under great pressure into a closed-end gauge tube of oil. The oil was ignited and the flames spread to the main hydraulic system.

The board of inquiry which investigated the Bennington casualty has never made public its report. It has been made clear, however, that the tragedy was due to an "unnatural and abnormal phenomena" in which no human error was involved.

In some freak manner vaporized fluid in the hydraulic system was ignited after the catapult had been used to launch 20 planes.

The initial explosion was in the port catapult room. Deadly gases were carried by the ventilation system to other sections of the ship, and new explosions took a heavy toll in officers' wardrooms and a crew's living space.

Even before — and completely unconnected with — these accidents, a potential revolution had been under way in naval catapults. A steam-driven model, capable of handling heavier planes, was being installed on new carriers.

Although the Bennington retained her hydraulic catapults, Capt. Raborn said they were modified so as to make "extremely remote" any possibility that the accident might be repeated.

Oil Import Cuts

Close Ballot In Senate Finance Group Expected

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP) — Both sides today predicted a close vote in the Senate Finance Committee on the proposal to cut the nation's oil imports — a key issue in the battle over President Eisenhower's foreign trade program.

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla), who opposes the oil quota amendment, said he believed it might be adopted in the committee by one vote, 8-7.

But a committee member supporting the proposal, who declined use of his name, said "as of now we lack the eighth vote" needed to win.

The Finance Committee, which has been working for a month and a half on the foreign trade bill passed by the House, plans to start voting Tuesday on numerous amendments.

The bill extends the reciprocal trade agreements law three years and gives the President new power to cut tariffs 15 per cent.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) would like to complete work on the measure and report it to the floor by the end of the week.

But he declined to predict the outcome of the voting other than to say "it is going to be a tough battle."

The Virginian, who is generally supporting the President's program, said he hoped he could persuade a sizeable majority of the committee to agree on a bill and then stand behind it on the floor.

A key point in the strategy of the supporters is to beat off all amendments designed to give relief to one specific product. They believe that if one gets in, it will be impossible to head off a flood of amendments.

The oil quota amendment, sponsored by Sen. Neely (D-WVa) and 16 other senators, is regarded as highly important in this strategy, because it has perhaps the most potent support.

It would limit all oil imports to 10 per cent of domestic consumption. This would mean a substantial cut in crude imports and a much heavier slash in shipments to this country of residual oil. This is oil left over from the refining process and is used for industrial fuel.

Lined up behind the amendment are oil, coal and railroad interests, the latter because some coal-hauling lines have lost much business and blame it on residual fuel oil imports.

The oil industry is split on the amendment; independents support it but the giant companies with foreign holdings oppose it and say they will voluntarily limit imports.

Northeast State's Summer Lab To Open On June 13

Northeast State's Summer Laboratory School will open June 13 and extend through August 12, announce William M. Smith, dean of the college.

Since enrollment is limited, parents who are interested in having their children attend school should get in touch with Mrs. Evelyn Otts, director of teacher training, who will furnish application forms.

Persons desiring to do student teaching in the Laboratory School should immediately contact Mrs. Otts in order that provision for this service can be made.

The Laboratory School will offer work from the first through the eighth grades. It will operate on a five-day schedule during the nine-week period, with classes beginning at 8:15 and ending at 11:50 a.m.

Registration cost for the entire session is $5.

All classes, which will be under the instruction of experienced teachers, are designed to assist the child who needs help in any given subject and also the unusually gifted pupil who would benefit from special guidance.

Classes in all basic subjects such as reading and arithmetic will be taught. Typing courses which proved popular last summer will be offered again. Projects and unit work will be emphasized and pupils are to be encouraged to participate in the creative and recreational arts.

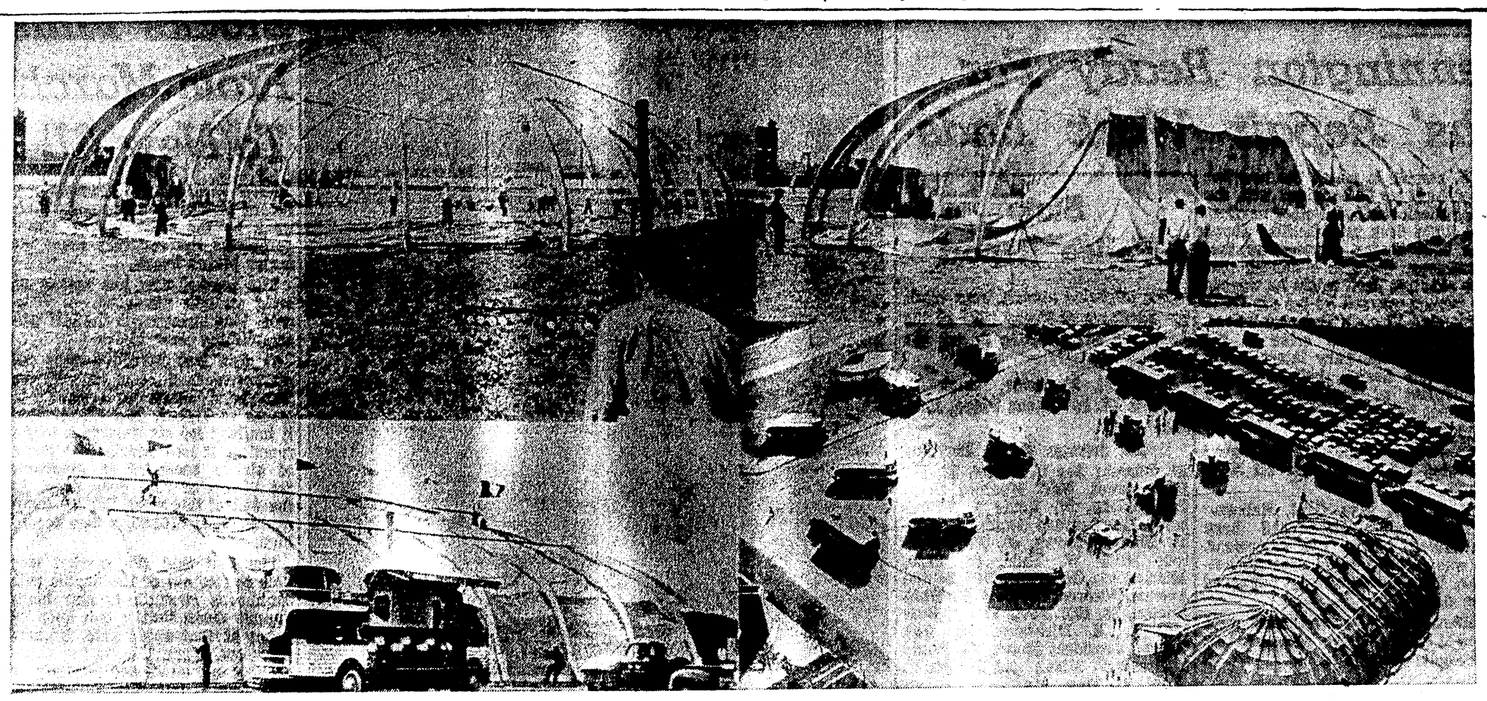

Although the school affords opportunity to broaden the child's educational experiences, the college will not give credit for the subjects studied. Beginning first graders are not to be included in the program of study.

The school will be open at all time to visitors and observers, Dean Smith said.

Mass Salk Inoculations Start In Calif. Schools

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 16—UP—Smoothly-working doctor-nurse teams Saturday completed the nation's first mass inoculation of school children with Salk vaccine in record-breaking time.

The county medical society, which serves as co-ordinating agency for the anti-polio program, said it had received reports from several of the 53 schools where the inoculations were being given and all said they were running ahead of schedule.

It was estimated that nearly 30,000 children from the first and second grades received their first shot of a series of two. It was planned to give the second shot on May 7.

In New York, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said that distribution of polio vaccine throughout the southern part of the United States would be completed by Monday.

Dr. G. Foard McGinnes, in charge of the foundation's distribution program, said drug manufacturers had been instructed to deliver vaccine first in the South and then move north.

"We're delivering vaccine the way polio moves, from south to north," he said.

He said that the entire country south of a line extending from Delaware's northern border to the central California coast would be supplied by Monday. Then vaccine supplies will start moving to northern areas, he said.

Almost every doctor's office in the county was closed Saturday. Many of the physicians who administered the inoculation at the schools brought their own office nurses with them.

"Closed for the day. Giving polio shots," the sign said.

More than 160 doctors took their places at the schools with an additional 40 on a standby basis. Less than 30 minutes after the start of the program, one doctor received an emergency call and was forced to rush to a hospital.

The medical society said they had a standby doctor en route to the school within 10 minutes.

Dr. J. B. Askew, county health director, and a staff toured the various schools to observe progress of the mass inoculation. He telephoned his report to the medical society every half hour.

Dr. Lester B. Martin, president of the American Medical Society, praised the work being done in San Diego. In a telegram to the San Diego county medical society, he said:

"Members of the San Diego county medical society are to be congratulated for their quick action in providing polio inoculation four days after the Salk vaccine announcement. By spearheading this community-wide project, the San Diego doctors have shown civic spirit that is a tribute to their whole medical profession."

Askew credited success of the mass inoculation to co-ordination and advance planning. Consent slips were sent to the homes of first and second graders more than 10 days before it was known if the Salk vaccine would be approved. Six thousand five hundred syringes and 20,000 hypodermic needles had been ordered from New York in anticipation that the vaccine would prove successful.

24 Race Horses Die As Result Of Flash Stable Fire

LINCOLN, R. I., April 16—UP—Twenty-four horses were burned to death, killed by racing fire trucks, or destroyed because of injuries in a flash fire in a Lincoln Downs race track barn Saturday.

Stampeding horses, maddened by fire, nearly ran down firemen at one point during the predawn blaze in "barn T" at the track. None of the horses killed was nationally known.

Eight hours after the fire, track hands still were rounding up more than 100 horses, freed from other stables at the start of the fire. Two vanloads were brought back from points 15 miles away.

Several of the horses killed had been freed from the burning barn but ran back to their deaths despite stablehands attempts to save them. One frightened horse leaped over a passing car, kicking in its windshield.

The fire, believed to have started by overheated wiring, began about 2 a. m. and was out an hour later.

At dawn all that was left was charred ruins with poles standing where stalls had been. Track workers, hauling the carcasses onto trucks by winches and cables knocked even these over.

Racing crowds, arriving for the next-to-the-last day of spring racing at the Downs had to pass by the blood-red trucks and their grisly cargo.

Hit By Golden Axe

Godfrey's Firing Of Singers Leads To Many Offers

NEW YORK, April 16—UP—Singers dismissed without notice from Arthur Godfrey's radio and television "family" discovered Saturday they had been struck down by a golden axe.

Job offers poured in on five of the six performers dismissed by Godfrey after his morning program Friday.

Marion Marlow, who has been singing on five Godfrey shows a week for $1,500 a week for the last four years, will get $3,000 a show for appearing on 12 Ed Sullivan Sunday night TV programs.

Miss Marlow's salary will be paid at a rate of $300 a minute for each 10-minute appearance. She received $300 a program from Godfrey.

The quartet, the "Mariners," was ousted with Miss Marlow only a day after introducing a new song, "Didn't Come to Say Hello But to say Goodbye," on Godfrey's show. They sang in Boston Friday night before a blue-blood audience that included Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter.

The Mariners said they had received a number of luctrative job offers and already were booked for an appearance May 1 in Providence, R. I.

The Mariners, Miss Marlow, Hawaiian singer Haleloke and three writers all were dismissed by Godfrey. All the performers have been under contract to the Columbia Broadcasting System, however, and will be paid for the remainder of their contracts. The Mariners said their contract will run out in June.

It was learned that Godfrey had been wanting for some time to cut his regular cast sharply but he took those affected completely by surprise when he fired them. A source close to Godfrey said the performers' popularity ratings had dropped considerably in recent months and he wanted to change the format of his programs.

But being fired apparently was a "kiss of gold" for most of those involved. Their cases were similar to that of singer Julius La Rosa, who was fired by Godfrey in October, 1953, because he lacked "humility." La Rosa became more famous than ever before and went on to make about $1,000 a day from theater, nightclub and TV engagements.

$100,000 Missing After Doctor Dies Of Heart Attack

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 16—UP—Police disclosed Saturday that a wealthy Milwaukee physician died here three days ago while writing a note in his apartment here that a "red-haired stranger" had stolen a large sum of money, perhaps as much as $100,000, from him.

"Please find him...I fear a heart attack coming on...Please call a priest," the note said.

Police disclosed only Saturday that Dr. Albert P. Napientek, about 60, died last Wednesday. His body was found slumped over a desk in his apartment. The note was on the desk, unfinished.

Detective Robert Thompson said Dr. Napientek's death was concealed until Saturday while an investigation was made into the "large sum of cash" the physician said was stolen.

Thompson said the cash may amount to $100,000.

The detective said a Southwide search is being made for the red-haired stranger whose name was given in the note written by Dr. Napientek just before he died.

Officers said the physician left Milwaukee last February after withdrawing $10,900 from a joint bank account he held with his wife. Also memorandum slips were found listing sums of cash totaling $92,500.

A search here turned up $1,800 in a Miami savings account and $1,605.25 in cash in his pockets. Bruce Randolph, a Milwaukee attorney who was representing Mrs. Victoria Napientek in a divorce action, came here to assist officers in the case.

Shrimpers Open Season In State

NEW ORLEANS April 16 —UP— The shrimp season opened again today in Louisiana.

The season, closed since Feb. 15, will remain open until June 21, said L. D. Young Jr., director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

Trawling for shrimp will be legal in all Louisiana waters not covered by special regulation or law.

Young said the size limit on saltwater shrimp is not more than 68 to the pound. However, this restriction does not apply to shrimp taken or had in possession for bait for any one person in any one day.

Thai Premier, After Long And Stormy Career, Plans First Visit To Americas

By OLEN CLEMENTS

BANGKOK, Thailand, April 13 (AP)—Down the 18-mile old elephant trail to Bangkok's airport glided two smart new cars—a Mercedes-Benz and a Ford Thunderbird.

In front of the VIP entrance the two cars braked to a stop. From the Mercedes-Benz stepped grim Premier P. Pibulsonggram, next to King Phumiphon Aduldet the most powerful man in Thailand. Out of the Thunderbird stepped U. S. Ambassador John Peurifoy, diplomatic trouble-shooter for President Eisenhower.

They smiled and shook hands. They have much in common. They were at the airport to greet a visiting dignitary from another Asian neighbor — the Premier of Cambodia.

Pibulsonggram is 57. He has been premier, off and on, since 1938.

He was an ally of Japan in World War II. His bitter foe, Nai Pridi Phanomyong, Thailand's first post-war premier, led the Thai resistance which cooperated with the Allies throughout the war.

Today Pridi, ousted from Thailand, is in Red China as head of an announced liberation movement which Pibulsonggram says has 20,000 troops ready to strike at Thailand.

Pubulsonggram first became prominent in this kingdom of 19 million in October 1933. A bloodless antiroyalist revolution had replaced feudalism with constitutional government. Then a royalist group tried to overthrow the new regime. Pibulsonggram, a lieutenant colonel in the army, led in putting down the uprising.

He became defense minister, deputy commander in chief of the army, and the accepted leader of Thailand's military caste. As premier in 1938 he made friends with Japan. In 1940-41 he went to war with France in neighboring Indochina. With Tokyo's backing he won four provinces from the Kingdom of Camobdia. Nominally he sided with the Allies until Pearl Harbor. But his troops fought only a few hours after Japan struck. Pibulsonggram submitted to a Japanese ultimatum and ordered his troops to lay down their arms.

Rival Pridi, a Paris - trained lawyer, became regent for King Ananda, then a 15-year-old schoolboy in Switzerland, and leader of the underground Free Thai movement. In 1944 the Free Thai forces compelled Pibulsonggram to resign. At the end of the war he was in national disrepute.

But Pridi had a rough time as premier. Corruption in his regime became rampant. His followers split. Then in 1946 King Ananda Mahidol was shot to death. Pridi tried to explain it as an accident but the people believed the young King had been murdered.

Pridi had to step down. While the economic situation also deteriorated, Pibulsonggram and his followers were making plans. In 1947 his bloodless coup d'etat returned the old military group to control. Pridi was driven from the country, Pibulsonggram resumed the premiership.

The road back has not been smooth. Pridi in 1949 led an abortive coup which seized the grand palace before it flopped. In 1951 during ceremonies marking the delivery of a dredge boat from the United States, a group of naval officers kidnaped Pibulsonggram before the eyes of U. S. Ambassador Edwin F. Stanton. But the Premier was too hot to hold and he was released after one night.

The Premier's strength has diminished somewhat from its high. Although he is defense minister, the army is under Gen. Srisdi Dharmarjata's guidance. Another powerful man is Gen. Phao Sriyanond, national police chief.

Accompanying Pibulsonggram on his tour will be his wife La-iad and Gen. Momluang Kharb Kunjara, director of Thai public relations. He will visit Manila, Tokyo and Seoul before going to Honolulu, San Francisco, New York and Washington. He plans to proceed to Europe and the Middle East, returning to Bangkok June 26.

Cancer Pioneer Dies At Rosedale

Co-workers credited the 65-year-old Dr. Nobles with authoring the hospitalization plan. Before that, they said, cancer patients found many charity hospitals inaccessible.

Dr. Nobles was chairman of the executive committee of the American Cancer Society at the time of his death.

He also was a member of the national service committee of the American Cancer Society and chairman of the Hugh Agnew Gamble Memorial Fund for care of terminal patients.

Cyrano Bergerac Production Set At College Here

"Cyrano de Bergerac" will be the next major production presented by Northeast State during a three-night run in Brown Auditorium. The play is scheduled April 21, 22, and 23 at 8 p.m., with George Brian of the drama faculty directing.

The work by Edmond Rostand is considered a genuine masterpiece, with thoroughly delightful plot and lines. The author has skillfully blended comedy, tragedy and adventure into five acts. Actual showing time is no longer than the ordinary three-act performance, however.

Important parts in the play are filled by experienced students such as: Gentry Jones in the role of Cyrano; Sandra McAdams in the role of Roxanne; Wayne Elliott as Christian; and Bill Salter as de-Guice. Jones will be remembered as Marcellus in "The Robe" and Miss McAdams in "The Great Big Doorstep." Salter has had varied experiences on the stage, and Elliott, a newcomer, brings a special understanding of this play since he has lived in France where the story takes place.

Elaborate sets and costumes depicting life in the seventeenth century have been provided for the production. About fifty costumes, decorated with lace and plumes, are being fashioned by members of the College Women's Club, headed by Mrs. John McCarter.

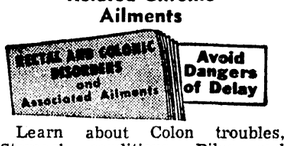

Cyrano is a man with courage, intelligence and a dashing personality. He would fulfill all conventional concepts of the romantic hero except for one thing—Rostand has given him a grotesque flaw, an enormous nose, which opens the way for overtones, both tragic and comic, far beyond those of the usual adventure tale.

Whether performed by college non-professionals or the best artists of the stage, Cyrano seldom fails to score a success.

Thai Premier, After Long And Stormy Career, Plans First Visit To Americas

By OLEN CLEMENTS

BANGKOK, Thailand, April 13 (AP)—Down the 18-mile old elephant trail to Bangkok's airport glided two smart new cars—a Mercedes-Benz and a Ford Thunderbird.

In front of the VIP entrance the two cars braked to a stop. From the Mercedes-Benz stepped grim Premier P. Pibulsonggram, next to King Phumiphon Aduldet the most powerful man in Thailand. Out of the Thunderbird stepped U. S. Ambassador John Peurifoy, diplomatic trouble-shooter for President Eisenhower.

They smiled and shook hands. They have much in common. They were at the airport to greet a visiting dignitary from another Asian neighbor — the Premier of Cambodia.

Tomorrow Pibulsonggram returns to the airport to fly eastward on his first visit to the United States, where his youngest daughter is a student at the Rhode Island School of Design.

Pibulsonggram is 57. He has been premier, off and on, since 1938.

He was an ally of Japan in World War II. His bitter foe, Nai Pridi Phanomyong, Thailand's first post-war premier, led the Thai resistance which cooperated with the Allies throughout the war.

Today Pridi, ousted from Thailand, is in Red China as head of an announced liberation movement which Pibulsonggram says has 20,000 troops ready to strike at Thailand.

Pubulsonggram first became prominent in this kingdom of 19 million in October 1933. A bloodless antiroyalist revolution had replaced feudalism with constitutional government. Then a royalist group tried to overthrow the new regime. Pibulsonggram, a lieutenant colonel in the army, led in putting down the uprising.

He became defense minister, deputy commander in chief of the army, and the accepted leader of Thailand's military caste. As premier in 1938 he made friends with Japan. In 1940-41 he went to war with France in neighboring Indochina. With Tokyo's backing he won four provinces from the Kingdom of Camobdia. Nominally he sided with the Allies until Pearl Harbor. But his troops fought only a few hours after Japan struck. Pibulsonggram submitted to a Japanese ultimatum and ordered his troops to lay down their arms.

Rival Pridi, a Paris - trained lawyer, became regent for King Ananda, then a 15-year-old schoolboy in Switzerland, and leader of the underground Free Thai movement. In 1944 the Free Thai forces compelled Pibulsonggram to resign. At the end of the war he was in national disrepute.

But Pridi had a rough time as premier. Corruption in his regime became rampant. His followers split. Then in 1946 King Ananda Mahidol was shot to death. Pridi tried to explain it as an accident but the people believed the young King had been murdered.

Pridi had to step down. While the economic situation also deteriorated, Pibulsonggram and his followers were making plans. In 1947 his bloodless coup d'etat returned the old military group to control. Pridi was driven from the country, Pibulsonggram resumed the premiership.

The road back has not been smooth. Pridi in 1949 led an abortive coup which seized the grand palace before it flopped. In 1951 during ceremonies marking the delivery of a dredge boat from the United States, a group of naval officers kidnaped Pibulsonggram before the eyes of U. S. Ambassador Edwin F. Stanton. But the Premier was too hot to hold and he was released after one night.

The Premier's strength has diminished somewhat from its high. Although he is defense minister, the army is under Gen. Srisdi Dharanjata's guidance. Another powerful man is Gen. Phao Sriyanond, national police chief.

Accompanying Pibulsonggram on his tour will be his wife La-iad and Gen. Momluang Kharb Kunjara, director of Thai public relations. He will visit Manila, Tokyo and Seoul before going to Honolulu, San Francisco, New York and Washington. He plans to proceed to Europe and the Middle East, returning to Bangkok June 26.

Cancer Pioneer Dies At Rosedale

Co-workers credited the 65-year-old Dr. Nobles with authoring the hospitalization plan. Before that, they said, cancer patients found many charity hospitals inaccessible.

Dr. Nobles was chairman of the executive committee of the American Cancer Society at the time of his death.

He also was a member of the national service committee of the American Cancer Society and chairman of the Hugh Agnew Gamble Memorial Fund for care of terminal patients.

Sen. Mansfield Critical Of Ike's Unleashing Of Chiang's Formosan Units

WASHINGTON, April 1 6(AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said today the United States would not be facing the "difficult decision" on defense of Quemoy and Matsu Islands "if President Eisenhower had not 'unleashed' Chiang Kai-shek in 1953."

Mansfield said a massive reinforcement of the offshore islands by the Chinese Nationalists "would never have taken place" if Eisenhower's State of the Union message in January, 1953, had not "invited" it.

Eisenhower told Congress in January, 1953, that he was "issuing instructions that the 7th Fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China. . . . We certainly have no obligation to protect a nation fighting us in Korea."

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview today:

"If these instructions had not been issued, the Formosa Strait would have remained stabilized. The issue today would be clear-cut. The line would be clearly drawn. Our commitment would cover Formosa and the Pescadores, not the offshore islands."

In another interview, Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, took an opposite view of Eisenhower's 1953 orders to the 7th Fleet.

"I'm very thankful that Eisenhower made that important decision," Bridges said. "If he hadn't, there would be nothing standing between Formosa and the mainland. Formosa would be far more vulnerable."

Bridges has insisted the United States should declare publicly an intention to use U.S. military power to assist in defense of the offshore islands. Congress has authorized this use of U.S. forces provided Eisenhower decides the islands are essential to the defense of Formosa.

Bridges said: "Anyone who believes in the security of America ought to be thankful that Eisenhower had the foresight to pave the way for the Chinese Nationalist to reinforce their positions on the islands."

Strawberry Crop Hard Hit By Late Temperature Drop

ALEXANDRIA, La. April 16—UP— The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service said today drouth and frost materially reduced Louisiana strawberry prospects in March and set the April forecast back 20 per cent below the March forecast.

Clarence O. Parker, state agricultural statistician, said the April 1 forecast of 558,000 crates of 24 quarts each was 20 per cent below the March 1 forecast and 39 per cent below 1953 production.

The reporting service held hopes of a good yield provided no further setbacks occurred. It said recorded movements reached a peak of 28 equivalent cars on March 21 and has averaged about 10 to 15 cars daily.

Record heat and drouth during March retarded normal plant growth an ddevelopment, the service reported, and by April 1 rain was urgently needed.

The severe frost of March 29 killed blooms and most buds and young berries also were lost. However, light picking was expected to continue until the third week in April when heavy movement is anticipated.

The crop service said prospective production in the three early Spring berry producing states of Louisiana, Alabama and Texas declined some 21 per cent during March to an estimated 636,000 crates.

A crop of that size would be below last year's estimate and the five-year average by 39 and 13 per cent respectively.

All three states reported lower yields than a month earlier because of the double-barrel damage caused by drouth and frost. An estimated one-third of the production was lost in Alabama where harvest was about to become active. The late March cold spell had practically no effect on about two-thirds of Texas damage.

Moral Foundation To Fight Racing As Next Project

LAKE CHARLES, La. April 16—UP— The convention of the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation here Tuesday will be aimed at eliminating horse racing in Louisiana.

"The time has come for legislative action to abolish all race tracks in Louisiana, including the Fair Grounds race track at New Orleans," said W. Earl Hotalen, executive director of the foundation.

The foundation, composed of church and secular leaders, also will turn its attack on the proposed Pelican Park race track in Calcasieu parish.

"It is anticipated that this convention may instruct LMCF staff members to mobilize good citizenship forces all over the state for an all-out war against every form of gambling, including the parimutuel betting now legalized at race tracks," Hotalen said.

City Police Seek Hot Check Artist

Police yesterday were searching for an unidentified Negro in connection with the cashing of several "hot" $60 checks here.

According to police the checks were drawn on the Ouachita National Bank and made payable to Allen Howard. They were signed B. H. Markson, Sr., and the words "payroll account" were printed above the signature with a rubber stamp. "Monroe Lumber and Supply Company" was also placed in the upper left with a rubber stamp.

An investigation revealed that the checks were forgeries, officer said.

The Negro who cashed the checks was described as about six-feet three inches tall, between 33 and 40 years old, medium complectioned, and weighing about 200 pounds. When last seen he was wearing a bright - yellow long-sleeved sport shirt, dark trousers, and a two-tone brown straw cap.

Shreveport Bank Robbed Of $1,300 With 'Nitro' As Threat; Jailed Quickly

SHREVEPORT, La., April 16 (AP) —A small, balding man robbed a bank of $1,300 today, using as his only weapon a bottle of water which he told a bank teller was nitroglycerin.

Policemen C. R. Nunely and J. R. Robinson, who were directing traffic near the bank, captured the man less than five minutes later in a storage room above the nearby Christian Science reading room.

He had entered the building in an attempt to elude two tellers from the Continental American Bank and Trust Co., a branch of the Commercial National Bank.

Police said the man identified himself as Howard Louis Hart and said he recently was released from the Huntsville, Tex., prison after serving seven of a 12-year sentence for safe burglary.

Charles Hart, a teller, said the man entered the bank about 11:30 a.m. and walked over to his cage.

"He shoved a manila envelope through the window and said 'this is a draft.'"

"This bottle I'm holding contains nitroglycerin. I have a brain tumor and I'm going to die anyway. Give me your money or I'll blow the bank all to pieces."

The teller said he told the man he couldn't get away with it. But the man replied, "leave that up to me."

The man then pushed a gun case through the window and told the teller to put the money in it. As soon as the money was in the case, the man grabbed it and started for the door.

"When he turned to leave, I yelled for someone to grab him and then started after him," the teller said.

Another teller joined in the chase.

The robber started to run into an alley, but saw a group of men in it and decided to enter the building which housed the Christian Science reading room, Hart said.

The police reached the scene then and Robinson climbed the fire escape on the building. Robinson said the man surrendered when he pointed his gun through the window.

The officer said the bandit was attempting to hide the money under a loose floorboard.

New Fund Raising Method Adopted In Cancer Drive

A new, friendly and uncomplicated method of fund raising and education will be used in the annual campaign of the Ouachita Parish Unit of the American Cancer Society in Monroe, campaign leaders have announced.

In the effort, which opens tomorrow, a large American Cancer Society envelope will be passed down a block from house to house. Each one receiving the envelope will take from it a piece of educational literature and put in it any personal or family contribution to be cancer crusade. Contributions are sealed in small envelopes.

This is an entirely new means of combining education and fund raising, a campaign worker said.

"If the envelopes are kept rolling down the blocks, Monroe will give its fair share to the great programs of research, service to patients and education which our society is carrying on," he added.

Monroe Girl, 11, Suffering Memory Lapse, Is Found

An 11-year-old girl who failed to return home from school Friday afternoon was located early yesterday and a physician at Bendel and Wright clinic attributed her wandering to a temporary loss of memory.

The girl, Shirley "Cato" Sears, 105 Buck Jones Lane, was returned to her parents after she had wandered into a home some distance from her residence. Fearing that she was seriously ill, the parents carried her to the clinic for a check-up.

The physician said she seemed to be all right and that she had apparently suffered a temporary loss of memory. The girl was unable to explain her wandering or to remember what she had done during the time she was missing, he said.

He was a life long resident of Monroe and was a member of the First Methodist Church.

Plan For Russian Student Tours Of U. S. Collapses

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Arrangements for a tour of this country by 11 Soviet editors collapsed today. Washington and Moscow officials blamed each other for the impasse, which also seemed likely to cancel out two other projected Russian visits.

The crux of the stalemate was a requirement in U.S. immigration law that all unofficial visitors must be fingerprinted when they receive their visas overseas and sign a statement accepting responsibility for any delays in their departure from this country.

Announcing that the Russian editors were "unwilling to comply with the legal requirements," the State Department said:

"The United States government regrets that the trip of the Soviet editors will not be realized.

The statement followed press reports from Moscow saying the Soviet government had announced that the editors had been "deprived of the opportunity" of visiting the United States because they refused to comply with the fingerprinting and other requirements.

U.S. officials said the same rules would apply to two other projected Russian delegations—a group of farmers invited to see how hogs and corn are raised in Iowa, and nine Red army officers invited to a World War II reunion here.

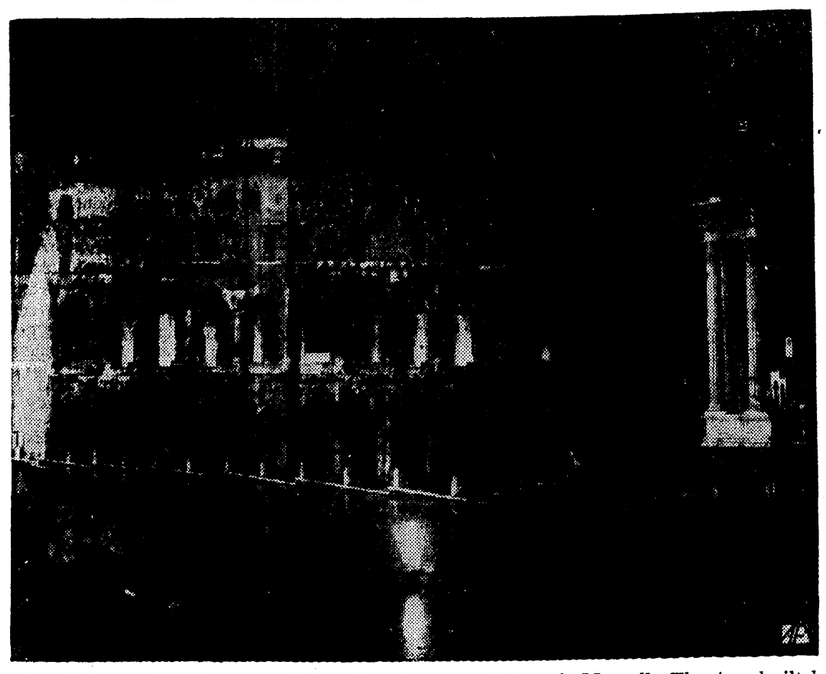

The farm trip, suggested by the Des Moines Register and Tribune, has been awaiting official clearance for more than a month. The army reunion is something new, and is likely to die aborning, not only beacuse of the fingerprint requirement but also because of the fact that it is scheduled for April 25, which is little more than a week off.

The time element apparently played a part in the decision to call off the editors' visit too. They were due here next week and the State Department noted that arrangements already had been made for their tour by the Institute of International Education, a private organization.

The department announced the cancellation without waiting for an official report from U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen, who called on Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Gromyko in Moscow April 9 to explain the U.S. position.

Eisenhower Acts To Move Foreign Aid Out Of FOA

By MARVIN L. ARROWMITH

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 16 (AP) — President Eisenhower today outlined plans for transferring all phases of the government's anti-Communist foreign aid program to the State and Defense Departments from the Foreign Operations Administration.

FOA, which has been handling the multibillion-dollar program the last two years, is scheduled to go out of business June 30.

The President already has named the agency's director, Harold E. Stassen, to a new job—special assistant to the chief executive on disarmament problems.

Eisenhower set forth his plans for the shift to state and defense in a letter to Secretary of State Dulles which was made public at the President's vacation headquarters here. The plans will be formalized in an executive order to be issued shortly.

The transfer outline was announced as the President made ready to send Congress a special message next week calling for about 3½ billion dollars for weapons and economic aid for some 40-odd countries during the fiscal year starting July 1. Of the total around two billion will go to step up such aid to non-Communist nations in Asia.

The State Department all along has had policy supervision of the foreign aid program. Under the new plan it also will have supervising authority over actual operation of the economc aid phase of the program.

Operational authority over the military aid aspects will remain with the Defense Department, which also will take over from FOA certain military-related operational phases, such as provisions of uniforms and shoes.

The new program calls for creation within the State Department of a semiautonomous organizational unit, to be known as the International Cooperation Administration.

The unit will be headed by a director "who will be a key official within the State Department," Eisenhower wrote Dulles.

The director will report directly to Dulles and, on the secretary's behalf, will supervise all foreign aid operations performed in the State Department.

ON LEAVE—Airman Apprentice, Clinton Cummings, of Route 1, Calhoun, finished boot camp at Great Lakes, Ill., on April 9 and is spending a 14 day leave at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cummings. After his leave, Cummings will report to Quonset Point, Rhode Island.

Sen. Mansfield Critical Of Ike's Unleashing Of Chiang's Formosan Units

WASHINGTON, April 1 6(AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said today the United States would not be facing the "difficult decision" on defense of Quemoy and Matsu Islands "if President Eisenhower had not 'unleashed' Chiang Kai-shek in 1953."

Mansfield said a massive reinforcement of the offshore islands by the Chinese Nationalists "would never have taken place" if Eisenhower's State of the Union message in January, 1953, had not "invited" it.

Eisenhower told Congress in January, 1953, that he was "issuing instructions that the 7th Fleet no longer be employed to shield Communist China. . . . We certainly have no obligation to protect a nation fighting us in Korea."

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview today:

"If these instructions had not been issued, the Formosa Strait would have remained stabilized. The issue today would be clear-cut. The line would be clearly drawn. Our commitment would cover Formosa and the Pescadores, not the offshore islands."

In another interview, Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, took an opposite view of Eisenhower's 1953 orders to the 7th Fleet.

"I'm very thankful that Eisenhower made that important decision," Bridges said. "If he hadn't, there would be nothing standing between Formosa and the mainland. Formosa would be far more vulnerable."

Bridges has insisted the United States should declare publicly an intention to use U.S. military power to assist in defense of the offshore islands. Congress has authorized this use of U.S. forces provided Eisenhower decides the islands are essential to the defense of Formosa.

Bridges said: "Anyone who believes in the security of America ought to be thankful that Eisenhower had the foresight to pave the way for the Chinese Nationalist to reinforce their positions on the islands."

Strawberry Crop Hard Hit By Late Temperature Drop

ALEXANDRIA, La. April 16—UP— The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service said today drouth and frost materially reduced Louisiana strawberry prospects in March and set the April forecast back 20 per cent below the March forecast.

Clarence O. Parker, state agricultural statistician, said the April 1 forecast of 558,000 crates of 24 quarts each was 20 per cent below the March 1 forecast and 39 per cent below 1953 production.

The reporting service held hopes of a good yield provided no further setbacks occurred. It said recorded movemen's reached a peak of 28 equivalent cars on March 21 and has averaged about 10 to 15 cars daily.

Record heat and drouth during March retarded normal plant growth an ddevelopment, the service reported, and by April 1 rain was urgently needed.

The severe frost of March 29 killed blooms and most buds and young berries also were lost. However, light picking was expected to continue until the third week in April when heavy movement is anticipated.

The crop service said prospective production in the three early Spring berry producing states of Louisiana, Alabama and Texas declined some 21 per cent during March to an estimated 636,000 crates.

A crop of that size would be below last year's estimate and the five-year average by 39 and 13 per cent respectively.

All three states reported lower yields than a month earlier because of the double-barrel damage caused by drouth and frost. An estimated one-third of the production was lost in Alabama where harvest was about to become active. The late March cold spell had practically no effect on about two-thirds of Texas damage.

Moral Foundation To Fight Racing As Next Project

LAKE CHARLES, La. April 16—UP— The convention of the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation here Tuesday will be aimed at eliminating horse racing in Louisiana.

"The time has come for legislative action to abolish all race tracks in Louisiana, including the Fair Grounds race track at New Orleans," said W. Earl Hotalen, executive director of the foundation.

The foundation, composed of church and secular leaders, also will turn its attack on the proposed Pelican Park race track in Calcasieu parish.

"It is anticipated that this convention may instruct LMCF staff members to mobilize good citizenship forces all over the state for an all-out war against every form of gambling, including the parimutuel betting now legalized at race tracks," Hotalen said.

City Police Seek Hot Check Artist

Police yesterday were searching for an unidentified Negro in connection with the cashing of several "hot" $80 checks here.

According to police the checks were drawn on the Ouachita National Bank and made payable to Allen Howard. They were signed B. H. Markson, Sr., and the words "payroll account" were printed above the signature with a rubber stamp. "Monroe Lumber and Supply Company" was also placed in the upper left with a rubber stamp.

An investigation revealed that the checks were forgeries, officer said.

The Negro who cashed the checks was described as about six-feet three inches tall, between 33 and 40 years old, medium complectioned, and weighing about 200 pounds. When last seen he was wearing a bright - yellow long-sleeved sport shirt, dark trousers, and a two-tone brown straw cap.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 16 (AP) —A small, balding man robbed a bank of $1,300 today, using as his only weapon a bottle of water which he told a bank teller was nitroglycerin.

Policemen C. R. Nunely and J. R. Robinson, who were directing traffic near the bank, captured the man less than five minutes later in a storage room above the nearby Christian Science reading room.

He had entered the building in an attempt to elude two tellers from the Continental American Bank and Trust Co., a branch of the Commercial National Bank.

Police said the man identified himself as Howard Louis Hart and said he recently was released from the Huntsville, Tex., prison after serving seven of a 12-year sentence for safe burglary.

Charles Hart, a teller, said the man entered the bank about 11:30 a.m. and walked over to his cage.

"He shoved a manila envelope through the window and said 'this is a draft.'"

"This bottle I'm holding contains nitroglycerin. I have a brain tumor and I'm going to die anyway. Give me your money or I'll blow the bank all to pieces."

The teller said he told the man he couldn't get away with it. But the man replied, "leave that up to me."

The man then pushed a gun case through the window and told the teller to put the money in it. As soon as the money was in the case, the man grabbed it and started for the door.

"When he turned to leave, I yelled for someone to grab him and then started after him," the teller said.

Another teller joined in the chase.

The robber started to run into an alley, but saw a group of men in it and decided to enter the building which housed the Christian Science reading room, Hart said.

The police reached the scene then and Robinson climbed the fire escape on the building. Robinson said the man surrendered when he pointed his gun through the window.

The officer said the bandit was attempting to hide the money under a loose floorboard.

New Major Walkouts Hit Eastern Textiles, Rails

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New major strikes hit transportation and textiles in the East Saturday on the heels of strike violence in the South.

Thousands of workers were idle and other thousands were threatened with idleness in the rash of disputes that clouded the nation's labor picture with these developments:

1. Some 25,000 CIO textile workers struck in 23 New England cotton textile mills in opposition to proposals for a 10-cent-an-hour cut in wages and fringe benefits. Some 37 other mills agreed to renew union contracts at the old terms—a minimum wage of $1.09½ an hour and an average of $1.30 an hour.

2. Some 400 brakemen and conductors walked out on the South Buffalo Railroad in a wage dispute forcing a shutdown of the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s huge Lackawanna plant at Buffalo and threatening to idle 35,000 workers in eight plants served by the line. The railroad called the work stoppage unauthorized.

3. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers issued a strike call for Sunday on the New York Central lines, east of Buffalo, and then called it off because the National Mediation Board intervened. However, the union charged that the board failed to notify of its intervention four days ago and said its men "cannot be held responsible now for such interruptions of service as may occur in the morning." The union, which has 1,240 members involved in the dispute, contended the railroad had "repudiated a bonafide contract" in connection with seniority and mileage provisions.

4. The presidents of the Railroad Yardmasters of America and the American Train Dispatchers Assn. called strikes for noon Monday against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Strike calls for Monday had been made earlier by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Nonoperating employes of the L&N—union members who do not actually operate the trains—have been on strike since March 14, demanding a health and welfare plan.

The L&N strike and a walkout of CIO Communications Workers of America against the Southern Bell Telephone Co. in nine Southern States have been attended by violence and damage. Both strikes started March 14.

The telephone dispute, over a new contract, has been marked by dynamiting, cutting and shooting of cables. the CWQ has maintained it was not responsible.

An official of the L&N blamed the derailment of the northbound Dixie Flyer near Nashville Friday night on the strike, but a spokesman for the strikers said there was no proof his men were involved.

Salk Announces Plan To Develop Better Vaccine

PITTSBURGH, April 16 (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk came home to Pittsburgh today with a vow to work for 100 per cent effectiveness of the antipolio vaccine which bears his name.

"The report at Ann Arbor indicates the vaccine is 80 to 90 per cent effective," Dr. Salk told newsmen on his arrival by plane from Detroit. "Now, we will try to perfect it."

Asked if he had plans for research on other diseases, Salk replied:

"Right now, I'll just go on doing the things we've been doing." After that we'll see what the next step will be."

Dr. Salk was returning from the University of Michigan where last Tuesday it was announced that the antipolio vaccine he developed is effective.

Some 500 greeters were on hand at Greater Pittsburgh Airport to welcome Dr. Salk, his wife, Donna, and three sons, Peter, 11, Darrell, 8, and Jonathan, 5.

As they stepped from the plane, Mrs. A. W. Conover, wife of the president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, presented three dozen red roses to Mrs. Salk.

Attached to the flowers was a card which read:

"Best wishes from the grateful people of Pittsburgh."

His smile broadened as he shook hands with a number of his colleagues from the University of Pittsburgh Medical School.

Mrs. Salk and the children smiling shyly, posed graciously for pictures. After ten minutes of photo-taking, Dr. Salk chuckled and asked the photographers:

"Haven't you had enough?"

the ice company between 11 and 11:30 p.m. when he heard two pistol shots, and saw a Negro he knew only as "Junior" and a Negro juvenile girl run behind Son Cook's Sandwich Shop, 2407 DeSiard street. Officers quoted Hildabridle as saying he did not see where Junior went but that the girl fell in a hole and began yelling for help.

Detectives said Hildabridle, who believed the shot to be fired in the alley beside the sandwich shop, identified Hardwell as the person he had known as Junior.

Questioning of the girl, detectives said, revealed that she and Hardwell had been in the sandwich shop when the lights went out and that they had gone outside. She related that they had started walking down the alley beside the sandwich shop when she heard a Negro man, whom she identified as "Doc" Nash, say "Let's make all these people break out of this alley," detectives explained.

They quoted her as saying two shots were then fired and that she had run behind the sandwich shop where she fell in a hole full of water. She said she did not see Hardwell anymore until his body was found Saturday morning.

Officers said the girl explained that she had then gone home, and few minutes later Nash entered. She said she accused Nash of firing the shots, officers continued, and he laughed saying they were firecrackers. When she again accused him of shooting a gun, she went on, he became very angry, pulled a gun from his bosom and threatened to shoot her.

The cafe owner told detectives he had heard a noise in the alley and had gone outside with a flashlight to investigate. He said he found the girl in the hole and helped her out. He also quoted some unknown person as saying firecrackers had been set off in the alley. He said he knew nothing of Hardwell's death until Saturday morning.

Nash was arrested about 7:30 a. m. and, according to detectives, under questioning implicated Austin in the shooting. Austin, however, denied any knowledge of the slaying.

No reason was given for the shooting but the investigation is being continued by detectives and members of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department.

Both Nash and Austin were charged with murder and transferred to the parish jail.

Deputy Charges Resort Area Used For Sex Parties

ARDMORE, Okla., April 16 (AP)—A Carter County undersheriff charged today that the nearby Lake Murray Resort was the scene of frequent drinking and sex orgies among teen-agers.

Undersheriff Leroy Baker said the most recent spree occurred Easter weekend, and that several groups including Oklahoma City teen-agers were involved.

Baker said a deputy, James L. Woodley, investigated disturbance reports and found young couples having sex relations out in the open in a camping area.

He said there were 150 to 200 youngsters at the resort, and that many were "pretty intoxicated." He suggested that the state capital 100 miles to the north "keep its rowdy teen-agers at home."

The park superintendent's office said no complaints had been received and rangers who patrol the area reported they found nothing improper.

The lodge management reported windows, doors and furniture were broken in two cabins, and the occupants were ordered to leave. No complaints were filed with authorities.

He said he knew nothing about the incidents reported by the deputy sheriff.

Woodley said that all of the troublemakers were gone from the park Saturday morning and that Reynolds arrived Saturday night with his family.

Amite Rampages Southward To Hit Port Vincent Area

BATON ROUGE, La. April 16—UP— The rampaging Amite River which crested short of a serious flood last night surged downstream today toward Port Vincent.

Meanwhile, state police advised motorists to stay off the Greenwell Springs Road, State Route 276, and the Comite Road, State Route 37, east of here because of flood waters on the highways.

Swirling waters of the Comite were receding from doorsteps in residential areas after the river crested east of Baton Rouge yesterday.

Authorities said the Amite crested at Denham Springs at 36 feet, or just four-tenths of a foot below the May 1953 level. That year the river surged out of control and flooded many homes.

The Comite crested at 51.9 feet, about two feet under the 1953 level.

Probably the worst-hit area was around Denham Springs, some 10 miles east of Baton Rouge. High waters seeped into several homes and forced some families to spend the night with friends.

The geological survey said backed-up waters of both streams were expected to withdraw rapidly today.

3 Train Wrecks

night. An official damage estimate wasn't available from either of the two railroads, but the total appeared certain to amount to many thousands of dollars. There were no injuries in either wreck.

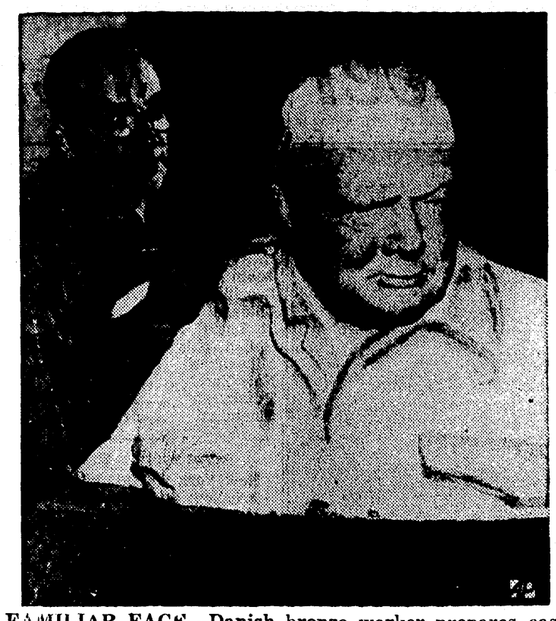

The accident near Ogden apparently was caused by a burned out journal on one of the cars in the 100-car freight. The worn out part caused an axel of the car to drop to the ground and derailed the other cars.

Repair crews still were working late today to clear and repair the track, which was twisted from its roadbed by the accident. The free wheeling cars also knocked down power and telegraph lines, temporarily disrupting these services in the area.

A Frisco official said a flat wheel on one car caused the pile up at Greenland.

The train was crossing a bridge when the flat wheel jerked the car from the track. It crashed through the bridge railing and into the creek, carrying 14 other cars with it. The bridge was demolished.

Frisco officials planned to use buses and trucks to transport passengers between Fayetteville and Fort Smith until the track can be repaired.

Two-Year-Old Boy Freed From Well Shaft After 4 Hours Of Frantic Work

AURORA, Colo., April 16—UP—A two year old boy fell down a well Saturday and was trapped for nearly four hours before he was rescued.

The child, David Counterman, had been wedged in a 10-inch wide, 18-foot deep shaft in his backyard. Rescue workers, digging under the glare of searchlights, sank a parallel shaft with a power shovel and then burrowed through to him.

The boy's father had stood by the top of the well calling encouragement while the rescue crews worked.

Spotlights pinpointed the scene and more than 400 neighbors and spectators surrounded the Countermans' residence.

The child, playing in the backyard where his father was drilling the well, apparently plunged down the narrow shaft shortly after 4 p.m. MST. His fall was reported almost immediately by a neighbor woman.

The child landed atop the auger his father was using to drill the well, and was wedged in the shaft in an upright position above about seven feet of water.

Crews were able to catch a rope around one of the boy's hands but since he was wedged so tightly, efforts to pull him out were unsuccessful.

A heavy power shovel from the Aurora street department was drilling a parallel shaft and intended to burrow across to free the child. The rescue was expected to be completed in the next half hour barring a cave-in, which authorities say is unlikely.

The mother, who expects to bear another child in less than four months, was being treated for hysteria.

More than six tanks of oxygen had been pumped down the shaft to the trapped child and authorities said there was no immediate danger of suffocation.

4 More Unions

ville & Nashville Raiload for noon Monday.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen already had announced walkouts for the same time.

Some 25,000 non-operating employes of the L. & N. have been out since March 14 in a dispute over health and accident benefits.

Union spokesmen have said the new walkouts resulted from the railroad's firing members who recognized picket lines of the non-operating employes.

Violence directed at non-strikers in the railroad labor dispute was reported from Corbin and Covington today.

Police said dynamite was set off, a garage burned and rocks hurled at Corbin Friday night. No one was injured. Property damage was small.

Newman said the bullet richocheted but did not hit any of the four clerks working in the office.

As a result of the derailment at Nashville, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, a subsidiary of the L. & N., announced the Dixie Flyer will be discontinued indefinitely between Atlanta and Nashville.

Nine cars of the train were thrown off and left leaning at various angles over the twisted track.

Only a few scratches were reported among the estimated 40 passengers and crew members.

Superintendent Fred Whittemore of the N. C. & St. L. called the incident "definitely sabotage." He said all joints were removed from the track and that bolts coupling rails together had been taken out without being stripped.

T. H. Gregg, vice chairman of the non-operating union's strike team at Nashville, said he refused to believe members of his union were involved. "I know it is possible for a train to turn over and pull all the spikes," he said. He added that the union is willing to help stop the violence.

The flyer's normal run is between Chicago and Jacksonville, Fla. However, since the strike it has run only between Atlanta and Nashville.

Even as the railroad walkout spread, Southern Bell Telephone Co., reported service "the best it has been since the strike started on March 14."

The company said about 30,000 workers remain on the job.

Long distance service, said a spokesman, "is so close to normal you can hardly tell the difference." Only a small percentage of telephone subscribers are having calls delayed, the company said.

The telephone strike began over disagreements on a no-strike clause the company wants in the contract and arbitration agreements which the union seeks. The union, the Communications Workers of America, has refused a wage increase proposed by Southern Bell, principally on grounds that it would leave many workers without raises.

Reports of violence in the strike continued today. Union leaders repeatedly have denied any part in the incidents.

Three southern governors, Marvin Griffin of Georgia, James Folsom of Alabama and Hugh White of Mississippi, have announced they will attend a strike conference Tuesday in Nashville in the office of Gov. Earl Clement. Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana said he will send a representative, and Virginia's Gov. Thomas B. Stanley said he will concur in the group's action. Kentucky's Gov. Lawrence Wetherby called the meeting.

any political advantage out of it. If we are pushed into the abyss of a new war, the whole world may tumble into that abyss with us."

Stevenson, in a much briefer speech than Truman's said the Democratic party must stand for three basic things if it is to be true to itself. He named these as social progress, civil freedom and peace.

On the score of peace, he said: "Woodrow Wilson gave his life blood to the fight for the League of Nations. Franklin Roosevelt spent his last energies planning for the United Nations. Both dared accept the horror of war to save the nation worse horrors—but only in the conviction that out of the agony of war we could pluck a new resolve to win peace for all suffering mankind."

Stevenson, like Truman, had glowing praise for Rayburn. Stevenson said:

"No one knows the meaning of the democratic faith in this century better than our beloved guest.

"When President Wilson fought for the wise government regulation of banking and industry and for the League of Nations, he was there.

"When President Roosevelt led the nation through the worst depression and the most terrible war of our history, he was there.

"When President Truman called for the new social advance at home and rallied the free world against the menace of Communist aggression abroad, he was there.

"And, Sam, we count on your being there for a good long time to come!"

Rayburn, too, rapped "prominent members" of Eisenhower's Republican party who, he said, "confront him with a disloyal opposition." And the man who has served as speaker longer than any other in history reverted in acid language to an old irritant — the "Party of Treason" charges some Republicans flung at Democrats in the 1954 political campaign.

"We've seen lies and libel before, wholesale and retail," Rayburn said. "But this is the first time that lies and libel have been used on an atom bomb scale to besmirch millions of people with the black charge of treason to their country."

But both Truman and Rayburn, in prepared addresses, called for national bipartisanship on the momentous issues of war and peace.

British Politics Handicapped With Newspaper Strike

LONDON, April 16 (AP)—Conservatives and Socialists mobilized today under the shadow of silent London newspapers and a threatened nationwide rail strike to fight it out in elections May 26.

Politicians fired a few early shots in the election campaign, but attention centered on spreading labor unrest and how it might affect the vote.

The Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen called a walkout for May 1 to support demands for higher wages. A strike for higher pay that silenced London's 23 nationally circulated newspapers was in its 23rd day with no sign of a break. And with the government's cost of living index at a record high level, other wage claims were pending.

Prime Minister Eden called for a new mandate last night to govern as Winston Churchill's successor, saying the uncertainty was bad for Britain's influence in world affairs and unsettling for trade.

Lord Woolton, Conservative party chairman who directed the 1951 election campaign which wrested control of the country from the Socialists, said today:

"The party organization is ready to go into action, and will work with enthusiasm to insure the return of a Conservative government with an increased majority."

The Labor party chairman, Dr. Edith Summerskill, said Eden's 10-day-old government "is not too happy about the economic position, and has decided to have an election before the position worsens. There can be no other explanation."

The Communist party, which holds no seats in Parliament and polled only 21,640 votes in the last election, issued a statement saying, "Now is the time for the working class and labor movement to rally their forces in a gigantic effort to get rid of the Tories once and for all."

92 Circuits Cut In Natchez Area Within 24 Hours

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 16 (AP) — Southern Bell reported today vandals severed 92 telephone circuits in the Natchez area during the past 24 hours.

Southern Bell district manager Grady Sargent said 20 wires were cut near Stanton, isolating the town of Fayette as 33 long distance circuits, two Western Union circuits and two radio circuits went out.

The Memphis-New Orleans toll route near Hamburg was cut, knocking out 40 long distance and one radio circuit. Near Roxie, slashing the Brookhaven-Natchez line disrupted 11 long distance circuits. Shotgun fire perforated a toll cable and local cables near Natchez, knocking out 12 local phones and three long-distance circuits.

Pensacola Phone Lines Sabotaged

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 16 (AP)—A telephone company official reported all major long distance service to the East was disrupted for about 8½ hours today when three guy wires to a utility pole were cut.

Sam A. Love, district manager for Southern Bell Telephone Co., said there was no question but that the wires were cut. He called it "deliberate sabotage."

The pole, about nine miles northeast of here, broke off at the ground, disrupting long distance service, government leased circuits to several military installations, news services' wires and Western Union service, Love said.

Seven Injured

ner, assistant superintendent Clyde White and W. C. Curtis, an attendant, were hostages. Dr. Castner was already outside when the riot ended. White was the next man out.

There were 82 men, all criminally insane, in ward 7 when the riot started, though only 10 actually rioted. Some of the others, under drugs to quiet their manical impulses, sat stupidly about on beds while the riot went on.

The Negroes complained to E. A. Whitehead, editor of the Rusk weekly newspaper, the Cherokeean, about the food and about being beaten. Riley told Whitehead, who like Whittington, went in alone to talk to them, that he had been in an asylum in Kansas and knew the hospital at Rusk wasn't run right.

"This is not any state hospital. This is a hellhole," he told Whitehead.

When Dr. Hancock made his morning rounds with three attendants, Riley jumped him. Their struggle turned into a riot, in which the other prisoners were beaten by their own fellows.

The weapons that the rioters threw down included a hammer, scissors, whips, sickles, knives, screw drivers and tin snips. These weapons showered out of the windows of the building into the compound while Dr. Castner and Riley, bare to the waist and wearing a red cap, were discussing a surrender with Crowder.

White, the attendant - hostage, came out of the compound with an armload of weapons. His sobbing wife, who also works at the hospital, met him and embraced him.

"Hello, darling, everything is all right," he said. "I'm not bad hurt."

He had a bruise on one check, where, he said, he had been hit with a club. Curtis came out behind him with an armload of weapons and after those two armloads were taken out, there were still some behind. Though Dr. Castner was out of the ward when the riot ended, he was the last one out of the compound.

High fences, about 20 feet apart, and one electrically charged, encircle the maximum security ward, where about 350 prisoners are held. Of these, 150, including the 82 in ward 7, are considered the most dangerous. There is a total of 2,400 inmates in the entire hospital.

At the outset of the riot, the madmen asked for a newsman to complain to. Whitehead went in, talked to them, went to his office, printed an "extra" with their complaints in it and took a bundle of papers back to them, hoping that the publicity would pacify them.

Then Whittington went in to talk to the lunatics. On the way in, he met a victim coming out.

"On the way inside the compound I met an attendant and four patients carrying a litter on which a fifth patient lay bleeding," he reported. "Blood was coming from both his ears and his scalp was torn open."

Whittington said he never did find out what the rioters want. They asked for food, which was sent in. They asked to see an official of the state hospital board and board member James Windham left his home in Livingston, Tex., immediately to talk to them.

"They indicated that they had heard about the strike at Huntsville (the state prison, two days ago) and started rioting without any clear-cut purpose in mind, except to get out," Whittington said.

Following last week's announcement that the vaccine had been found to be safe and effective, Dr. Summer said, he received numerous calls from parents who had originally declined to give permission for their child to be vaccinated, but had later changed their minds. In such cases, the parents were instructed to send a signed statement of approval to the childrens' teachers. When the vaccine is administered at the school in which the children are enrolled, Summer said, the statements will be turned over to the health unit personnel and the injections will be administered.

The director of the health unit also pointed out that the vaccine is being furnished free of charge by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and that no charge whatsoever is being made for the injections. The vaccinations are being given only to students in first and second grade since they are in the age group in which the most incidents of polio occur. However, the vaccine is being made available to private physicians for administration to others.

New Major Walkouts Hit Eastern Textiles, Rails

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New major strikes hit transportation and textiles in the East Saturday on the heels of strike violence in the South.

Thousands of workers were idle and other thousands were threatened with idleness in the rash of disputes that clouded the nation's labor picture with these developments:

1. Some 25,000 CIO textile workers struck in 23 New England cotton textile mills in opposition to proposals for a 10-cent-an-hour cut in wages and fringe benefits. Some 37 other mills agreed to renew union contracts at the old terms—a minimum wage of $1.09½ an hour and an average of $1.30 an hour.

2. Some 400 brakemen and conductors walked out on the South Buffalo Railroad in a wage dispute forcing a shutdown of the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s huge Lackawanna plant at Buffalo and threatening to idle 35,000 workers in eight plants served by the line. The railroad called the work stoppage unauthorized.

3. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers issued a strike call for Sunday on the New York Central lines, east of Buffalo, and then called it off because the National Mediation Board intervened. However, the union charged that the board failed to notify of its intervention four days ago and said its men "cannot be held responsible now for such interruptions of service as may occur in the morning." The union, which has 1,240 members involved in the dispute, contended the railroad had "repudiated a bonafide contract" in connection with seniority and mileage provisions.

4. The presidents of the Railroad Yardmasters of America and the American Train Dispatchers Assn. called strikes for noon Monday against the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Strike calls for Monday had been made earlier by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Nonoperating employes of the L&N—union members who do not actually operate the trains—have been on strike since March 14, demanding a health and welfare plan.

The L&N strike and a walkout of CIO Communications Workers of America against the Southern Bell Telephone Co. in nine Southern States have been attended by violence and damage. Both strikes started March 14.

The telephone dispute, over a new contract, has been marked by dynamiting, cutting and shooting of cables. the CWQ has maintained it was not responsible.

An official of the L&N blamed the derailment of the northbound Dixie Flyer near Nashville Friday night on the strike, but a spokesman for the strikers said there was no proof his men were involved.

Salk Announces Plan To Develop Better Vaccine

PITTSBURGH, April 16 (AP)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk came home to Pittsburgh today with a vow to work for 100 per cent effectiveness of the antipolio vaccine which bears his name.

"The report at Ann Arbor indicates the vaccine is 80 to 90 per cent effective," Dr. Salk told newsmen on his arrival by plane from Detroit. "Now, we will try to perfect it."

Asked if he had plans for reseach on other diseases, Salk replied:

"Right now, I'll just go on doing the things we've been doing." After that we'll see what the next step will be."

Dr. Salk was returning from the University of Michigan where last Tuesday it was announced that the antipolio vaccine he developed is effective.

Some 500 greeters were on hand at Greater Pittsburgh Airport to welcome Dr. Salk, his wife, Donna, and three sons, Peter, 11, Darrell, 8, and Jonathan, 5.

As they stepped from the plane, Mrs. A. W. Conover, wife of the president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, presented three dozen red roses to Mrs. Salk.

Attached to the flowers was a card which read:

"Best wishes from the grateful people of Pittsburgh."

Dr. Salk, wearing a gray suit and carrying a briefcase, smiled faintly as he and his family stepped from the plane and posed for photographers.

His smile broadened as he shook hands with a number of his colleagues from the University of Pittsburgh Medical School.

Mrs. Salk and the children smiling shyly, posed graciously for pictures. After ten minutes of photo-taking, Dr. Salk chuckled and asked the photographers:

"Haven't you had enough?"

the ice company between 11 and 11:30 p.m. when he heard two pistol shots, and saw a Negro he knew only as "Junior" and a Negro juvenile girl run behind Son Cook's Sandwich Shop, 2407 DeSiard street. Officers quoted Hildabridle as saying he did not see where Junior went but that the girl fell in a hole and began yelling for help.

Detectives said Hildabridle, who believed the shot to be fired in the alley beside the sandwich shop, identified Hardwell as the person he had known as Junior.

Questioning of the girl, detectives said, revealed that she and Hardwell had been in the sandwich shop when the lights went out and that they had gone outside. She related that they had started walking down the alley beside the sandwich shop when she heard a Negro man, whom she identified as "Doc" Nash, say "Let's make all these people break out of this alley," detectives explained.

They quoted her as saying two shots were then fired and that she had run behind the sandwich shop where she fell in a hole full of water. She said she did not see Hardwell anymore until his body was found Saturday morning.

Officers said the girl explained that she had then gone home, and few minutes later Nash entered. She said she accused Nash of firing the shots, officers continued, and he laughed saying they were firecrackers. When she again accused him of shooting a gun, she went on, he became very angry, pulled a gun from his bosom and threatened to shoot her.

The cafe owner told detectives he had heard a noise in the alley and had gone outside with a flashlight to investigate. He said he found the girl in the hole and helped her out. He also quoted some unknown person as saying firecrackers had been set off in the alley. He said he knew nothing of Hardwell's death until Saturday morning.

Nash was arrested about 7:30 a. m. and, according to detectives, under questioning implicated Austin in the shooting. Austin, however, denied any knowledge of the slaying.

A search of Nash's home, officers said, turned up a 765 MM automatic pistol.

No reason was given for the shooting but the investigation is being continued by detectives and members of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department.

Both Nash and Austin were charged with murder and transferred to the parish jail.

Deputy Charges Resort Area Used For Sex Parties

ARDMORE, Okla., April 16 (AP)—A Carter County undersheriff charged today that the nearby Lake Murray Resort was the scene of frequent drinking and sex orgies among teen-agers.

Amite Rampages Southward To Hit Port Vincent Area

BATON ROUGE, La. April 16—UP— The rampaging Amite River which crested short of a serious flood last night surged downstream today toward Port Vincent.

Meanwhile, state police advised motorists to stay off the Greenwell Springs Road, State Route 276, and the Comite Road, State Route 37, east of here because of flood waters on the highways.

Swirling waters of the Comite were receding from doorsteps in residential areas after the river crested east of Baton Rouge yesterday.

Authorities said the Amite crested at Denham Springs at 36 feet, or just four-tenths of a foot below the May 1953 level. That year the river surged out of control and flooded many homes.

The Comite crested at 51.9 feet, about two feet under the 1953 level.

Probably the worst-hit area was around Denham Springs, some 10 miles east of Baton Rouge. High waters seeped into several homes and forced some families to spend the night with friends.

The geological survey said backed-up waters of both streams were expected to withdraw rapidly today.

the father would certainly want to resort to a good whaling when he saw the marks.

But the son brightened up. He declared: "Well, you know I have an older brother who always leads everyone with the high marks he makes each and every time. Dad knows he has a smart son and one who isn't smart and my entire family just tries to be careful in my case. I hear 'em say, "We've got to be careful so as not to fasten on Jack an inferiority complex!"

At last West Monroe has emerged with a Rotary club that is fully chartered, and the installation exercises are set for May 10, states President Jack Gaines. The new club starts with twenty - one members and there are prospects for still more who will join.

Charter night will be observed with the ladies as honored guests and the speaker will be Rotary District Governor W. L. Bendel.

Neville High School has made selection for the leaders of the student body next year. Jack Rivers was the choice for president and Margaret Taylor vice - president. They will serve in their new capacity at student body meetings and in the student assemblies.

L. J. Hart was observed a bit bewildered on Friday. He had overlooked sending Uncle Sam his income tax report, and that was the last day. But he made it to the office of a tax consultant in the Ouachita National Bank and the affair was quickly all straightened out.

Rae Rinehart, who used to work in the Monroe post office, but who now lives in Wharton, Tex., is back for a short stay here in his old home town. Used to be he knew every man and his dog here but now he admits it has gone far past his ability to make identifications.

F. D. Johnson, president of Ouachita lodge 588 Railway Clerks, urges members to attend the monthly meeting in the Missouri Pacific Booster clubhouse Tuesday April 19. There's some important business to be considered, he states.

The outstanding shares of the Arkansas - Louisiana and Missouri Railway company have been obtained by the Olin Mathieson Chemical corporation in exchange for common stock in the chemical concern, it is stated by officials.

The stock swap gives Olin 100 per cent ownership of the line which operates between Monroe and Crossett.

Straw hats, male gender, are now being worn up and down DeSiard street. Those in charge of things sartorial have as yet not issued a ukase as to the correct date when these may be worn with impunity. Give us a few more warm spring days and we'll all be coming out with these harbingers of summer time.

A real treat is in store in Northeast State college Monday at 9:50 a.m. when the National Honor society of the college introduces as speaker Major Derwood Cann, professor of military science and tactics, who will tell of experiences in Turkey, where he served as member of the general staff with the joint military mission. Slides will be shown in connection with the talk.

night. An official damage estimate wasn't available from either of the two railroads, but the total appeared certain to amount to many thousands of dollars. There were no injuries in either wreck.

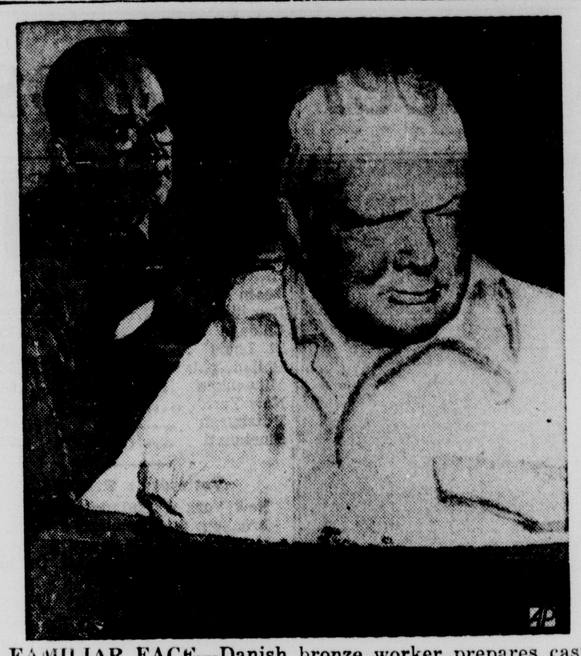

The accident near Ogden apparently was caused by a burned out journal on one of the cars in the 100-car freight. The worn out part caused an axel of the car to drop to the ground and derailed the other cars.

Repair crews still were working late today to clear and repair the track, which was twisted from its roadbed by the accident. The free wheeling cars also knocked down power and telegraph lines, temporarily disrupting these services in the area.

A Frisco official said a flat wheel on one car caused the pile up at Greenland.

The train was crossing a bridge when the flat wheel jerked the car from the track. It crashed through the bridge railing and into the creek, carrying 14 other cars with it. The bridge was demolished.

Frisco officials planned to use buses and trucks to transport passengers between Fayetteville and Fort Smith until the track can be repaired.

Two-Year-Old Boy Freed From Well Shaft After 4 Hours Of Frantic Work

AURORA, Colo., April 16—UP—A two year old boy fell down a well Saturday and was trapped for nearly four hours before he was rescued.

The child, David Counterman, had been wedged in a 10-inch wide, 18-foot deep shaft in his backyard. Rescue workers, digging under the glare of searchlights, sank a parallel shaft with a power shovel and then burrowed through to him.

The boy's father had stood by the top of the well calling encouragement while the rescue crews worked.

Spotlights pinpointed the scene and more than 400 neighbors and spectators surrounded the Countermans' residence.

The child, playing in the backyard where his father was drilling the well, apparently plunged down the narrow shaft shortly after 4 p.m. MST. His fall was reported almost immediately by a neighbor woman.

The child landed atop the auger his father was using to drill the well, and was wedged in the shaft in an upright position above about seven feet of water.

Crews were able to catch a rope around one of the boy's hands but since he was wedged so tightly, efforts to pull him out were unsuccessful.

A heavy power shovel from the Aurora street department was drilling a parallel shaft and intended to burrow across to free the child. The rescue was expected to be completed in the next half hour barring a cave-in, which authorities say is unlikely.

The mother, who expects to bear another child in less than four months, was being treated for hysteria.

More than six tanks of oxygen had been pumped down the shaft to the trapped child and authorities said there was no immediate danger of suffocation.

4 More Unions

ville & Nashville Railroad for noon Monday.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen already had announced walkouts for the same time.

Some 25,000 non-operating employes of the L. & N. have been out since March 14 in a dispute over health and accident benefits.

Union spokesmen have said the new walkouts resulted from the railroad's firing members who recognized picket lines of the non-operating employes.

Violence directed at non-strikers in the railroad labor dispute was reported from Corbin and Covington today.

Police said dynamite was set off, a garage burned and rocks hurled at Corbin Friday night. No one was injured. Property damage was small.

A bullet was fired into an L.&N. office at the Decoursey yards at Covington late Friday, I. W. Newman, L. & N. division superintendent reported today.

Newman said the bullet richocheted but did not hit any of the four clerks working in the office.

As a result of the derailment at Nashville, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, a subsidiary of the L. & N., announced the Dixie Flyer will be discontinued indefinitely between Atlanta and Nashville.

Nine cars of the train were thrown off and left leaning at various angles over the twisted track.

Only a few scratches were reported among the estimated 40 passengers and crew members.

Superintendent Fred Whittemore of the N. C. & St. L. called the incident "definitely sabotage." He said all joints were removed from the track and that bolts coupling rails together had been taken out without being stripped.

T. H. Gregg, vice chairman of the non-operating union's strike team at Nashville, said he refused to believe members of his union were involved. "I know it is possible for a train to turn over and pull all the spikes," he said. He added that the union is willing to help stop the violence.

The flyer's normal run is between Chicago and Jacksonville Fla. However, since the strike it has run only between Atlanta and Nashville.

Even as the railroad walkout spread, Southern Bell Telephone Co., reported service "the best it has been since the strike started on March 14."

The company said about 30,000 workers remain on the job.

Long distance service, said a spokesman, "is so close to normal you can hardly tell the difference." Only a small percentage of telephone subscribers are having calls delayed, the company said.

The telephone strike began over disagreements on a no-strike clause the company wants in the contract and arbitration agreements which the union seeks. The union, the Communications Workers of America, has refused a wage increase proposed by Southern Bell, principally on grounds that it would leave many workers without raises.

Reports of violence in the strike continued today. Union leaders repeatedly have denied any part in the incidents.

Three southern governors, Marvin Griffin of Georgia, James Folsom of Alabama and Hugh White of Mississippi, have announced they will attend a strike conference Tuesday in Nashville in the office of Gov. Earl Clement. Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana said he will send a representative, and Virginia's Gov. Thomas B. Stanley said he will concur in the group's action. Kentucky's Gov. Lawrence Wetherby called the meeting.

Truman Raps

any political advantage out of it. If we are pushed into the abyss of a new war, the whole world may tumble into that abyss with us."

Stevenson, in a much briefer speech than Truman's said the Democratic party must stand for three basic things if it is to be true to itself. He named these as social progress, civil freedom and peace.

On the score of peace, he said:

"Woodrow Wilson gave his life blood to the fight for the League of Nations. Franklin Roosevelt spent his last energies planning for the United Nations. Both dared accept the horror of war to save the nation worse horrors—but only in the conviction that out of the agony of war we could pluck a new resolve to win peace for all suffering mankind."

Stevenson, like Truman, had glowing praise for Rayburn. Stevenson said:

"No one knows the meaning of the democratic faith in this century better than our beloved guest.

"When President Wilson fought for the wise government regulation of banking and industry and for the League of Nations, he was there.

"When President Roosevelt led the nation through the worst depression and the most terrible war of our history, he was there.

"When President Truman called for the new social advance at home and rallied the free world against the menace of Communist aggression abroad, he was there.

"And, Sam, we count on your being there for a good long time to come!"

Rayburn, too, rapped "prominent members" of Eisenhower's Republican party who, he said, "confront him with a disloyal opposition." And the man who has served as speaker longer than any other in history reverted in acid language to an old irritant — the "Party of Treason" charges some Republicans flung at Democrats in the 1954 political campaign.

"We've seen lies and libel before, wholesale and retail," Rayburn said. "But this is the first time that lies and libel have been used on an atom bomb scale to besmirch millions of people with the black charge of treason to their country."

But both Truman and Rayburn, in prepared addresses, called for national bipartisanship on the momentous issues of war and peace.

British Politics Handicapped With Newspaper Strike

LONDON, April 16 (AP)—Conservatives and Socialists mobilized today under the shadow of silent London newspapers and a threatened nationwide rail strike to fight it out in elections May 26.

Politicians fired a few early shots in the election campaign, but attention centered on spreading labor unrest and how it might affect the vote.

The Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen called a walkout for May 1 to support demands for higher wages. A strike for higher pay that silenced London's 23 nationally circulated newspapers was in its 23rd day with no sign of a break. And with the government's cost of living index at a record high level, other wage claims were pending.

Prime Minister Eden called for a new mandate last night to govern as Winston Churchill's successor, saying the uncertainty was bad for Britain's influence in world affairs and unsettling for trade.

Lord Woolton, Conservative party chairman who directed the 1951 election campaign which wrested control of the country from the Socialists, said today:

"The party organization is ready to go into action, and will work with enthusiasm to insure the return of a Conservative government with an increased majority."

The Labor party chairman, Dr. Edith Summerskill, said Eden's 10-day-old government "is not too happy about the economic position, and has decided to have an election before the position worsens. There can be no other explanation."

The Communist party, which holds no seats in Parliament and polled only 21,640 votes in the last election, issued a statement saying, "Now is the time for the working class and labor movement to rally their forces in a gigantic effort to get rid of the Tories once and for all."

92 Circuits Cut In Natchez Area Within 24 Hours

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 16 (AP)—Southern Bell reported today vandals severed 92 telephone circuits in the Natchez area during the past 24 hours.

Southern Bell district manager Grady Sargent said 20 wires were cut near Stanton, isolating the town of Fayette as 33 long distance circuits, two Western Union circuits and two radio circuits went out.

The Memphis-New Orleans toll route near Hamburg was cut, knocking out 40 long distance and one radio circuit. Near Roxie, slashing the Brookhaven-Natchez line disrupted 11 long distance circuits. Shotgun fire perforated a toll cable and local cables near Natchez, knocking out 12 local phones and three long-distance circuits.

Pensacola Phone Lines Sabotaged

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 16 (AP)—A telephone company official reported all major long distance service to the East was disrupted for about 8½ hours today when three guy wires to a utility pole were cut.

Sam A. Love, district manager for Southern Bell Telephone Co., said there was no question but that the wires were cut. He called it "deliberate sabotage."

The pole, about nine miles northeast of here, broke off at the ground, disrupting long distance service, government leased circuits to several military installations, news services' wires and Western Union service, Love said.

Seven Injured

ner, assistant superintendent Clyde White and W. C. Curtis, an attendant, were hostages. Dr. Castner was already outside when the riot ended. White was the next man out.

There were 82 men, all criminally insane, in ward 7 when the riot started, though only 10 actually rioted. Some of the others, under drugs to quiet their manical impulses, sat stupidly about on beds while the riot went on.

The Negroes complained to E. A. Whitehead, editor of the Rusk weekly newspaper, the Cherokeean, about the food and about being beaten. Riley told Whitehead, who like Whittington, went in alone to talk to them, that he had been in an asylum in Kansas and knew the hospital at Rusk wasn't run right.

"This is not any state hospital. This is a hellhole," he told Whitehead.

When Dr. Hancock made his morning rounds with three attendants, Riley jumped him. Their struggle turned into a riot, in which the other prisoners were beaten by their own fellows.

The weapons that the rioters threw down included a hammer, scissors, whips, sickles, knives, screw drivers and tin snips. These weapons showered out of the windows of the building into the compound while Dr. Castner and Riley, bare to the waist and wearing a red cap, were discussing a surrender with Crowder.

White, the attendant - hostage, came out of the compound with an armload of weapons. His sobbing wife, who also works at the hospital, met him and embraced him.

"Hello, darling, everything is all right," he said. "I'm not bad hurt."

He had a bruise on one cheek, where, he said, he had been hit with a club. Curtis came out behind him with an armload of weapons and after those two armloads were taken out, there were still some behind. Though Dr. Castner was out of the ward when the riot ended, he was the last one out of the compound.

High fences, about 20 feet apart, and one electrically charged, encircle the maximum security ward, where about 350 prisoners are held. Of these, 150, including the 82 in ward 7, are considered the most dangerous. There is a total of 2,400 inmates in the entire hospital.

At the outset of the riot, the madmen asked for a newsman to complain to. Whitehead went in, talked to them, went to his office, printed an "extra" with their complaints in it and took a bundle of papers back to them, hoping that the publicity would pacify them.

Then Whittington went in to talk to the lunatics. On the way in, he met a victim coming out.

"On the way inside the compound I met an attendant and four patients carrying a litter on which a fifth patient lay bleeding," he reported. "Blood was coming from both his ears and his scalp was torn open."

Whittington said he never did find out what the rioters want. They asked for food, which was sent in. They asked to see an official of the state hospital board and board member James Windham left his home in Livingston, Tex., immediately to talk to them.

"They indicated that they had heard about the strike at Huntsville (the state prison, two days ago) and started rioting without any clear-cut purpose in mind, except to get out," Whittington said.

Mississippian Dies In Car-Train Crash

SUMMIT, Miss., April 16 (AP) — The Illinois Central Panama Limited smashed into a stalled car in Summit tonight, killing a Summit building contractor and injuring his teenaged daughter.

Dead was C. A. Paulk, about 58 years old. His daughter, Mary Lou, was hospitalized with undetermined injuries and several broken bones.

Following last week's announcement that the vaccine had been found to be safe and effective, Dr. Summer said, he received numerous calls from parents who had originally declined to give permission for their child to be vaccinated, but had later changed their minds. In such cases, the parents were instructed to send a signed statement of approval to the childrens' teachers. When the vaccine is administered at the school in which the children are enrolled, Summer said, the statements will be turned over to the health unit personnel and the injections will be administered.

The director of the health unit also pointed out that the vaccine is being furnished free of charge by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and that no charge whatsoever is being made for the injections. The vaccinations are being given only to students in first and second grade since they are in the age group in which the most incidents of polio occur. However, the vaccine is being made available to private physicians for administration to others.

Homer Fever Almost Hits Major Record

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The renovated Twin Cities Sports, believed strengthened by tremendous help from the New York Yankees, come home from their Hattiesburg, Miss., training camp next week end—home from the biggest and most successful training period a Monroe club has ever enjoyed. It's a camp of Class C and D clubs of the New York Yankee system, but it's operated "strictly big league."

Never before has a Monroe-West Monroe professional club had the benefits of such a supervising force headed by Bill Skiff, veteran of more than 20 years in baseball, and including, in addition to the Sports' own skipper, Ed Head; Atley Donald, Yankee scout for this territory; Dave Matison, the native Mississippian and former L. S. U. athlete who manages Bristol, Va.-Tenn., of the Appalachian League; Marv Crater, manager of the McAlester, Okla., Hornets of the Sooner State; Wally Lance, pilot of Owensboro, Ky., of the Kitty League; Yankee scouts Pat Patterson, Lou Maguolo, and Joe McDermott; Johnny Johnson, from the Yank home office, who is in charge of camp finances; and the old Yankee pitching expert, Indian Ben Tincup, who is imparting his lore to the young pitchers.

Today there are only three clubs in camp, McAlester having departed yesterday to get ready for its opener Tuesday. The Sports break camp next, coming home Saturday night to make final preparations for their opener with El Dorado here April 26. Bristol pulls out Wednesday week, and Owensboro won't leave Hattiesburg until May 1.

More than 100 players have participated in the camp with the Twin Cities, the higher classified club of the four, getting the choice of the lot, and our Cotton States entry has never had it so good in a choice of so much talent.

In Bill Skiff, the club gets the benefit of an old hand's experience, a veteran campaigner who has had leading roles in baseball across the country and the "Believe It Or Not" distinction of playing for two pennant-winning clubs in the same year but not eligible to appear in either series. . . . That was in 1926 when he was with the Yankees until one day before the deadline for being eligible for the World Series. He was sent to Toronto of the International League where he was too late arriving to be eligible for the Little World Series.

A former catcher with the Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates, Skiff broke into baseball with Hartford, Conn., in 1916, and also saw service at Kansas City, Bridgeport, and Newark before his first managerial post in 1931 at New Haven in the Eastern League. Next he managed at Durham, N. C., and Norfolk, Va., before he won his first pennant as a pilot at Binghampton, N. Y., in 1937. He managed Seattle to Pacific Coast pennants in 1941 and '43 and was never out of the first division with his Seattle club from '41 through '46. In 1948 he went to Newark to skipper a second-place club, and managed Kansas City into third place in the American Association in 1950, his last year as a manager. Since then Skiff has served the Yankees as a talent hunter and has been valuable to Head in helping the Sports.

Hattiesburg, with no actual baseball club of its own, has been "claiming" the Yank farm hands one month out of the year since turning the Greater Hattiesburg Park into a Yankee training camp four years ago.

Skiff isn't backward in telling you how he likes the Hattiesburg setup—"I've been at a lot of camps and have never seen a better situation. Usually when you go to a place you're traveling only on promises from a hustling Chamber of Commerce . . . that's not true here . . . when we want something done or when we need an item or two, it's ours almost before we ask. And this park is wonderful."

Donald, the former Louisiana Tech pitcher who advanced to the big leagues as a Yankee tosser (he's native of the Choudrant-Downsville area, and both north central Louisiana communities claim him) promoted the beginning of the Hattiesburg camp and is sold on Hattiesburg as the site. "With guys like Smokie Harrington (W. P. Harrington, ramrod of the Hattiesburg businessmen who promoted the park and work with the Yankee farms) around trying to keep baseball alive, we know things will always be in good order," declares Donald.

It's still just a little bit too early for Skipper Head to be decided on what players will be in the group coming here next Saturday night, what with late additions coming in from higher class ball with the "cuts" at Binghampton, N. Y., Quincy, Ill., and Winston-Salem, N. C.

But Head has been in a mighty good mood every day of his stay at Hattiesburg, and we take that as a hot tip that the Sports' skipper is working with talent that meets his approval. The young athletes are getting about the finest coaching available to Class C and D clubs, and the Twin Cities fans can well look forward to a good season.

Big League Bats Resound To Tune Of 28 Long Hits

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Home run fever hit the major leagues yesterday and batters found the range for 28 round trippers—just two short of the all-time record for a single day.

New York and Washington played the first night game of the season in Washington and only two homers were needed to tie the mark set on June 23, 1950, when the American leaguers hit 18 and the National 12, but the Yanks and Senators went homerless.

The National League had all the better of yesterday's bombarding, clubbing 20 to the American League's eight. Neither threatened the individual league record for one day which is 25 in the National League (June 16, 1950) and 19 for the American (July 25, 1937).

Actually, no records were broken and only one was tied despite all the action. Randy Jackson, Ernie Banks and Dee Fondy hit successive homers for the Chicago Cubs in the second inning against the St. Louis Cardinals which tied a mark held by many clubs.

The Cards, however, went on to win the game, 12-11, in the 14th. All told, seven homers were hit. Strangely, Jackson, Banks and Fondy had two each. Wally Moon hit the only Card home run, but it came in the 12th inning with one on after the Cubs had scored two in their half and kept Eddie Stanky's crew in the ball game.

The only day game in which there was not a homer hit was in Pittsburgh where the Brooklyn Dodgers shellacked the Pirates on Russ Meyer's two-hitter.

The world champion New York Giants won their first game of the season—an 8-3 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies on a barrage of five home runs. Davey William hit two and Whitey Lockman, Jim Hearn, and Don Mueller chipped in with one each.

The Milwaukee Braves won a long-hitting battle with the Cincinnati Redlegs 9-5 with seven players hitting a total of eight bases-empty homers. Del Crandall, Johnny Logan and Joe Adcock hit them for the Braves while Ray Jablonski, Andy Seminick, Bob Thurman and Wally Post found the range for the Redlegs. Jablonski had two. The total represented the biggest production of the day.

The Cleveland Indians also dropped their first game of the campaign when the Chicago White Sox licked them 9-4. Walt Dropo broke it up with a grand slammer in the fifth for the Sox while George Strickland and Al Rosen connected for the losers.

The only home run in the Boston-Baltimore game was hit by Oriole catcher Les Moss but it was a wasted effort because the Red Sox won out 6-5.

Ned Garver tossed the Detroit Tigers to an 8-3 triumph over the Kansas City A's with Jim Delsing and Harvey Kuenn hitting homers for the winners and Jim Finigan for the A's.

SOLD—Jim "No Hit" Wilson, 33-year-old righthander of the Milwaukee Braves, was sold Thursday to Baltimore of the American League. He hurled a 2-0 no-hit win over Philadelphia's Phils last year in the season's only no-hitter in the majors. (AP Wirephoto.)

Braves Option Parks To Syracuse Chiefs

MILWAUKEE, April 16 —(AP)— The Milwaukee Braves announced today that rookie catcher Jack Parks has been optioned to Syracuse of the International League.

Parks moved up to the Braves this season after a spectacular season with Atlanta of the Southern Association in 1954.

Rebels Edge Tigers, 5 To 4

By TED HECKATHORN

The West Monroe High Rebels waged an uphill battle all the way to nip the Neville Tigers last night at Legion Stadium, 5-4.

Neville loaded the sacks in the top of the first, but could only account for one run, a long sacrifice fly to right by Wayne Causey that brought in Mickey Yerger, who had doubled, from third. The Bengals left three men stranded in the first, and seven more as the game progressed.

They came back in the next frame to tally two more and go ahead, 3-0, with Causey driving in both runs. Jimmy Altick, Neville hurler, singled to open the inning, and Yerger followed suit. Larry Reeves walked, and Causey rapped a single to center, scoring Altick and Yerger.

The Rebels accounted for one in their half, when Robert Harris singled and was forced at second by Robert Perkins. The latter moved around to score on back-to-back safeties by Dennis Fields and pitcher L. C. Crawford.

West Monroe tied it in the sixth without benefit of a hit. A walk, an error, and two hit batsmen, plus catcher Richard Watson's sacrifice fly, knotted the count.

Billy Joe Thompson opened the West Monroe last-inning scoring with an infield hit. Chub Johnston laced a double down the left field line, and Thompson took third, from where he scored a moment later on a wild pitch, with Chubby moving to third. Thompson's run tied the score at 4-4, and when Gary Huckabay hit an infield roller to second, Johnston slid in under the peg to the plate with the winning marker.

It was a tough game for Altick to lose, as the young lefthander allowed only six hits, fanned five, and walked but one.

Review Legion Baseball Rules In Meet Today

An important meeting, what with new national and state rules going into effect this year, is scheduled for representatives of northeast Louisiana's American Legion Junior baseball clubs here this afternoon.

R. D. Farr, Jr., chairman of Fifth District Legion baseball, has called the meeting for 2 o'clock at the American Legion Home.

In addition to a discussion of the new rules, the district also will determine how many teams will compete this year and make plans for the season's play.

West Monroe's defending district champions are expected to have a strong contender again this year, and the Monroe club will be sporting a new manager in Ralph "Red" Sims, who was recently named to replace "Woody" Boyles, the latter now at Texarkana, Tex.

Club representatives are also expected today from Farmerville, Bastrop, Ruston, Jonesboro, Delhi, Rayville, and any other district legion posts that plan to sponsor teams this year.

Slate Meeting Of Civic Loop Here Monday

A meeting of the Civic Club Softball League is scheduled for tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center with all managers due to attend to plan for the season due to begin May 3.

Clubs already signed for the Civic circuit are West Monroe Lions, Exchange Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Progressive Men's Club, and Jaycees.

The Church Softball League, aiming for a May 6 start, has Gordon Avenue Methodist, Memorial Methodist, First Christian, Emmanuel, St. Paschal's, Trinity, Temple, Liberty, and Lakeshore signed to play with other entries to be accepted until April 29.

Longoria Will Meet Guerette On Kallio Card

Promoter Gus Kallio, his bid for a Clarence Cook-Del Flanagan bout stalled since Flanagan has been sidelined with a hand injury, has matched Tino Longoria, the Mexican Bull, against Guy Guerette, classy Hartford, Conn., welterweight, for his ten-round main event here Monday night, April 25, with the winner likely to be offered another shot at Cook, the Oak Grove leatherpusher.

Longoria lost a decision here to Cook late last year, and Guerette, Galveston, Tex., was TKO'd by Cook here last month. Longoria has been seeking another shot at the Hartford veteran, and Kallio last night said, "I'm glad to be able to promote their rematch. They're both good boys and impressed fight fans here with their ability even in defeat."

Three other preliminary bouts will definitely be scheduled, Kallio said, and there is a good possibility of another being added, making it a six-fight card of 32 scheduled rounds.

The advanced sale of tickets is already underway at Kallio's new business office, 1101 Jackson street.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The renovated Twin Cities Sports, believed strengthened by tremendous help from the New York Yankees, come home from their Hattiesburg, Miss., training camp next week end—home from the biggest and most successful training period a Monroe club has ever enjoyed. It's a camp of Class C and D clubs of the New York Yankee system, but it's operated "strictly big league."

Never before has a Monroe-West Monroe professional club had the benefits of such a supervising force headed by Bill Skiff, veteran of more than 20 years in baseball, and including, in addition to the Sports' own skipper, Ed Head; Atley Donald, Yankee scout for this territory; Dave Matison, the native Mississippian and former L. S. U. athlete who manages Bristol, Va.-Tenn., of the Appalachian League; Marv Crater, manager of the McAlester, Okla., Hornets of the Sooner State; Wally Lance, pilot of Owensboro, Ky., of the Kitty League; Yankee scouts Pat Patterson, Lou Maguolo, and Joe McDermott; Johnny Johnson, from the Yank home office, who is in charge of camp finances; and the old Yankee pitching expert, Indian Ben Tincup, who is imparting his lore to the young pitchers.

Today there are only three clubs in camp, McAlester having departed yesterday to get ready for its opener Tuesday. The Sports break camp next, coming home Saturday night to make final preparations for their opener with El Dorado here April 26. Bristol pulls out Wednesday week, and Owensboro won't leave Hattiesburg until May 1.

More than 100 players have participated in the camp with the Twin Cities, the higher classified club of the four, getting the choice of the lot, and our Cotton States entry has never had it so good in a choice of so much talent.

In Bill Skiff, the club gets the benefit of an old hand's experience, a veteran campaigner who has had leading roles in baseball across the country and the "Believe It Or Not" distinction of playing for two pennant-winning clubs in the same year but not eligible to appear in either series. . . . That was in 1926 when he was with the Yankees until one day before the deadline for being eligible for the World Series. He was sent to Toronto of the International League where he was too late arriving to be eligible for the Little World Series.

A former catcher with the Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates, Skiff broke into baseball with Hartford, Conn., in 1916, and also saw service at Kansas City, Bridgeport, and Newark before his first managerial post in 1931 at New Haven in the Eastern League. Next he managed at Durham, N. C., and Norfolk, Va., before he won his first pennant as a pilot at Binghampton, N. Y., in 1937. He managed Seattle to Pacific Coast pennants in 1941 and '43 and was never out of the first division with his Seattle club from '41 through '46. In 1948 he went to Newark to skipper a second-place club, and managed Kansas City into third place in the American Association in 1950, his last year as a manager. Since then Skiff has served the Yankees as a talent hunter and has been valuable to Head in helping the Sports.

Hattiesburg, with no actual baseball club of its own, has been "claiming" the Yank farm hands one month out of the year since turning the Greater Hattiesburg Park into a Yankee training camp four years ago.

Skiff isn't backward in telling you how he likes the Hattiesburg setup—"I've been at a lot of camps and have never seen a better situation. Usually when you go to a place you're traveling only on promises from a hustling Chamber of Commerce . . . that's not true here . . . when we want something done or when we need an item or two, it's ours almost before we ask. And this park is wonderful."

Donald, the former Louisiana Tech pitcher who advanced to the big leagues as a Yankee tosser (he's native of the Choudrant-Downsville area, and both north central Louisiana communities claim him) promoted the beginning of the Hattiesburg camp and is sold on Hattiesburg as the site. "With guys like Smokie Harrington (W. P. Harrington, ramrod of the Hattiesburg businessmen who promoted the park and work with the Yankee farms) around trying to keep baseball alive, we know things will always be in good order," declares Donald.

It's still just a little bit too early for Skipper Head to be decided on what players will be in the group coming here next Saturday night, what with late additions coming in from higher class ball with the "cuts" at Binghampton, N. Y., Quincy, Ill., and Winston-Salem, N. C.

But Head has been in a mighty good mood every day of his stay at Hattiesburg, and we take that as a hot tip that the Sports' skipper is working with talent that meets his approval. The young athletes are getting about the finest coaching available to Class C and D clubs, and the Twin Cities fans can well look forward to a good season.

Big League Bats Resound To Tune Of 28 Long Hits

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

Home run fever hit the major leagues yesterday and batters found the range for 28 round trippers—just two short of the all-time record for a single day.

New York and Washington played the first night game of the season in Washington and only two homers were needed to tie the mark set on June 23, 1950, when the American leaguers hit 18 and the National 12, but the Yanks and Senators went homerless.

The National League had all the better of yesterday's bombarding, clubbing 20 to the American League's eight. Neither threatened the individual league record for one day which is 25 in the National League (June 16, 1950) and 19 for the American (July 25, 1937).

Actually, no records were broken and only one was tied despite all the action. Randy Jackson, Ernie Banks and Dee Fondy hit successive homers for the Chicago Cubs in the second inning against the St. Louis Cardinals which tied a mark held by many clubs.

The Cards, however, went on to win the game, 12-11, in the 14th. All told, seven homers were hit. Strangely, Jackson, Banks and Fondy had two each. Wally Moon hit the only Card home run, but it came in the 12th inning with one on after the Cubs had scored two in their half and kept Eddie Stanky's crew in the ball game.

The only day game in which there was not a homer hit was in Pittsburgh where the Brooklyn Dodgers shellacked the Pirates on Russ Meyer's two-hitter.

The world champion New York Giants won their first game of the season—an 8-3 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies on a barrage of five home runs. Davey William hit two and Whitey Lockman, Jim Hearn, and Don Mueller chipped in with one each.

The Milwaukee Braves won a long-hitting battle with the Cincinnati Redlegs 9-5 with seven players hitting a total of eight bases-empty homers. Del Crandall, Johnny Logan and Joe Adcock hit them for the Braves while Ray Jablonski, Andy Seminick, Bob Thurman and Wally Post found the range for the Redlegs. Jablonski had two. The total represented the biggest production of the day.

The Cleveland Indians also dropped their first game of the campaign when the Chicago White Sox licked them 9-4. Walt Dropo broke it up with a grand slammer in the fifth for the Sox while George Strickland and Al Rosen connected for the losers.

The only home run in the Boston-Baltimore game was hit by Oriole catcher Les Moss but it was a wasted effort because the Red Sox won out 6-5.

Ned Garver tossed the Detroit Tigers to an 8-3 triumph over the Kansas City A's with Jim Delsing and Harvey Kuenn hitting homers for the winners and Jim Finigan for the A's.

SOLD—Jim "No Hit" Wilson, 33-year-old righthander of the Milwaukee Braves, was sold Thursday to Baltimore of the American League. He hurled a 2-0 no-hit win over Philadelphia's Phils last year in the season's only no-hitter in the majors. (AP Wirephoto.)

Rebels Edge Tigers, 5 To 4

By TED HECKATHORN

The West Monroe High Rebels waged an uphill battle all the way to nip the Neville Tigers last night at Legion Stadium, 5-4.

Neville loaded the sacks in the top of the first, but could only account for one run, a long sacrifice fly to right by Wayne Causey that brought in Mickey Yerger, who had doubled, from third. The Bengals left three men stranded in the first, and seven more as the game progressed.

They came back in the next frame to tally two more and go ahead, 3-0, with Causey driving in both runs. Jimmy Altick, Neville hurler, singled to open the inning, and Yerger followed suit. Larry Reeves walked, and Causey rapped a single to center, scoring Altick and Yerger.

The Rebels accounted for one in their half, when Robert Harris singled and was forced at second by Robert Perkins. The latter moved around to score on back-to-back safeties by Dennis Fields and pitcher L. C. Crawford.

West Monroe tied it in the sixth without benefit of a hit. A walk, an error, and two hit batsmen, plus catcher Richard Watson's sacrifice fly, knotted the count.

Billy Joe Thompson opened the West Monroe last-inning scoring with an infield hit. Chub Johnston laced a double down the left field line, and Thompson took third, from where he scored a moment later on a wild pitch, with Chubby moving to third. Thompson's run tied the score at 4-4, and when Gary Huckabay hit an infield roller to second, Johnston slid in under the peg to the plate with the winning marker.

It was a tough game for Altick to lose, as the young lefthander allowed only six hits, fanned five, and walked but one.

Review Legion Baseball Rules In Meet Today

An important meeting, what with new national and state rules going into effect this year, is scheduled for representatives of northeast Louisiana's American Legion Junior baseball clubs here this afternoon.

R. D. Farr, Jr., chairman of Fifth District Legion baseball, has called the meeting for 2 o'clock at the American Legion Home.

In addition to a discussion of the new rules, the district also will determine how many teams will compete this year and make plans for the season's play.

West Monroe's defending district champions are expected to have a strong contender again this year, and the Monroe club will be sporting a new manager in Ralph "Red" Sims, who was recently named to replace "Woody" Boyles, the latter now at Texarkana, Tex.

Club representatives are also expected today from Farmerville, Bastrop, Ruston, Jonesboro, Delhi, Rayville, and any other district legion posts that plan to sponsor teams this year.

Slate Meeting Of Civic Loop Here Monday

A meeting of the Civic Club Softball League is scheduled for tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock at the Monroe Recreation Center with all managers due to attend to plan for the season due to begin May 3.

Clubs already signed for the Civic circuit are West Monroe Lions, Exchange Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Progressive Men's Club, and Jaycees.

The Church Softball League, aiming for a May 6 start, has Gordon Avenue Methodist, Memorial Methodist, First Christian, Emmanuel, St. Paschal's, Trinity, Temple, Liberty, and Lakeshore signed to play with other entries to be accepted until April 29.

Longoria Will Meet Guerette On Kallio Card

Promoter Gus Kallio, his bid for a Clarence Cook-Del Flanagan bout stalled since Flanagan has been sidelined with a hand injury, has matched Tino Longoria, the Mexican Bull, against Guy Guerette, classy Hartford, Conn., welterweight, for his ten-round main event here Monday night, April 25, with the winner likely to be offered another shot at Cook, the Oak Grove leatherpusher.

Longoria lost a decision here to Cook late last year, and Guerette, Galveston, Tex., was TKO'd by Cook here last month. Longoria has been seeking another shot at the Hartford veteran, and Kallio last night said, "I'm glad to be able to promote their rematch. They're both good boys and impressed fight fans here with their ability even in defeat."

Three other preliminary bouts will definitely be scheduled, Kallio said, and there is a good possibility of another being added, making it a six-fight card of 32 scheduled rounds.

The advanced sale of tickets is already underway at Kallio's new business office, 1101 Jackson street.

Delta League Ready To Map Season Plans

A meeting of the Delta Baseball League, an amateur circuit of this area, has been called for tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at Hale's Barber Shop, 224 Trenton street, West Monroe, it was announced yesterday by R. G. Hale, loop president.

Amateur clubs of this area are invited to have representatives at the meeting. The league last year included two West Monroe clubs, Neal's Store, Point, Eros, Swartz, Farmerville, and Terral's Store. Mangham and Rayville are sought for membership this year, Hale said, and the league at one time was composed of clubs entirely in the Rayville - Delhi area.

Twin Cities Slam 11 Hits To Beat Bristol, 9 To 8

Three-Run Rally In Ninth Inning Wins For Sports

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 16 (Special) Although getting some of their stiffest practice competition in near a dozen camp games, the Twin Cities Sports of the Cotton States League, based at Monroe, La., protected their unbeaten camp record today by fighting from behind with three runs in the ninth inning to defeat the Bristol, Va.-Tenn., Twins of the Appalachian League, 9 to 8.

The two clubs meet again in a regulation exhibition Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in a game for the benefit of the Greater Hattiesburg Park Fund. All revenues from the game will go to help pay the bill for installation of lights for the Hattiesburg park.

The McAlester, Okla., club of the Sooner State League broke camp today and headed homeward, but the Sports, along with Owensboro, Ky., and Bristol's Twins, will be around a little longer. There will be no workouts Sunday morning as the near 100 players left in camp will be attending Hattiesburg's churches.

Shortstop Rod Kanel and second baseman "Rip" Rippili, the latter joining the Sports only this week, fired the attack for Manager Ed Head's outfit today. Kanel blasted four singles, and Rippili connected for two singles and a double.

The Sports combed five Bristol pitchers for 11 hits, while the Twins were tagging three Twin Cities hurlers for ten.

Bob Bleyenberg, who entered the game in the fifth inning, following Bill Dietrich, Jr. and Joe DeChano, was the winning pitcher. Colgan was the loser.

Roy Mantle's sacrifice fly and a single by Kanel brought the Sports two runs in the first inning, but Bristol was leading 6-2 until the Sports got three more runs in the fourth on a single by Vic Garadona, a wild pitch, and a double steal by Kanel and Richie Windle.

Rippili's single drove in the tying run in the fifth inning, but Bristol tallied two in the eighth to lead again. Rippili singled across the first run on the ninth inning, and Kanel hammered home the tying and winning runs.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP)—Walt Dropo came through Saturday with a grand slam homer that broke a fifth inning stalemate and powered Chicago to a 9-4 triumph over the champion Cleveland Indians.

The 425-foot smash into the upper reaches of the left center field stands by the big first baseman, who was part of the Ferris Fain deal with Detroit last winter, plastered the Tribe with its first defeat of the campaign after three straight victories.

Dropo's first homer of the season geared a six-run fifth inning in which the Sox disposed of starter Bob Feller and Ray Narleski.

Fisherman Cops Excelsior Run; Joe Jones 2nd

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Fisherman, one of the big favorites of New York racing fans, brought joy to their hearts again today when he sped home for a thrilling victory in the $29,500 Excelsior Handicap at Jamaica.

The largest crowd of the New York season, 41,880, cheered lustily as Fisherman—never worse than third and packing high weight of 126 pounds—took control turning into the home stretch and bounced under the wire a three-quarter length winner over Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Joe Jones. The Belair stud's Golden Gloves finished third in the field of nine, one and a quarter lengths behind Joe Jones and one length ahead of the fourth horse, the Calumet farm's Mark-Ye-Well.

Hedley Woodhouse was aboard Fisherman, darling of the C. V. Whitney stable, replacing Eddie Arcaro, who is under suspension until May 4. The Canadian jockey who rode Fisherman in many of his big 3-year-old stakes last season rated the scrappy brown son of Phalanx perfectly in this 48th running of the Excelsior.

This was Fisherman's first appearance in New York this season. In his first start of 1955 last week at Bowie, Fisherman and Arcaro were nosed out by Social Outcast in the $82,600 John B. Campbell Memorial Stakes.

Backed down to odds on today, Fisherman returned $3.30, $2.40 and $2.30 across the board. Joe Jones, the 7-2 second choice, returned $3 and $2.80, and Golden Gloves was $3.90 to show.

Fisherman, a contender for the 3-year-old honors last year and sensational winner of the Washington, D. C., International classic over foreign horses at Laurel, Md., in November, ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 over a fast track.

Red Hose Fired By Throneberry For 6 To 5 Win

BOSTON, April 16 (AP) — Faye Throneberry, successor to Ted Williams in left field for Boston, drove in two runs and scored three today as the Red Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-5.

Throneberry's ground forceout in the fifth inning brought home Billy Goodman with the tie-breaking run after Baltimore rallied to knot the score 3-3. His single in the first sent in the first of three tallies in that inning. After doubling in the seventh, he came home on Sammy White's two bagger to make the score 6-4.

Giants Win First Game; Defeat Phillies, 8 To 3

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Jim Hearn's pitching and a barrage of home runs by Davey Williams, Whitey Lockman, Don Mueller and Hearn himself brought the New York Giants an 8-3 victory over Philadelphia today, the first victory of the season for the world champions.

Hearn, who had a disappointing 8-8 season last year, gave up 10 hits in handing Philadelphia its first loss of the season. But he had an 8-0 lead before the Phils got their first run in the seventh inning. The strong game by the big righthander, who now has a lifetime mark of 15-5 against Philadelphia, lived up to manager Leo Durocher's prediction he would make a comeback in '55.

Marion-Linville Event Captured By Farmerville

LINVILLE, La., April 16 (Special)—The Farmerville High School Farmers won the annual Marion-Linville Invitational Baseball Tournament here this afternoon by defeating Linville High, 9 to 2, in the title finals.

Earlier in the day Farmerville had eleminated Bernice and Junction City, Ark., while Linville was passing Spearsville.

Summary of the day's games:

Quarter-finals — Spearsville 4, Calhoun 0; Farmerville 6, Bernice 5.

Finals — Farmerville 9, Linville 2.

ALKMAAR, The Netherlands, April 16 (AP)—A 14-year-old Dutch swimming star, Mary Kok, Saturday bettered the 100 meters butterfly world record held by Shelley Mann of Washington, D. C. Miss Kok's time was 1:13.8 compared to the American girl's world record of 1:14.

Cardinals Topple Cubs In 14 Innings, 12 To 11

ST LOUIS, April 16 (AP)—Wally Moon smashed a 12th inning two-run home run and a 14th inning game-winning single today to lift the St. Louis Cardinals over Chicago, 12-11, and overshadow six homers by the Cubs in a free-swinging game that saw 41 players in action.

The loss—Chicago's first this season—gave Brooklyn undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

Moon then teed off on Vince Amor's first pitch for a single to drive Sarni across the plate with the winning run.

It was a heartbreaker for Stan Hack's ambitious Cubs who had taken the lead on 12th inning homers by Banks and Dee Fondy, the second for each in the game.

But Moon, with two out in the bottom of the 12th, banged out his homer to score behind pinch-runner Dick Schofield who took over the baseline for pinch batter Joe Frazier who had walked.

Twin Cities Slam 11 Hits To Beat Bristol, 9 To 8

Three-Run Rally In Ninth Inning Wins For Sports

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 16 (Special) Although getting some of their stiffest practice competition in near a dozen camp games, the Twin Cities Sports of the Cotton States League, based at Monroe, La., protected their unbeaten camp record today by fighting from behind with three runs in the ninth inning to defeat the Bristol, Va.-Tenn., Twins of the Appalachian League, 9 to 8.

The two clubs meet again in a regulation exhibition Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in a game for the benefit of the Greater Hattiesburg Park Fund. All revenues from the game will go to help pay the bill for installation of lights for the Hattiesburg park.

The McAlester, Okla., club of the Sooner State League broke camp today and headed homeward, but the Sports, along with Owensboro, Ky., and Bristol's Twins, will be around a little longer. There will be no workouts Sunday morning as the near 100 players left in camp will be attending Hattiesburg's churches.

Shortstop Rod Kanel and second baseman "Rip" Rippili, the latter joining the Sports only this week, fired the attack for Manager Ed Head's outfit today. Kanel blasted four singles, and Rippili connected for two singles and a double.

The Sports combed five Bristol pitchers for 11 hits, while the Twins were tagging three Twin Cities hurlers for ten.

Bob Bleyenberg, who entered the game in the fifth inning, following Bill Dietrich, Jr. and Joe DeChano, was the winning pitcher. Colgan was the loser.

Roy Mantle's sacrifice fly and a single by Kanel brought the Sports two runs in the first inning, but Bristol was leading 6-2 until the Sports got three more runs in the fourth on a single by Vic Garadona, a wild pitch, and a double steal by Kanel and Richie Windle.

Rippili's single drove in the tying run in the fifth inning but Bristol tallied two in the eighth to lead again. Rippili singled across the first run on the ninth inning, and Kanel hammered home the tying and winning runs.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP)—Walt Dropo came through Saturday with a grand slam homer that broke a fifth inning stalemate and powered Chicago to a 9-4 triumph over the champion Cleveland Indians.

The 425-foot smash into the upper reaches of the left center field stands by the big first baseman, who was part of the Ferris Fain deal with Detroit last winter, plastered the Tribe with its first defeat of the campaign after three straight victories.

Dropo's first homer of the season geared a six-run fifth inning in which the Sox disposed of starter Bob Feller and Ray Narleski.

Fisherman Cops Excelsior Run; Joe Jones 2nd

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—Fisherman, one of the big favorites of New York racing fans, brought joy to their hearts again today when he sped home for a thrilling victory in the $29,500 Excelsior Handicap at Jamaica.

The largest crowd of the New York season, 41,880, cheered lustily as Fisherman—never worse than third and packing high weight of 126 pounds—took control turning into the home stretch and bounced under the wire a three-quarter length winner over Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Joe Jones. The Belair stud's Golden Gloves finished third in the field of nine, one and a quarter lengths behind Joe Jones and one length ahead of the fourth horse, the Calumet farm's Mark-Ye-Well.

Hedley Woodhouse was aboard Fisherman, darling of the C. V. Whitney stable, replacing Eddie Arcaro, who is under suspension until May 4. The Canadian jockey who rode Fisherman in many of his big 3-year-old stakes last season rated the scrappy brown son of Phalanx perfectly in this 48th running of the Excelsior.

This was Fisherman's first appearance in New York this season. In his first start of 1955 last week at Bowie, Fisherman and Arcaro were nosed out by Social Outcast in the $82,600 John B. Campbell Memorial Stakes.

Backed down to odds on today, Fisherman returned $3.30, $2.40 and $2.30 across the board. Joe Jones, the 7-2 second choice, returned $3 and $2.80, and Golden Gloves was $3.90 to show.

Fisherman, a contender for the 3-year-old honors last year and sensational winner of the Washington, D. C., International classic over foreign horses at Laurel, Md., in November, ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 over a fast track.

Red Hose Fired By Throneberry For 6 To 5 Win

BOSTON, April 16 (AP) — Faye Throneberry, successor to Ted Williams in left field for Boston, drove in two runs and scored three today as the Red Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-5.

Throneberry's ground forceout in the fifth inning brought home Billy Goodman with the tie-breaking run after Baltimore rallied to knot the score 3-3. His single in the first sent in the first of three tallies in that inning. After doubling in the seventh, he came home on Sammy White's two bagger to make the score 6-4.

Giants Win First Game; Defeat Phillies, 8 To 3

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) — Jim Hearn's pitching and a barrage of home runs by Davey Williams, Whitey Lockman, Don Mueller and Hearn himself brought the New York Giants an 8-3 victory over Philadelphia today, the first victory of the season for the world champions.

Hearn, who had a disappointing 8-8 season last year, gave up 10 hits in handing Philadelphia its first loss of the season. But he had an 8-0 lead before the Phils got their first run in the seventh inning. The strong game by the big righthander, who now has a lifetime mark of 15-5 against Philadelphia, lived up to manager Leo Durocher's prediction he would make a comeback in '55.

Cardinals Topple Cubs In 14 Innings, 12 To 11

ST LOUIS, April 16 (AP)—Wally Moon smashed a 12th inning two-run home run and a 14th inning game-winning single today to lift the St. Louis Cardinals over Chicago, 12-11, and overshadow six homers by the Cubs in a free-swinging game that saw 41 players in action.

The loss—Chicago's first this season—gave Brooklyn undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

Moon then teed off on Vince Amor's first pitch for a single to drive Sarni across the plate with the winning run.

It was a heartbreaker for Stan Hack's ambitious Cubs who had taken the lead on 12th inning homers by Banks and Dee Fondy, the second for each in the game.

But Moon, with two out in the bottom of the 12th, banged out his homer to score behind pinch-runner Dick Schofield who took over the baseline for pinch batter Joe Frazier who had walked.

Northeast Loses Heartbreaker To Southeastern ,2-1

Pair Of Unearned Markers Account For Lion Scoring

By TED HECKATHORN

The Northeast State College nine lost a heartbreaker to the Southeastern Lions, 2-1, here yesterday afternoon in a Gulf States Conference encounter.

Both Lion runs were unearned, and each came as the result of errors by two members of the Tribe battery in the second and eighth frames.

In the Southeastern second, Bill Chimento, the leading hitter for the Lions with two for three, opened with a single. The next batter struck out, but catcher Noel Swartz singled to center, with Chimento trying to score. He was out by the proverbial country mile steaming into home, but Indian catcher Billy Thompson dropped the ball on the tag, and the run scored.

The game rocked along at 1-0 until the top of the eighth, when Chimento got on base on a fielder's choice, and pounded all the way home when Tribe pitcher Bo Laird, on a difficult dribbler down the firstbase line, threw the ball hard and wide far outside of first.

Thompson made up for his "gift" in the bottom of the same inning, when he rapped a sharp single to center, scoring Jackie Neal, who had walked and advanced a base on a pass ball.

Laird more than made up for his miscue in the ninth, when the home team came within an eyelash of knotting the count. Joe Jordan batted for Bobby May, and was safe on an infield error. Laird then laid down a perfect bunt halfway between the mound and the plate, and although Bo was out at first, the sacrifice moved Jordan all the way to third.

With the runner on third, and only one away, Tribe coach George Luffey, directing his boys from the hot corner coaching box, elected to gamble, and lost. Southeastern pitcher Don Hecker, seeing that Jordan was taking a wide lead off third, whirled and fired to third-sacker Ray Porta. Joe sped homeward, as Porta quickly threw to his catcher. Jordan was out at the plate, and despite the heated rhubarb that immediately ensued, gone were Northeast's hopes, as Stewart grounded out to end the tussle.

Redlegs Ship Ross To Nashville Farm

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today optioned rookie pitcher Cliff Ross to Nashville of the Southern Association under a 24-hour recall agreement.

The 26-year-old Ross is a lefthander and spent most of last season with Schenectady of the Eastern League where he compiled a 13-10 record with a 2.91 earned run average. He lives at Glenside, Pa.

Brooks Win 4th In Row As Meyer Holds Pirates

PITTSBURGH, April 16 (AP)—Russ Meyer pitched a two-hit ball game for the Brooklyn Dodgers today, giving them a 6-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the Dodgers fourth straight win, and the third loss in a row for the Bucs.

The Dodgers went hitless on six innings of perfect pitching by Bob Purkey. In the seventh, Junior Gilliam singled, advanced on a sacrifice by Peewee Reese, and scored on a double by Duke Snider. For the first tally of the game.

Sandy Amoros opened up a five-run barrage for the Brooks with a single in the eighth. Jackie Robinson bunted safely, Carl Furillo singled, scoring Amoros, and Roy Campanella drew a walk to fill the bases.

Meyer blooped a double to left, bringing home Robinson and Furillo. That finished Purkey for the day, and Elroy Face replaced him on the mound. He was immediately nicked for a single by Gilliam, which scored Campy and Meyer.

Singles by Dick Groat and Jack Shepard were the only Pirate hits of the day.

It was the 13th shutout of his career for Meyer, the top mark for the Brooks' hurling staff. It was also the first shutout of the major league season.

Taseff Signs Pact With Football Colts

The Colts got him from the Cleveland Browns in 1953 and put his 195 pounds into their defensive backfield, where he became a specialist in intercepting passes.

Midway in the 1954 season, the Colts needed him on offense and he responded by compiling a 5.6-yard rushing average, caught 12 passes for 126 yards and picked up 221 yards on kick returns.

Noren Penalty Cut To 3 Days; Plays Monday

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—The indefinite suspension of Irv Noren, New York Yankee outfielder, has been cut to three days and he will rejoin his mates on Monday, Manager Casey Stengel said today. Noren also was fined $100.

Stengel learned of the penalty in a telegram from Will Harridge, American League president. Noren disputed umpire Bill McKinley's ruling of out in a close play at the plate in Boston on Thursday.

Wall 1 Stroke To Good; Snead, Boros Are 2nd

Two new challengers, Sam Snead, after his fifth Greensboro victory, and Julius Boros, the 1952 National Open champion who was married only last Monday, came charging home with three-under par 67s, the day's best scores, to tie for second place at 135, one shot back of Wall.

Furgol, who had a trying time with a bogey six on the last hole, finished with par 70 for 136 and fourth place going into tomorrow's final 36 holes.

The leaders:

Delay Announcement Of Video Grid Slate

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP)—The N. C. A. A. television committee today studied a proposed 1955 football TV schedule submitted by the National Broadcasting Company, but Walter Byers, N. C. A. A. executive director, said that there will be no announcement at this time on the program.

"We are just reviewing the N. B. C.'s proposed schedule, going over some ground rules and attending to other routine administrative matters," Byers said. "There will be no announcement by the N. C. A. A."

The Big Ten TV committee also was meeting, but it could not take steps in drawing up a regional football television plan for 1955 until the national schedule is complete.

LEFT AT HOME

NEW YORK April 16 (AP)—Gil McDougald, New York Yankee second baseman, was left at home because of a back sprain today as his mates took off for Washington and Baltimore. The infielder, injured at Boston Thursday, is expected to be back in uniform when the team returns Wednesday.

7 Players Hit 8 Homers As Braves Trip Redlegs

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP) — Seven different players hit a total of eight bases empty home runs today in a slugging 9-5 victory by the Milwaukee Braves over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Del Crandall, Johnny Logan and Joe Adcock hit the circuit blows for Milwaukee. Ray Jablonski, Andy Seminick, rookie Bob Thurman and Wally Post hit for the circuit with Jablonski getting two, to account for all of Cincinnati's runs.

The eight circuit wallops were within two of the National League record for most homers by both teams in one game.

Adcock and Logan got their pokes out of the park in succession in the seventh. Jablonski, Seminick and Thurman homered in the fifth for the Reds but they were spaced around two outs.

The battle of home runs started after Milwaukee had jumped into a 4-0 lead in the first three innings without the aid of a circuit blow.

An error and singles by Joe Adcock and Johnny Logan accounted for the first Brave run in the second inning. They picked up three more in the second on a triple by Bill Bruton and four singles. The singles included Eddie Mathew's first hit of the season.

Then the two teams started trading haymakers.

Mission Rookie Sets Fast Pace To Lead Hitting

DALLAS, April 16 (AP)—Dave Roberts, the San Antonio rookie first baseman, has set the Texas League on fire with his hitting.

Clubbing at the rate of .619 through the first seven days of the race, the Mission star also leads in hits and home runs and is tied for the lead in doubles.

Roberts has pounded 13 hits in 21 times at bat, socked three homers and four doubles.

Don Taussig of Dallas is tied with him in doubles.

San Antonio players have hogged the statistics in the first averages of the season. Patricio Quintana tops in runs with 11 and Jim Pisoni in runs batted in with 11 in addition to Roberts' leaderships.

Three pitchers have 2-0 records—John (Red) Murff of Dallas, Al Papai of Oklahoma City and Frank Fanovich of San Antonio. Arnie Atkins of Shreveport is the strikeout leader with 12.

Twenty-three players hit .300 or better with Beaumont leading as a club. The Exporters have compiled a .286 average. San Antonio is second with .277.

Second in batting are Alan Grandcolas of Houston, who got 11 hits in 22 times at the plate, and Prentice Browne of Shreveport, with 5 out of 10. Each has a .500 average.

GETS PRO TRYOUT

REGINA, April 16 (AP)—Charlie Harding, former Virginia quarterback, has signed a tryout contract with the Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Canadian League, the club announced today.

Fields, Calento Boxing, Mat Match Tomorrow

A double main event inaugurates the Monday night wrestling card at the Arena, when Lee Fields and Mario Calento fight a ten-round boxing bout; and Buddy Fuller and Baby Blimp tangle in a best-of-three falls wrestling match.

Gus Kallio's weekly programs, which have hitherto been held on Tuesday nights, have been switched to Monday in the future, and should start off the new date with a loud "bang", as both Fields and Calento are bitter wrestling rivals of the past few weeks.

Each of their three feature mat bouts here ended in a controversy, with wrestling commissioner Dave Silverstein having to reverse the referee's decision in two of them.

Each was a roughhouse, featuring two experienced, skillful grapplers, with each out to decisively lick the other for grudge reasons.

Since their last match got out of control completely, when the fierce slugging continued long after the final decision, Kallio has decreed that each shall wear gloves tomorrow night, and slug it out legally. Since both are familiar with the boxing trade, and bitter, mix-it-up rivals at all times, the bout should be a thriller from the opening bell.

Fuller, who hails from Mobile, has appeared here once previously in a tag team tussle, and is a tall, slender youth; while Blimp, who proved a capable referee in past weeks, is just the opposite. Short and fat, the Blimp resembles his nickname.

Former Bear Back Joining Canadians

CALGARY, April 16 (AP)—George (Bunny) Ginger, former Colorado and Chicago Bears halfback, was signed today by the Calgary Stampeders of the Western Canadian League.

Finger, who played both offensively and defensively in college, joined the Bears in 1953. He had been used as a defensive halfback and kickoff and punt return specialist by the pro club.

Northeast Loses Heartbreaker To Southeastern ,2-1

Pair Of Unearned Markers Account For Lion Scoring

By TED HECKATHORN

The Northeast State College nine lost a heartbreaker to the Southeastern Lions, 2-1, here yesterday afternoon in a Gulf States Conference encounter.

Both Lion runs were unearned, and each came as the result of errors by two members of the Tribe battery in the second and eighth frames.

In the Southeastern second, Bill Chimento, the leading hitter for the Lions with two for three, opened with a single. The next batter struck out, but catcher Noel Swartz singled to center, with Chimento trying to score. He was out by the proverbial country mile steaming into home, but Indian catcher Billy Thompson dropped the ball on the tag, and the run scored.

The game rocked along at 1-0 until the top of the eighth, when Chimento got on base on a fielder's choice, and pounded all the way home when Tribe pitcher Bo Laird, on a difficult dribbler down the firstbase line, threw the ball hard and wide far outside of first.

Thompson made up for his "gift" in the bottom of the same inning, when he rapped a sharp single to center, scoring Jackie Neal, who had walked and advanced a base on a pass ball.

Laird more than made up for his miscue in the ninth, when the home team came within an eyelash of knotting the count. Joe Jordan batted for Bobby May, and was safe on an infield error. Laird then laid down a perfect bunt halfway between the mound and the plate, and although Bo was out at first, the sacrifice moved Jordan all the way to third.

With the runner on third, and only one away, Tribe coach George Luffey, directing his boys from the hot corner coaching box, elected to gamble, and lost. Southeastern pitcher Don Hecker, seeing that Jordan was taking a wide lead off third, whirled and fired to third-sacker Ray Porta. Joe sped homeward, as Porta quickly threw to his catcher. Jordan was out at the plate, and despite the heated rhubarb that immediately ensued, gone were Northeast's hopes, as Stewart grounded out to end the tussle.

Redlegs Ship Ross To Nashville Farm

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today optioned rookie pitcher Cliff Ross to Nashville of the Southern Association under a 24-hour recall agreement.

The 26-year-old Ross is a lefthander and spent most of last season with Schenectady of the Eastern League where he compiled a 13-10 record with a 2.91 earned run average. He lives at Glenside, Pa.

Brooks Win 4th In Row As Meyer Holds Pirates

PITTSBURGH, April 16 (AP)—Russ Meyer pitched a two-hit ball game for the Brooklyn Dodgers today, giving them a 6-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the Dodgers fourth straight win, and the third loss in a row for the Bucs.

The Dodgers went hitless on six innings of perfect pitching by Bob Purkey. In the seventh, Junior Gilliam singled, advanced on a sacrifice by Peewee Reese, and scored on a double by Duke Snider. For the first tally of the game.

Sandy Amoros opened up a five-run barrage for the Brooks with a single in the eighth. Jackie Robinson bunted safely, Carl Furillo singled, scoring Amoros, and Roy Campanella drew a walk to fill the bases.

Meyer blooped a double to left, bringing home Robinson and Furillo. That finished Purkey for the day, and Elroy Face replaced him on the mound. He was immediately nicked for a single by Gilliam, which scored Campy and Meyer.

Singles by Dick Groat and Jack Shepard were the only Pirate hits of the day.

It was the 13th shutout of his career for Meyer, the top mark for the Brooks' hurling staff. It was also the first shutout of the major league season.

Taseff Signs Pact With Football Colts

Taseff is from Parma, O., and starred at John Carroll University.

The Colts got him from the Cleveland Browns in 1953 and put his 195 pounds into their defensive backfield, where he became a specialist in intercepting passes.

Midway in the 1954 season, the Colts needed him on offense and he responded by compiling a 5.6-yard rushing average, caught 12 passes for 126 yards and picked up 221 yards on kick returns.

Noren Penalty Cut To 3 Days; Plays Monday

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP)—The indefinite suspension of Irv Noren, New York Yankee outfielder, has been cut to three days and he will rejoin his mates on Monday, Manager Casey Stengel said today. Noren also was fined $100.

Stengel learned of the penalty in a telegram from Will Harridge, American League president. Noren disputed umpire Bill McKinley's ruling of out in a close play at the plate in Boston on Thursday.

Two new challengers, Sam Snead, after his fifth Greensboro victory, and Julius Boros, the 1952 National Open champion who was married only last Monday, came charging home with three-under par 67s, the day's best scores, to tie for second place at 135, one shot back of Wall.

Furgol, who had a trying time with a bogey six on the last hole, finished with par 70 for 136 and fourth place going into tomorrow's final 36 holes.

The leaders:

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., 66-68—134

Delay Announcement Of Video Grid Slate

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP)—The N. C. A. A. television committee today studied a proposed 1955 football TV schedule submitted by the National Broadcasting Company, but Walter Byers, N. C. A. A. executive director, said that there will be no announcement at this time on the program.

"We are just reviewing the N. B. C.'s proposed schedule, going over some ground rules and attending to other routine administrative matters," Byers said. "There will be no announcement by the N. C. A. A."

The Big Ten TV committee also was meeting, but it could not take steps in drawing up a regional football television plan for 1955 until the national schedule is complete.

LEFT AT HOME

NEW YORK April 16 (AP)—Gil McDougald, New York Yankee second baseman, was left at home because of a back sprain today as his mates took off for Washington and Baltimore. The infielder, injured at Boston Thursday, is expected to be back in uniform when the team returns Wednesday.

7 Players Hit 8 Homers As Braves Trip Redlegs

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP) — Seven different players hit a total of eight bases empty home runs today in a slugging 9-5 victory by the Milwaukee Braves over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Del Crandall, Johnny Logan and Joe Adcock hit the circuit blows for Milwaukee. Ray Jablonski, Andy Seminick, rookie Bob Thurman and Wally Post hit for the circuit with Jablonski getting two, to account for all of Cincinnati's runs.

The eight circuit wallops were within two of the National League record for most homers by both teams in one game.

Adcock and Logan got their pokes out of the park in succession in the seventh. Jablonski, Seminick and Thurman homered in the fifth for the Reds but they were spaced around two outs.

The battle of home runs started after Milwaukee had jumped into a 4-0 lead in the first three innings without the aid of a circuit blow.

An error and singles by Joe Adcock and Johnny Logan accounted for the first Brave run in the second inning. They picked up three more in the second on a triple by Bill Bruton and four singles. The singles included Eddie Mathew's first hit of the season.

Then the two teams started trading haymakers.

Timber Produced In State Faster Than It Is Cut

NEW ORLEANS April 16 —UP— The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today that more timber is being grown than is being cut in Louisiana.

However, the department said in a survey, growth is only about half the potential yields because stands are understocked.

The department said Louisiana's forests are growing 716 million cubic feet of timber annually.

Of the total grown annually, some 2.8 billion board feet is sawtimber. In 1953, when the latest cutting statistics were compiled, 366 million cubic feet of timber were logged, of which 1.4 billion board feet were sawtimber.

The survey said that forests cover 16,128,900 acres of the state's total land area of 28,903,700 acres. It is about the same total acreage as in the middle 1930's when the first survey of Louisiana's forests was made.

Louisiana's supply of all merchantable trees of pole timber-size or larger totals 12 billion cubic feet, the survey said. That is about five per cent more total volume than in 1934-35. Softwood volume, which includes the southern yellow pines as well as cypress and cedar, increased 11 per cent. Hardwood increased two per cent.

The department said sawtimber tree volume was 45 million board feet, an increase of one per cent. Hardwood volume dropped six per cent since the initial survey. Softwood volume, however, increased 12 per cent.

Louisiana's forest resources support some 500 sawmills, eight woodpulp mil a,slnd about 80 miscellaneous wood-using plants. The eight mills are now using more pine annually than the state's several hundred sawmills, according to the survey.

Superintendent Of City Schools To Address P-TA

Van Odom, superintendent of Monroe City Schools, will be guest speaker Tuesday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sherrouse Parent-Teacher Association.

The meeting will be held in the school auditorium.

Odom will explain the needs of the city schools which will require a bond election to provide these essentials.

All members should avail themselves of this opportunity to hear these issues discussed, Mrs. Juanita Hendricks, P-T. A. president, said.

Also on the night's agenda will be reports from the various committee chairmen regarding the work accomplished during the year.

4-H'er Is Named Champion Counter Of Cotton Insects

KILBOURNE, April 16 (Special) —Talmadge Goodwin of Kilbourne 4-H Club has been named as champion cotton insect counter for the 1954 season, it was announced by West Carroll parish assistant county agent, S. C. Ferguson, Jr.

The club youngster kept a record on infestation in his field of cotton and timed his poison applications according to percentage of insect infestations, rather than poisoning at regular intervals without counting, Ferguson said.

At the close of record of counts made throughout the season, Talmadge wrote a story explaining his reason for making poison applications, and the reasons for periods of refraining from treating with insecticide. Insect counting guided his entire pestilent control program, Ferguson said.

Timber Produced In State Faster Than It Is Cut

NEW ORLEANS April 16 —UP— The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today that more timber is being grown than is being cut in Louisiana.

However, the department said in a survey, growth is only about half the potential yields because stands are understocked.

The department said Louisiana's forests are growing 716 million cubic feet of timber annually.

Of the total grown annually, some 2.8 billion board feet is sawtimber. In 1953, when the latest cutting statistics were compiled, 366 million cubic feet of timber were logged, of which 1.4 billion board feet were sawtimber.

The survey said that forests cover 16,128,900 acres of the state's total land area of 28,903,700 acres. It is about the same total acreage as in the middle 1930's when the first survey of Louisiana's forests was made.

Louisiana's supply of all merchantable trees of pole timber-size or larger totals 12 billion cubic feet, the survey said. That is about five per cent more total volume than in 1934-35. Softwood volume, which includes the southern yellow pines as well as cypress and cedar, increased 11 per cent. Hardwood increased two per cent.

The department said sawtimber tree volume was 45 million board feet, an increase of one per cent. Hardwood volume dropped six per cent since the initial survey. Softwood volume, however, increased 12 per cent.

Louisiana's forest resources support some 500 sawmills, eight woodpulp mil a.slnd about 80 miscellaneous wood-using plants. The eight mills are now using more pine annually than the state's several hundred sawmills, according to the survey.

KILBOURNE, April 16 (Special) —Talmadge Goodwin of Kilbourne 4-H Club has been named as champion cotton insect counter for the 1954 season, it was announced by West Carroll parish assistant county agent, S. C. Ferguson, Jr.

The club youngster kept a record on infestation in his field of cotton and timed his poison applications according to percentage of insect infestations, rather than poisoning at regular intervals without counting, Ferguson said.

At the close of record of counts made throughout the season, Talmadge wrote a story explaining his reason for making poison applications, and the reasons for periods of refraining from treating with insecticide. Insect counting guided his entire pestilent control program, Ferguson said.

LOVE A . . .

. . . $450 down payment and one heck'uva home to go with it? Here 'tis at 703 VICTORIA with the following features: 884 sq. feet of living area PLUS carport and storage; 2 years old with asbestos siding; kitchen has 220 volts, stove hood, washer plumbing; bath has tub and shower; 2 wall furnaces; natural woodwork; 2 bedrooms and it's within easy walkin' distance of Lexington Grammar! Love to have a peek?

LOVE A . . .

. . . 7-room home in a splendid northside location (3 blocks from Georgia Tucker) at an extremely reasonable price of $11,500? We've "got the goods" at 1105 North 7th with the following features: 3 roomy bedrooms; forced air heat; large living room with fireplace and a separate dining room; has a screened back porch and enclosed front porch; double garage; wonderfully shaded back yard and 1560 sq. feet of living area. It's vacant! Love to have a look?

LOVE A . . .

. . . splendid purchase in investment property well located on the northside? Well . . . 808 North 4th "fills the bill" and then some! It's on a corner lot with 150' on north 4th, has 5 units with a gross return of approximately $265! We'd love to show you today!

LOVE A . . .

. . . 1800 sq. foot 3-bedroom, 2-tile bath home only three years old within a "stone's throw" of Lexington School? Here's the "most" and look at the features: 14x27 living and dining area (carpeted wall to wall); central heating; 14x18 kitchen that's pine-paneled with: loads of cabinet space, washer plumbing; pine-paneled den; double carport and it's on a 100' lot at 1612 MILTON STREET! Love to have a "gander"!

LOVE A . . .

. . . 1751 sq. foot brick home in an exclusive northside neighborhood! 408 &PEED fits the foregoing and the following: 3 bedrooms; glistening oak floors; tile bath; well-proportioned living room; a 9X31 enclosed back porch (ideal for a spacious "rumpus" room); has a double garage and it's just 2 blocks to Neville High! Love a tour today?

LOVE A . . .

. . . good buy in a 2-bedroom (5 rooms) home in the college area with only $600 down? 1605 COLLEGE AVE. fits the above and the following: 988 sq. feet of living area; well-arranged kitchen and separate dining room; gleaming oak floors throughout; attic fan and floor furnace; new water heater; gutters and downspouts; exterior just been repainted and it's vacant! Love to have the key?

LOVE A . . .

. . . lot on the bayou and one swell brick home to go with it? Well . . . we've got a "charmer" in this pink brick on FINK'S HIDEAWAY ROAD. It has 2 bedrooms and a spacious paneled den with a real fireplace; living room also has a real fireplace; bath and a half and a 125' on the bayou! $11,900 is the price and we'd be tickled "pink" to show you today!

LOVE A . . .

. . . sensible purchase in a 5-room home at 511 SOUTH 4th? We've "got the goods" AND . . . $850 down buys all the following: large living room and separate dining room; oak floors; both bedrooms are 14x13; house has wood walls with nice selection of wallpaper; garage and other features. You'd love it!

LOVE A . . .

. . . almost new home just a half a block to the Plum Street School! Here 'tis and . . . whata' home it is; 816 sq. feet of living area; central forced-air heating; bath has colored fixtures; nice size kitchen with washer plumbing, good cabinet space, stove hood and double sink; carport with storage; attic fan and it's on a 60' lot with paving! 1413 SOUTH 5th is the address and $600 down makes the move!

LOVE A . . .

. . . 3-bedroom home within 2 blocks of the West Monroe High School and Millsaps grammar school? 1221 NORTH 2nd fits "like an old shoe"! It possesses 1362 sq. feet of living area; well proportioned living room and separate dining room; forced air heat; a unique 9x15 kitchen; 10x12 back screened porch; nice hardwood floors throughout! It's located on a 50' lot in a splendid neighborhood AND reasonably priced at only $9500. $1050 down makes the move!

LOVE A . . .

. . . 100 per cent G. I. loan on a 2-bedroom and paneled den home on 100'x 200' lot with loads of trees in Sunshine Heights? Well . . . 1531 WILLIS makes it all come true and then some! It possesses: 1243 sq. feet of living area . . . nice size carport with storage; a 12x18 living room that's carpeted wall to wall . . . central heating . . . the den's paneled with a huge closet in it . . . both bedrooms are 12x17 with walk-in closets. . . . has attic fan . . . and the home is only 2 years old! Closing costs makes the move on a G. I. loan! The price is $14,455!

LOVE A . . .

. . . spacious home that's a beauty on REGAN STREET in West Monroe? Man . . . you oughta' take a few minutes this afternoon and let us show you 117 REGAN! You'd love the 2 large bedrooms . . . the 11x32 enclosed back porch . . . the roomy kitchen . . . the large living room and the separate dining room . . . the detached garage . . . the paved street with curbs and gutters; AND the reasonable down payment on G. I.! $500 is all it takes down. G. I.!

Tenn. Town Has Smelly Attraction

By BILL RAWLINS

COSBY, Tenn., April 16 (AP) — This moonshine capital of Tennessee wants to grow up to be a tourist center. So it figured out a pretty smelly way to do it.

Come the weekend of April 23, the festival of the ramps will get under way.

To explain to the uninitiated: A ramp is first cousin to the lily of the valley. It smells roughly like a cross between an onion and a garlic plant, liberally seasoned with vinegar. Some folks in these parts regard it as a great delicacy; the rest eat it in self-defense.

You might think the ramp would drive away more tourists than it would attract, but the first ramp feast last year drew a crowd of 20,000. With Harry S. Truman as an added attraction, 50,000 are expected this year. This is quite a throng for a community that is nothing more than a country store and a post office, run by one of the few Democrats around, Mrs. Glennie Kate Harrison.

Cosby is known as a bastion of old guard Republicanism, and Truman polled only 20 out of 400 votes cast for president in 1948. But there are no grudges on either side, and the former President will be the festival's main speaker and receive a 21-gun slaute.

The festival is largely the achievement of David R. Large, who retired to his native Cosby two years ago after 25 years in the federal prison service.

"Wherever I went in the prison service," Large says, "I had somebody in from Cosby, for moonshining. They didn't moonshine because they wanted to, but because their farms weren't large enough to support a family. And if they were in jail, their families often were better off financially — on relief."

This didn't look to Large like a very good basis for a prosperous future.

When Large was elected president of Cosby's Ruritan Club, he began casting around for ideas. He thought of ramps — allium tricoccum to botanists — which grow wild above the 3,000-foot level and are gathered in by the mountaineers about the middle of April each year. The idea of the ramp festival followed.

Truman will speak on Sunday, April 23. The night before, a play written by Cosby's Delmar Baxter in the hill country dialect and depicting the Cosby story will be presented by local actors.

On the big day 25 acres of green Smoky Mountains foothills are reserved for the festival crowd. One hundred state highway patrolmen are expected to be on hand to handle traffic.

The festival is free, but proceeds from a feed of barbecued chicken and ramps cooked with fatback will be kept by the Ruritan Club for civic development. Visitors are expected to hunt up their own moonshine.

From such a beginning Cosby hopes to emerge as a tourist center. It has rough competition. Gatlinburg, headquarters of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, is only 17 miles away.

RESCUED—Two stranded children are rescued by neighbors in a boat as 13½-inch rain fell on Mobile, Ala., flooding homes and drowning out hundreds of automobiles. Car at right has stopped to let boat pass.

TRUSTING SOUL

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (UP) — Newman Smith's faith in human nature has been shaken by a motorist whose car struck him. The driver of the car asked Smith, 44, to wait at the scene of the accident while he went for help. Police found Smith the next morning sitting against a building still waiting. Smith was treated for minor injuries.

Farmerville Garden Club Has Outing

FARMERVILLE — For the April meeting, the Farmerville Garden Club enjoyed an outdoor program and picnic at the roadside park located about ten miles east of Farmerville in the midst of one of the dogwood gardens in Union Parish, on the Farmerville - Sterlington Highway.

Mrs. Fred Preaus had made arrangements and plans in advance, for the planting of iris, lilies, and other bulbs in this park by the club.

Mrs. P. L. Read, president of the club, presided over a business session at which it was decided to leave the exact date for the flower display, planned for May, to the general chairman, Mrs. Guy Ludwig and her committee.

Mrs. W. O. Roberts brought some timely information on "Planting and Growing Bulbs."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Layton Hester, Mrs. Doyle Smith and Mrs. P. L. Read, after which each member planted the bulbs and corms brought by them.

Afternoon Tea Honors Miss Clara Munholland

The first of numerous parties planned for Miss Clara Munholland, who will be the June bride of Aylmer Montgomery, Jr., was a tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Charles McKenzie and Mrs. Carroll Royce in the McKenzie home on Fairview Ave.

As the four hundred guests arrived they were greeted at the door by Mrs. O. Wharton Brown and Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher.

In the receiving line were Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Royce, Mrs. Thomas Munholland, Miss Clara Munholland and Mrs. Aylmer Montgomery.

Pink and white formed the motif in decorations. In the entrance hall there was a beautiful Japanese arrangement of white blossoms and pink roses. A large bouquet of spring flowers in shades of pink was used in the receiving room.

Pink caladium leaves and pink blossoms decorated the morning porch. Here Mrs. Aubrey Boyd, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie and Mrs. Allen Guthrie served punch. They were assisted by Miss Fran Guthrie, Mrs. Jack Smith, Miss Jo Marie Elliott, Mrs. R. L. Davis, Jr., Mrs. Charles McKenzie, Jr. and Mrs. Harry Hubenthal.

In the dining room the tea table was covered with a white linen cut work cloth and centering the table was a mass arrangement of white stock, tulips, roses and stephanotis. Mrs. Henry Montg, Mrs. Marie Frazier and Mrs. John Breard poured, during the afternoon.

Others assisting the hostesses Mrs. Henry Montgomery Mrs. Stanton Huey, Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Mrs. James A. Noe, Mrs. Lea Thompson, Mrs. Hollis Venable, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., Mrs. J. W. Perry, Mrs. Harold Mouk, and Mrs. D. X. Ellett.

Girl Scout News

Did you sign up yesterday for at least one of the summer camps? If you didn't, you'd better be reading the camp folders and making up your minds about taking part in day or established camping or both. The camp folders are available now. Girls may get them from their leaders.

The camp committee was at the office all day yesterday to receive registrations and to answer questions. Next Sunday we'll be able to tell you who were "first," as we promised last Sunday.

Day Camp will be held at Pine Wood for nine days, July 11-21. Making a unit under the trees, exploring the vicinity of camp, games and singing, flag ceremonies, nature quests, crafts, firebuilding and cooking are some of the activities carried out by the girls under the guidance of adult leaders and skilled program aides. There are girls in the Twin Cities who have not missed a day camp yet. It is an excellent first camping experience for younger girls who are not yet ready, perhaps, for a two-week stay away from home. Yet, no one has had any more fun than the older girls who have come year after year. Day camp is open to girls from the third grade up, with different age girls in different units. Plans are in the making for a number of Bastrop scouts and their leaders to join us at day camp. After all, Bastrop is the same distance as Monroe from Pine Wood. Several girls from Bastrop were at Wawbansee last year; maybe that's what started the planning. Anyway, we think it's a good idea.

Established camping will be for two weeks, August 14-26, at Wawbansee, Shreveport's camp, which is nearer to us than to them. Located a few miles east of Arcadia, the camp is in a setting of hills and pine trees, with a lake for boating and a swimming pool with cool water. The hills are dotted with little brown cabins, each accommodating four girls, and each having a view of the lake.

As in all Girl Scout camps, the girls live and work and play in units with girls of about the same age, and with their own unit counselors.

With Red Cross trained water safety instructors in charge, swimming instruction is offered all girls, with canoeing and boating for the most advanced swimmers. With a counselor already secured who is good at archery, the girls are assured of being able to participate in that sport. A building devoted to crafts makes it possible to carry on a good crafts program. Just simple camp living is the best fun of all in the out of doors whatever the kind of camp. For a relatively inexpensive camp close to home, parents will do well to investigate the possibilities of a season at Wawbansee for their daughters.

Troop 44, Brownies at Barkdull-Faulk school, were entertained with an Easter egg hunt and hamburger fry by Mrs. Ben Cobb, a member of the troop committee. It's a good thing some youngsters had egg hunts early in the week. There certainly was little opportunity Easter day.

All registered Scout adults and all mothers of girls in Sherrouse and Our Lady of Fatima schools are urged to attend a meeting in the auditorium of Sherrouse school Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 to organize the first neighborhood association in Girl Scouting in the Twin Cities. If your girls attend either of these schools, do try to attend the meeting. It will only last an hour.

Miss Jernigan Weds Philip O. Bradford, Jr.

OLLA — Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jernigan of Blade, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ineta Jernigan to Philip Owen Bradford, Jr., son of Mrs. Philip Owen Bradford and the late Mr. Bradford of Rhinehart.

The wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Natchez, Miss., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Watson, cousins of the bride.

Arrangements of gladiolas and yellow caladiums were used at vantage points throughout the house.

The vows were heard by the Rev. T. J. Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson served as the bridal couple's attendants.

Mrs. Jernigan, the bride's mother, was wearing a beige spring model with beige and brown accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony.

The bride's table, overlaid in white, was centered with the wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

They will make their home in Natchez, Miss.

Couple Say Vows In Natchez, Miss.

Rev. and Mrs. Buddy Andrews of Rosefield announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mallie Andrews to Luther Ray Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lewis, of Enterprise, on Thursday evening, March 31 in Natchez, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lewis of Enterprise were the couple's only attendants.

They are making their home in Port Sulphur.

MRS. DONALD H. WATTLEY, of New Orleans, president of the Louisiana Society of Colonial Dames was honor guest when the Dames entertained with their annual luncheon, Saturday, at the Lotus Club.

Morning Party, Luncheon Given By Colonial Dames

The charming home of Mrs. E. Gordon Wright was the scene Monday of a morning party for the members of the Monroe Committee of the Louisiana Society of Colonial Dames and out-of-town Dames preceding their annual luncheon. Iris and spring blossoms were artistically arranged throughout the living room, dining-room, and glassed porch, where Mrs. James Harvey Trousdale and Mrs. Hillyer R. Speed presided at the sherry and coffee tables.

The luncheon following was held at the Lotus Club with Mrs. David Wattley of New Orleans, president of the Louisiana Society. Mrs. C.P. Kramer, Jr., chairman of the Alexandria committee, and Mrs. Dorf Bean, chairman of the Shreveport committee, brought greetings from their respective members. Mr. Ed Piper of Shreveport spoke on details of colonial decoration.

Monroe members attending were Mesdames Stanley Blower, David I. Garrett, James Q. Graves, O.M. Grisham, S. E. Huey, Roy Johns, Robert Layton, Thomas Leigh, O.R. Lewis, Charles Mitchell, Allan Sholars, Elmer Slagle, W. E. Smith, Jr., George Snellings, Jr., Hillyer R. Speed, King Stubbs, John Theus, James Harvey Trousdale, and E. Gordon Wright.

Out-of-town Colonial Dames were I. Garrett, chairman of the Monroe Committee, presiding. The yellow theme was carried out with arrangements of California gold iris and yellow roses. Honor guest on this occasion was Mrs. Donald H. Mesdames Dorf Bean, R. H. Dixey, Gradloe Stuck, and Wesley Wheless of Shreveport; Mesdames O. L. Aubin, Richardson Ayres, J. H. Henderson, Jr., C. P. Kramer, Jr., Hamilton Robertson, A. J. Robinson, and Ralph S. Thornton and Miss Ruth Overton and Miss Lelia Palfrey of Alexandria; Mrs. Donald H. Wattley of New Orleans; and Mrs. H. Duke Shackelford of Jones.

MRS. HOLLIS LIONEL WEIR

Weir-McKinnie Wedding Solemnized In Afternoon

The First Methodist Church of West Monroe was the scene Easter Sunday, April 10, of the impressive ceremony which united in marriage Miss Geraldine McKinnie and Hollis Lionel Weir. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvis Lee McKinnie and he is the son of Mrs. Henrietta Weir, all of West Monroe. The Rev. William D. Milton performed the double-ring ceremony at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

While the guests were being shown to their places, Mrs. W. W. Watson rendered a program of nuptial music which included "Claire de Lune" by Debussy and "Liebestraum" by Liszt.

Large arrangements of white calla lilies and greenery were placed on the altar with wrought iron candelabra of burning white tapers. The pews for the family were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. McKinnie wore a dress of navy crepe with a scooped neckline and topped with a fitted jacket. Her hat was of navy straw and her gloves were white. She pinned a corsage of pink feathered carnations, forget - me - nots and stephanotis to her shoulder.

Mrs. Weir selected a dress of hyacinth blue crepe with a tucked bodice and elbow length sleeves. Her accessories included a black straw hat and white gloves. Her corsage was also pink feathered carnations, forget - me - nots and stephanotis.

Jennings Wilkins, soloist, sang "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee" by Greig. He was accompanied by Mrs. Watson.

Miss Eloise McKinnie was her sister's honor attendant and Mrs. M. Russell Harrison served as the bride's other attendant.

Their waltz length dresses were of mint green and dusty pink with the bodice of lace over satin. The Chantilly lace formed a scalloped protrait neckline with short lace sleeves. The bouffant skirts were of matching tulle. A narrow satin band draped to the back of the bodice to form a bow and an empire waistline.

Each wore a small cap outlined in seed pearls and carried bouquets of semi - cascade arrangements of spring flowers in baskets of rainbow hues with matching satin streamers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. James C. Weir served his brother as best man.

The bride's dress was designed with a fitted bodice of imported French princess lace over satin featuring a Marie Antoinette collar and long fitted sleeves which tapered to points over the hands. The bodice came to a point in front and was fastened in back with tiny self covered buttons.

The waltz - length skirt was bouffant with layers of tulle and an overskirt of scalloped lace which fell in graduated folds in back. Her double - tiered elbow length veil of illusion cascaded from a cloche of lace and satin and was encrusted with seed pearls.

Serving as ushers were R. C. Willbanks, Harold Kennedy, Jimmy Carner and Elmer Fant.

Reception Held

The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth over pale green. At one end was the crystal punch bowl. At the other end, the four tiered wedding cake was a beautiful confection decorated with lilies - of - the valley and pink roses. In the center of the table, the bride placed her bouquet and tall tapers burned at either side.

Serving the cake was Miss Barbara Ford while Mrs. A. A. Cobb, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. A. John Scalia, sister of the groom, invited guests to sign the bride's book. Also, assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. E. B. McKinnie, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Q. L. Barnes, Jr., and Mrs. L. E. Fisher. Mrs. R. C. Willbanks invited the guests in to view the many lovely gifts.

Out - of - town guests were: Mr. Cloyd Farrar, Bastrop; Mr. James C. Weir, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. B. E. McKinnie, Larry, Gary, Marilyn and Shirley, Marion; Misses Sue and Ann McKinnie, Marion; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Green, Marion; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Green, Marion; Mrs. Ethel McKinnie, Marion; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cobb and Gaynelle, Farmerville; Mrs. E. B. McKinnie and Mary Ann, Dubach; Mrs. Vera Sharp, Janet, Duane, Sherry, Boyce; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dodd, Little Rock; Mrs. Jessie Crawford and Harry, Jr., Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. A. Mathes, New Orleans.

Prenuptial Parties

On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. M. Russell Harrison entertained Miss McKinnie and Mr. Weir prior to their wedding at a dinner held in the Cedar Room of the Rendezvous. A corsage of white split carnations and hyacinth blooms marked the place of the bride. She was presented with a lovely gift of her selected silver.

Those attending with the host and hostess, Miss McKinnie and Mr. Weir were Miss Barbara Ford, Mr. Harold Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Willbanks.

Saturday evening following the wedding rehearsal, a supper for the wedding party and families was held in the Cajun Room of the Rendezvous, hosted by the sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Paul Sherrard, Mrs. Marshall Downs, and Mrs. A. John Scalia.

MRS. BILLY R. SHORT

Miss Deon Bezz Becomes Bride Of Billy R. Short

In a lovely ceremony, Miss Deon Bezz, daughter of Mrs. C. Bezz, became the bride of Billy R. Short.

The vows were said at 9:30 Thursday morning at St. Matthew's Catholic Church. Msgr. C. Marsh officiated. The alters were decorated with white Easter lilies and lighted white cathedral tapers. The pews were marked with large white satin bows.

Mrs. Thelma Oseland served as organist and accompanied Mr. Roger Johns who sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Alter boys were Abdalla Elias, Donnie Elias and Georgie Elias.

Miss Yvonne Mansour, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Mary Jo Mansour of Alexandria was matron of honor.

Attendants were Mrs. Alice Namie and Mrs. Mary Negem of Jonesboro.

Joy Varino was flower girl.

The attendants wore waltz-length gowns of pale pink chiffon over taffeta. The long fitted torsos were of chiffon and were shirred to form petal points below the waist. The dresses featured a portrait neckline.

They carried bouquets of red delight roses tied with pink ribbons. Their hats were of matching chiffon and they wore pink satin shoes.

The bride given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Louis Elias, wore a beautiful gown of dainty imported Chantilly lace and tulle over multiple layers of tulle and net. The scooped sweetheart neck was enhanced with delicate seed pearls and iridescent paillettes. The bodice was closely molded to accent the tiny waist. The long sleeves formed petal points at the wrist.

Tier upon tier of accordion pleated tulle and Chantilly lace cascaded from the sides into a chapel train. Her full veil of illusion fell from a tiara made of seed pearls and pailletes to match the dress. She carried a bouquet made of stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her only accessory was a single strand of tiny pearls.

Mr. Eddie Namie served as best man. Groomsmen were Joe Lasuzzo, Jr.; Sam Elias, Jr. and John Spatafora, Jr.

Charles Elias was ringbearer.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the Frances Hotel roof where a pink and white motif was carried out in decorations.

The bride's table covered with a white imported Irish linen cutwork cloth was centered with a four-tier wedding cake of pink and white decorated with tiny bluebirds and white swans. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom, the bride being dressed identically. The punch table was also decorated in pink and white.

Mrs. George Elias served the cake. Mrs. Ned Thomas and Mrs. Phillip Thomas presided at the punch service. Miss Marie Nomey kept the guest book.

MR. AND MRS. DAYTON F. BALL, JR.

Miss Yvonne Fisher Becomes Bride Of Dayton F. Ball, Jr.

In an impressive double-ring ceremony at 5 o'clock, Friday, April 8, at the First Methodist Church in West Monroe, Miss Yvonne Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fisher of West Monroe, became the bride of Dayton F. Ball, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Ball, of Alexandria. The Rev. T. A. Brown performed the nuptial rites.

Prenuptial music was presented by Miss Betty Fisher who accompanied the soloist, Miss Betty Spurlock who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's wedding gown was of white tulle over satin with lace inserts, fitted sleeves which ended in petal points over the wrist and a sculptured bodice of lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a beaded crown. She carried a white Bible on which was mounted a purple throated orchid surrounded by stephanotis and matching streamers. She wore an heirloom lapel - watch which belonged to her grandmother and a pearl necklace, which was a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Clay Fisher, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Her waltz-length gown was of blue net over blue taffeta which featured tiers of ruffles and a fitted bodice. She carried a bouquet of heartshaped pink carnations. Her headdress was of matching blue net and taffeta.

Miss Virginia Ann Ball, sister of the bridegroom, was a bridesmaid. Her gown was identical to the honor attendant.

The bridegroom's father, Mr. Dayton F. Ball, served as best man. Frank Pearce III, Mikey Simmons and Bob Mitchell were groomsmen and ushers.

The bride's mother chose a navy crepe with white piping which formed a sweetheart neckline and black accessories. Completing her ensemble was a white corsage of carnations.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony in the youth building of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cloth and centered with the four-tiered wedding cake which was topped by a vase of small rosebuds and greenery.

White gladiolas were used at vantage points throughout the reception rooms.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, attended Louisiana Tech and is a student at Northeast State College.

Mr. Ball graduated from Bolton High School, attended Louisiana State University and served in the air force in Europe. He is also attending Northeast State College.

It's a good idea not to repeat two fruit flavors in a dinner menu. If you are serving fruit as a first course, or as an accompaniment to the main course, you'll find coffee- or chocolate - flavored desserts make a fine ending to the meal.

Cooking bacon for a crowd? Place strips of bacon on a rack in a shallow pan, making sure that the fat edges of the bacon overlap the lean. Bake on the top shelf of a hot (400 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until as crisp as you like.

BETROTHAL TOLD—Mr. and Mrs. Sam David of Olla announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia, to Glynn Edward Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Gardner of Ferriday. Mr. Gardner, a music major at Northwestern, is now band director at LaSalle High School. Miss David will attend Louisiana College in the fall where she will major in elementary education. The wedding will take place at the First Baptist Church of Olla on June 12, at 3:00.

Tea Announces Engagement Of Patricia David

Mrs. Sam David entertained at a tea in honor of her daughter, Patricia Irene David, announcing her engagement to Glynn Edward Gardner. The wedding is to take place June 12 in the First Baptist Church of Olla.

A color scheme of pink and white was used throughout the tea. The center piece on the dining table was of white carnations, pink daisies and stock. Silver candelabras with burning tapers added to the arrangement. The napkins lettered in silver "Pat and Glynn, June 12, 1955" were used for the announcement.

In the receiving line were Mrs. David, Mrs. P. B. Gardner, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, and Mrs. Earl Quinn, his sister. The honoree was dressed in a sky blue silk organza with a fitted bodice, bouffant skirt, with an accordian-pleated inset in front. Her accessories were rhinestone jewelry and a corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Patsy Gregory invited guests to sign the bride's book and Mrs. Sammy David, sister-in-law of the bride-elect and Miss Sue Sims presided at the punch bowl.

MR. AND MRS. DAYTON F. BALL, JR.

Miss Yvonne Fisher Becomes Bride Of Dayton F. Ball, Jr.

In an impressive double-ring ceremony at 5 o'clock, Friday, April 8, at the First Methodist Church in West Monroe, Miss Yvonne Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fisher of West Monroe, became the bride of Dayton F. Ball, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Ball, of Alexandria. The Rev. T. A. Brown performed the nuptial rites.

Prenuptial music was presented by Miss Betty Fisher who accompanied the soloist, Miss Betty Spurlock who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's wedding gown was of white tulle over satin with lace inserts, fitted sleeves which ended in petal points over the wrist and a sculptured bodice of lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a beaded crown. She carried a white Bible on which was mounted a purple throated orchid surrounded by stephanotis and matching streamers. She wore an heirloom lapel - watch which belonged to her grandmother and a pearl necklace, which was a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Clay Fisher, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Her waltz-length gown was of blue net over blue taffeta which featured tiers of ruffles and a fitted bodice. She carried a bouquet of heartshaped pink carnations. Her headdress was of matching blue net and taffeta.

Miss Virginia Ann Ball, sister of the bridegroom, was a bridesmaid. Her gown was identical to the honor attendant.

The bridegroom's father, Mr. Dayton F. Ball, served as best man. Frank Pearce III, Mikey Simmons and Bob Mitchell were groomsmen and ushers.

The bride's mother chose a navy crepe with white piping which formed a sweetheart neckline and black accessories. Completing her ensemble was a white corsage of carnations.

Mrs. Ball, the bridegroom's mother, was becomingly attired in a light blue linen with lace inserts. She wore white accessories and white carnations.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony in the youth building of the church.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cloth and centered with the four-tiered wedding cake which was topped by a vase of small rosebuds and greenery.

White gladiolas were used at vantage points throughout the reception rooms.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School, attended Louisiana Tech and is a student at Northeast State College.

Mr. Ball graduated from Bolton High School, attended Louisiana State University and served in the air force in Europe. He is also attending Northeast State College.

It's a good idea not to repeat two fruit flavors in a dinner menu. If you are serving fruit as a first course, or as an accompaniment to the main course, you'll find coffee- or chocolate - flavored desserts make a fine ending to the meal.

Cooking bacon for a crowd? Place strips of bacon on a rack in a shallow pan, making sure that the fat edges of the bacon overlap the lean. Bake on the top shelf of a hot (400 degrees) oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until as crisp as you like.

BETROTHAL TOLD—Mr. and Mrs. Sam David of Olla announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia, to Glynn Edward Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Gardner of Ferriday. Mr. Gardner, a music major at Northwestern, is now band director at LaSalle High School. Miss David will attend Louisiana College in the fall where she will major in elementary education. The wedding will take place at the First Baptist Church of Olla on June 12, at 3:00.

Tea Announces Engagement Of Patricia David

Mrs. Sam David entertained at a tea in honor of her daughter, Patricia Irene David, announcing her engagement to Glynn Edward Gardner. The wedding is to take place June 12 in the First Baptist Church of Olla.

A color scheme of pink and white was used throughout the tea. The center piece on the dining table was of white carnations, pink daisies and stock. Silver candelabras with burning tapers added to the arrangement. The napkins lettered in silver "Pat and Glynn, June 12, 1955" were used for the announcement.

In the receiving line were Mrs. David, Mrs. P. B. Gardner, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, and Mrs. Earl Quinn, his sister. The honoree was dressed in a sky blue silk organza with a fitted bodice, bouffant skirt, with an accordian-pleated inset in front. Her accessories were rhinestone jewelry and a corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Patsy Gregory invited guests to sign the bride's book and Mrs. Sammy David, sister-in-law of the bride-elect and Miss Sue Sims presided at the punch bowl.

Pahol-Robinson Vows Exchanged

START — A lovely wedding of the Easter season was that of Mrs. Ollie Davis Robinson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Davis of Start and Mr. Elmer G. Pahol, son of Mrs. E. G. Pahol of Hamburg, Ark.

The vows were exchanged in the Start Baptist Church with the Rev. J. S. Deal, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Ruby D. Brown of Ruston, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She was wearing an ashes of rose suit with white accessories and a shoulder corsage of red carnations.

The bride was accompanied to the altar by her elder son, Mr. Bennie Charles Robinson.

She was attired in an ice blue linen suit with white piping and white accessories. Her flowers were also red carnations.

Mr. John Elmer Pahol served his father as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple departed for a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Gulf Coast.

Ham-Blackburn Vows Pledged In Franklin

Claiming the interest of many in the Franklin and north Louisiana area was the wedding on Saturday evening, April 9, of Miss Wanda Lee Blackburn and Mr. Huell Ham. Miss Blackburn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Blackburn of Franklin, and Mr. Ham, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughy Ham of Farmerville.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. John Henry Blackburn. She wore a beautiful cathedral length gown of parchment peaydesoie, made with a fitted bodice, and embroidered with tiny seed pearls around the portrait neckline. The long sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The illusion veil was fitted to a cap of parchment peaudesoie and embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Jo Ann Blackburn was her sister's maid-of-honor, and the other attendants were Miss Barbara Alston of Logansport, Miss Rose Mary Billodeau of Jeanerette, and Miss Lana Laws of Franklin. The little flower girls were Misses Ruth Ann McDonald and Nancy Jean McDonald, cousins of the bride, from Texas City, Tex. They all wore ball length gowns of ice blue tulle and carried deep purple violets.

Mr. Floyd Ham acted as best man for his brother and the groomsmen and ushers included Messrs. Chester Morrison, Carl Bauer, Dinnie Lambert, Pat Patterson, Jesse McDonald, and Zeke Tettleton.

The beautiful candle lighted ceremony took place in St. Mary's Episcopal church, with the Rev. E. R. Haug of the First Methodist church officiating in the double ring ceremony. The church was artistically decorated by Mrs. Hattie Martin and Miss Emma Svarrer. White stock and fern were used in large baskets on the altar and twined around the railing.

As the ceremony began, Miss Marguerite See sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Mrs. Harry Henslee sang "Because."

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Laws on Lee Street. Receiving the guests with the bridal couple were Mrs. Ida Mae Blackburn, mother of the bride, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Hughy Ham, mother of the groom, and the wedding attendants. Mrs. Blackburn wore a patio length gown of rose crystalete and Mrs. Hughy Ham was in navy blue.

Serving coffee were Miss Joanne Aycock and Miss Billie Marie Smardon, and serving punch were Miss Karen Cooper, Carolyn Oncale, and Maxine Bourgeois. Tea grils were Misses Mary Margaret Guillotte, Roselyn Cooper, Margo Fell, Sara Todd, and Carol Ann Cram.

On the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with real orange blossoms.

The bride's traveling attire was of gray linen, as she and her groom left on a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. They will make their home temporarily in Baton Rouge until June and then travel to where Mr. Ham will be stationed in the Air Force as a second lieutenant.

Miss Blackburn is a graduate of Franklin High School and will acquire her degree from L. S. U. in May. Mr. Ham, a member of Lambda Chi social fraternity, attended Louisiana Tech and is a graduate of LSU.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald and Miss Janice Chase of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Black, Mrs. Fred Lewis and daughter, Barbara, Miss Phoebe Allen, and Miss Jo Mary Tettleton, of Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. Paul McDonald and Paul of Texas City, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Morris and Mr. Leslie Morris of New Iberia; Mrs. L. C. Gibbs and Miss Janice Gibbs, Mr. Gary Gibbs, and Miss Lois Siracco of New Orleans; Miss Laura Lee Plaunche and Miss Kay Ross of Covington; Mrs. Hugh Wheelis and Miss Dora Wheelis of Berwick; Mrs. Ted Kuntz of Morgan City; Miss Linda Gough of New Orleans and Mrs. Ruby Smith of New Orleans.

MRS. HUELL HAM

Sprinkle sliced fresh pears with lemon juice and arrange them with alternate layers of sliced oranges in a pretty glass bowl. Sprinkle each layer lightly with sugar. Top with moist shredded coconut. It's a delicious dessert patterned after the famous Southern concoction called Ambrosia.

ROAMIN' IN THE RURAL

—With Euna Spielman

Iris Culture

In spite of the rainy weather of last week end, the Garden Tour, sponsored by the Ten and Twenty-five Year Clubs, was a grand success. The committee in charge is to be congratulated on their good planning. Every move was on scheduled time, even to the last home visit at four o'clock. The members of this committee were: Mrs. J. R. Sims, Liberty Club; Mrs. E. W. Earl, Colony Club; and Mrs. C. R. Wilder, Cadeville Club.

At the first stop, Hipp Iris farm, the group received information on culture of iris. Mr. and Mrs. Hipp have around 200 different varieties of growing iris. Other growers will benefit by their experiences. He states two of the most important requirements in growing iris are well prepared seed beds and good drainage. Be sure to prepare and fertilize soil well before planting. He recommended using a large application of 20 per cent super phosphate, working it well into the soil. Then give a side dressing of 5-10-5 in February. Too much nitrogen will cause bloom rot.

Full sun is recommended by most growers of iris, but Mr. Hipp believes some shade to protect them from our hot sun part of the day may be helpful here. To provide this shade he has planted some mimeosa among his iris. In working with his iris he says he has found September to be the best time to transplant, and he recommends completely covering the rhizome about one-half to an inch deep. He only cuts back foliage when he transplants or divides the clumps. Some may need to be divided each year, other—slow growers—may not need dividing in several years. He says divide when clump becomes crowded.

For leaf spot and other diseases of foliage use Diathone 78 because it will not burn. Mr. Hipp states there is yet much to be learned as to iris culture here and he is trying several other plant foods in an effort to obtain better results.

At each home and garden visited, the group saw and learned something new. Other homes visited were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Richardson, Mrs. J. R. Sims, Mrs. W. S. Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Drew, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. O. Pickens, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Earl, Mrs. L. C. Willet and Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Pylant.

The visit to Roaches nursery was both interesting and educational. A shipment of cuttings of tropical plants had just been received by air and Mr. Roach showed how he was rooting these plants.

Those who have visited Kendlewood and the Feazel's country home realize the space allotted "Roamin' in the Rural" is not sufficient to describe the liveliness of these gardens and homes. It's a treat to visit them, especially with their gracious hostesses. We are grateful to them for the privilege of visiting these gardens and were so happy to have them with us on the day's tour.

Another treat enjoyed by the group was having lunch in the big outdoor kitchen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Drew and Mrs. Clara Gilliland. Gertrude and Miss Clara are always so gracious, everyone enjoys visiting them. Several of the Drew Home Demonstration Club members met the group here and assisted with the serving.

The group was so happy to have Mrs. McQuiller and Miss LeFevre (retired agents) join us here for lunch.

SPECIAL INTEREST MEETINGS

April 27th is the date of the laundry clinic beginning at 9:30. Miss Rupert Perry, L. S. U. Extension Home Management Specialist, will be in charge of the clinic. She will be assisted by Miss Ann McGowan of New Orleans.

May 3 at 9:30 a.m. will be the second Flower Arrangement workshop for Home Demonstration Club members. Miss Winona Chauffe, L. S. U. specialist, will be in charge of instructions. These flower arrangements will be on display in the agricultural auditorium, West Monroe at 2:00 p.m., at which time some club members will be honored in celebrating National Home Demonstration Week. A tea is being given at this time by the Ouachita Home Demonstration Council. All club members are urged to attend and participate in this celebration.

Ham-Blackburn Vows Pledged In Franklin

Claiming the interest of many in the Franklin and north Louisiana area was the wedding on Saturday evening, April 9, of Miss Wanda Lee Blackburn and Mr. Huell Ham. Miss Blackburn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Blackburn of Franklin, and Mr. Ham, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughy Ham of Farmerville.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. John Henry Blackburn. She wore a beautiful cathedral length gown of parchment peaydesoie, made with a fitted bodice, and embroidered with tiny seed pearls around the portrait neckline. The long sleeves ended in points over the wrists. The illusion veil was fitted to a cap of parchment peaudesoie and embroidered in seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Jo Ann Blackburn was her sister's maid-of-honor, and the other attendants were Miss Barbara Alston of Logansport, Miss Rose Mary Billodeau of Jeanerette, and Miss Lana Laws of Franklin. The little flower girls were Misses Ruth Ann McDonald and Nancy Jean McDonald, cousins of the bride, from Texas City, Tex. They all wore ball length gowns of ice blue tulle and carried deep purple violets.

Mr. Floyd Ham acted as best man for his brother and the groomsmen and ushers included Messrs. Chester Morrison, Carl Bauer, Dinnie Lambert, Pat Patterson, Jesse McDonald, and Zeke Tettleton.

The beautiful candle lighted ceremony took place in St. Mary's Episcopal church, with the Rev. E. R. Haug of the First Methodist church officiating in the double ring ceremony. The church was artistically decorated by Mrs. Hattie Martin and Miss Emma Svarrer. White stock and fern were used in large baskets on the altar and twined around the railing.

As the ceremony began, Miss Marguerite See sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Mrs. Harry Henslee sang "Because."

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Laws on Lee Street. Receiving the guests with the bridal couple were Mrs. Ida Mae Blackburn, mother of the bride, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Hughy Ham, mother of the groom, and the wedding attendants. Mrs. Blackburn wore a patio length gown of rose crystalete and Mrs. Hughy Ham was in navy blue.

Serving coffee were Miss Joanne Aycock and Miss Billie Marie Smardon, and serving punch were Miss Karen Cooper, Carolyn Oncale, and Maxine Bourgeois. Tea grils were Misses Mary Margaret Guillotte, Roselyn Cooper, Margo Fell, Sara Todd, and Carol Ann Cram.

On the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with real orange blossoms.

The bride's traveling attire was of gray linen, as she and her groom left on a wedding trip to New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. They will make their home temporarily in Baton Rouge until June and then travel to where Mr. Ham will be stationed in the Air Force as a second lieutenant.

Miss Blackburn is a graduate of Franklin High School and will acquire her degree from L. S. U. in May. Mr. Ham, a member of Lambda Chi social fraternity, attended Louisiana Tech and is a graduate of LSU.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald and Miss Janice Chase of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Black, Mrs. Fred Lewis and daughter, Barbara, Miss Phoebe Allen, and Miss Jo Mary Tettleton, of Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. Paul McDonald and Paul of Texas City, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Morris and Mr. Leslie Morris of New Iberia; Mrs. L. C. Gibbs and Miss Janice Gibbs, Mr. Gary Gibbs, and Miss Lois Siracco of New Orleans; Miss Laura Lee Plaunche and Miss Kay Ross of Covington; Mrs. Hugh Wheelis and Miss Dora Wheelis of Berwick; Mrs. Ted Kuntz of Morgan City; Miss Linda Gough of New Orleans and Mrs. Ruby Smith of New Orleans.

MRS. HUELL HAM

Sprinkle sliced fresh pears with lemon juice and arrange them with alternate layers of sliced oranges in a pretty glass bowl. Sprinkle each layer lightly with sugar. Top with moist shredded coconut. It's a delicious dessert patterned after the famous Southern concoction called Ambrosia.

ROAMIN' IN THE RURAL

Iris Culture

In spite of the rainy weather of last week end, the Garden Tour, sponsored by the Ten and Twenty-five Year Clubs, was a grand success. The committee in charge is to be congratulated on their good planning. Every move was on scheduled time, even to the last home visit at four o'clock. The members of this committee were: Mrs. J. R. Sims, Liberty Club; Mrs. E. W. Earl, Colony Club; and Mrs. C. R. Wilder, Cadeville Club.

At the first stop, Hipp Iris farm, the group received information on culture of iris. Mr. and Mrs. Hipp have around 200 different varieties of growing iris. Other growers will benefit by their experiences. He states two of the most important requirements in growing iris are well prepared seed beds and good drainage. Be sure to prepare and fertilize soil well before planting. He recommended using a large application of 20 per cent super phosphate, working it well into the soil. Then give a side dressing of 5-10-5 in February. Too much nitrogen will cause bloom rot.

Full sun is recommended by most growers of iris, but Mr. Hipp believes some shade to protect them from our hot sun part of the day may be helpful here. To provide this shade he has planted some mimeosa among his iris. In working with his iris he says he has found September to be the best time to transplant, and he recommends completely covering the rhizome about one-half to an inch deep. He only cuts back foliage when he transplants or divides the clumps. Some may need to be divided each year, other—slow growers—may not need dividing in several years. He says divide when clump becomes crowded.

For leaf spot and other diseases of foliage use Diathone 78 because it will not burn. Mr. Hipp states there is yet much to be learned as to iris culture here and he is trying several other plant foods in an effort to obtain better results.

At each home and garden visited, the group saw and learned something new. Other homes visited were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Richardson, Mrs. J. R. Sims, Mrs. W. S. Kendall, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Drew, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Mrs. O. Pickens, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Earl, Mrs. L. C. Willet and Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Pylant.

The visit to Roaches nursery was both interesting and educational. A shipment of cuttings of tropical plants had just been received by air and Mr. Roach showed how he was rooting these plants.

Those who have visited Kendlewood and the Feazel's country home realize the space allotted "Roamin' in the Rural" is not sufficient to describe the liveliness of these gardens and homes. It's a treat to visit them, especially with their gracious hostesses. We are grateful to them for the privilege of visiting these gardens and were so happy to have them with us on the day's tour.

Another treat enjoyed by the group was having lunch in the big outdoor kitchen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Drew and Mrs. Clara Gilliland. Gertrude and Miss Clara are always so gracious, everyone enjoys visiting them. Several of the Drew Home Demonstration Club members met the group here and assisted with the serving.

The group was so happy to have Mrs. McQuiller and Miss LeFevre (retired agents) join us here for lunch.

SPECIAL INTEREST MEETINGS

April 27th is the date of the laundry clinic beginning at 9:30. Miss Rupert Perry, L. S. U. Extension Home Management Specialist, will be in charge of the clinic. She will be assisted by Miss Ann McGowan of New Orleans.

YWCA Activities

YWCA Board Meeting

On Thursday morning the YWCA board of directors met at the Y with Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, presiding. Miss Bess Sharp opened the meeting with a devotional: "A Litany on The Lord's Prayer." The following members were present: Mrs. A. E. Allen, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. E. B. Ellison, Mrs. D. X. Ellett, Mrs. Jack Howard, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Mrs. H. A. McDonald, Mrs. N. W. McHenry, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. Arthur Tidwell, Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Mrs. A. D. Read, Mrs. C. L. Taylor, Mrs. H. K. Touchstone, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, Mrs. A. T. White, Mrs. Ruth Hundley, and Miss Bess Sharp. Guests present were past presidents: Mrs. E. C. Gibon, Mrs. Dewitt Milam, Mrs. T. H. Scott. Mrs. Ruth Hundley and Mrs. A. D. Read gave a report on the building and house furnishings. The board members were extended an invitation to the morning coffee which the Y-Ves' will have on April 20th. Miss Bess Sharp gave a report on the Y-Teen activities: the success of the potato chip sale with 11 girls receiving awards for selling over 100 bags of potato chips; that 147 girls and 5 adults made a trip to the YWCA in Shreveport. Mrs. Jack Howard, centennial chairman, gave a very interesting report on the centennial banquets held in New York and Washington and the amount of money which has been raised for the YWCA centennial fund. Mrs. N. W. McHenry, public affairs chairman, gave an informative report on the situation in Formosa and the great need for patience, for prayer for peace, and for being informed. Mrs. Jack Howard was elected as the YWCA recording secretary for the board. Miss Natalie Varnado was elected as a new board member. YWCA open house will be held on April 28th, Thursday, 7-9:30 p. m. according to Mrs. E. P. Cudd, chairman of the special meetings at the YWCA. An outstanding part of the board meeting was the awarding of the certificates of honor to the past presidents in appreciation for their fine work, leadership, and guidance and the influence on the lives of the young women in the community.

Y-Teens

The potato chip sale . . . the trip to Shreveport . . . the annual Easter worship service . . . The Y-Teen - Hi-Y sponsoring the Easter sunrise service . . . special projects and programs have all been on the Y-Teen's calendar of activities.

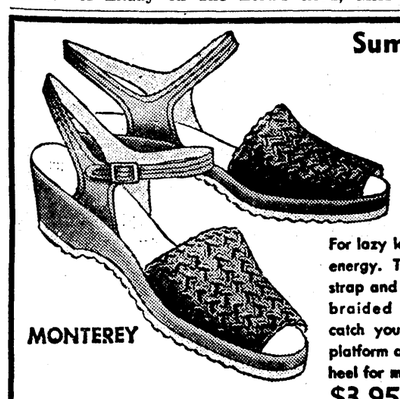

Eleven girls, Gloria Cummings, Sue Price, and Joy Goza from Ouachita Parish High chool, Clarice Edney and Sandra Causey from Lenwil School, Sara Roberts and Joy Ford from Selman, Martha Aulds from West Monroe High School, Mary Lou Womack and Linda Womack from Crosley School sold over 100 bags of potato chips. The money from the sale of the potato chips is used for the Y-Teens trip to Shreveport, the transportation of the six delegates to the Y-Teen conference at Gulf Park College in June, the Y-Teen's contribution to the National YWCA centennial fund, and on the local Y-Teen activities. 147 Y-Teens enjoyed a trip to Shreveport to be with the Shreveport Y-Teens. Reverend Wayne Gray gave a most inspiring message for the Y-Teen's annual Easter service. The Selman Y-Teens with Mrs. A. E. Allen as their instructor made very attractive Easter cards to send to the patients at Cooley Sanitorium. The committees from the Y-Teen groups and the Hi-Y Clubs of the YMCA who were responsible for the plans for the Easter sunrise service had breakfast together after the Easter service at the YWCA.

YRG's

The YRG's held their regular supper meeting at the YWCA on Monday evening with Ernestine Hickingbottom and Johnnie Cloud assisting Mrs. Hundley as hostesses. The devotion was given by Joyce Barton. The club enjoyed having as a guest: Patsy Alexander who had formerly stayed at the Y residence and who is leaving for South Amcica as a missionary for the Methodist Church. Members present were: Johnnie Cloud, Ruby Waldroup, Joyce Barton, Joyce Rogers, Wanda ,Genero, Grace Sherrod, Mary Lou Taylor, Ernestine Hickingbottom, Mrs. Hundley, and Miss Sharp. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Wondering how to give that economical cut of meat savory flavor? Here's a list of seasonings, all good with meat, to choose from: catchup, chili sauce, bay leaf, all spice berries, garlic, onion, paprika, soy sauce, Tabasco sauce, Worcestershire sauce, oregano, basil.

Grated cheddar cheese tastes delicious when it is added to corn sticks. Serve the corn sticks with a vegetable soup or a vegetable salad for lunch.

YWCA Activities

YWCA Board Meeting

On Thursday morning the YWCA board of directors met at the Y with Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, presiding. Miss Bess Sharp opened the meeting with a devotional: "A Litany on The Lord's Prayer." The following members were present: Mrs. A. E. Allen, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. E. B. Ellison, Mrs. D. X. Ellett, Mrs. Jack Howard, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Mrs. H. A. McDonald, Mrs. N. W. McHenry, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. Arthur Tidwell, Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Mrs. A. D. Read, Mrs. C. L. Taylor, Mrs. H. K. Touchstone, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, Mrs. A. T. White, Mrs. Ruth Hundley, and Miss Bess Sharp. Guests present were past presidents: Mrs. E. C. Gibon, Mrs. Dewitt Milam, Mrs. T. H. Scott. Mrs. Ruth Hundley and Mrs. A. D. Read gave a report on the building and house furnishings. The board members were extended an invitation to the morning coffee which the Y-Ves' will have on April 20th. Miss Bess Sharp gave a report on the Y-Teen activities: the success of the potato chip sale with 11 girls receiving awards for selling over 100 bags of potato chips; that 147 girls and 5 adults made a trip to the YWCA in Shreveport. Mrs. Jack Howard, centennial chairman, gave a very interesting report on the centennial banquets held in New York and Washington and the amount of money which has been raised for the YWCA centennial fund. Mrs. N. W. McHenry, public affairs chairman, gave an informative report on the situation in Formosa and the great need for patience, for prayer for peace, and for being informed. Mrs. Jack Howard was elected as the YWCA recording secretary for the board. Miss Natalie Varnado was elected as a new board member. YWCA open house will be held on April 28th, Thursday, 7-9:30 p. m. according to Mrs. E. P. Cudd, chairman of the special meetings at the YWCA. An outstanding part of the board meeting was the awarding of the certificates of honor to the past presidents in appreciation for their fine work, leadership, and guidance and the influence on the lives of the young women in the community.

Y-Teens

The potato chip sale . . . the trip to Shreveport . . . the annual Easter worship service . . . The Y-Teen - Hi-Y sponsoring the Easter sunrise service . . . special projects and programs have all been on the Y-Teen's calendar of activities.

Eleven girls, Gloria Cummings, Sue Price, and Joy Goza from Ouachita Parish High chool, Clarice Edney and Sandra Causey from Lenwil School, Sara Roberts and Joy Ford from Selman, Martha Aulds from West Monroe High School, Mary Lou Womack and Linda Womack from Crosley School sold over 100 bags of potato chips. The money from the sale of the potato chips is used for the Y-Teens trip to Shreveport, the transportation of the six delegates to the Y-Teen conference at Gulf Park College in June, the Y-Teen's contribution to the National YWCA centennial fund, and on the local Y-Teen activities. 147 Y-Teens enjoyed a trip to Shreveport to be with the Shreveport Y-Teens. Reverend Wayne Gray gave a most inspiring message for the Y-Teen's annual Easter service. The Selman Y-Teens with Mrs. A. E. Allen as their instructor made very attractive Easter cards to send to the patients at Cooley Sanitorium. The committees from the Y-Teen groups and the Hi-Y Clubs of the YMCA who were responsible for the plans for the Easter sunrise service had breakfast together after the Easter service at the YWCA.

YRG's

The YRG's held their regular supper meeting at the YWCA on Monday evening with Ernestine Hickingbottom and Johnnie Cloud assisting Mrs. Hundley as hostesses. The devotion was given by Joyce Barton. The club enjoyed having as a guest: Patsy Alexander who had formerly stayed at the Y residence and who is leaving for South Ameica as a missionary for the Methodist Church. Members present were: Johnnie Cloud, Ruby Waldroup, Joyce Barton, Joyce Rogers, Wanda ,Genero, Grace Sherrod, Mary Lou Taylor, Ernestine Hickingbottom, Mrs. Hundley, and Miss Sharp. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Wondering how to give that economical cut of meat savory flavor? Here's a list of seasonings, all good with meat, to choose from: catchup, chili sauce, bay leaf, all spice berries, garlic, onion, paprika, soy sauce, Tabasco sauce, Worcestershire sauce, oregano, basil.

Grated cheddar cheese tastes delicious when it is added to corn sticks. Serve the corn sticks with a vegetable soup or a vegetable salad for lunch.

Summerettes

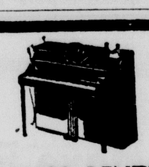

For lazy lounging or spurts of energy. The ankle flattering strap and the spritely colored braided vamp combine to catch your fancy. Cushioned platform and covered wedgie heel for miles of comfort, too!

Bilbo's Cotton Research Lab Idea Proves Success

By STANLEY MEISLER

NEW ORLEANS, April 16 (AP)—Twenty years ago, the late Sen. Theodore Bilbo (D-Miss), powered by two ideas, stepped into Congress. He had decided to resettle Negroes and save cotton.

His first plan, to ship American Negroes to Africa, grabbed headlines all over the nation and made Bilbo the symbol of white supremacy in the South. The symbol grew so large it overshadowed the soundness of his second idea.

But out of the plan to save cotton grew four regional research laboratories. These scientific centers now save American farmers, especially those of the South, millions of dollars each year.

Pickles that won't get soft.

Cotton woven so tightly water won't leak through it.

Butter candy mixed so it will store without smelling.

Almost two thirds of the lab's $2,400,000 budget this year was earmarked for cotton and cottonseed research.

During the depression, growers piled up too much cotton. Bilbo's idea was to have the lab figure out new uses for it.

Congress extended the idea to all crops. Under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, regional labs were set up at New Orleans, Philadelphia, Peoria, Ill., and Albany, Calif. By 1941, all were in operation.

The labs have two goals — to improve use of the crop, and to find new things to do with it.

Hard pickles come under the heading of improvement. American housewives refuse to dish out nickels for soft pickles. To the 22-million-dollar cucumber industry, this means an annual loss of two million dollars a year.

At a Southern Regional Lab station in Raleigh, N. C., John Etchells and other scientists discovered that a little flower right on the end of the cucumber housed the evil doer.

In the flower lurked an enzyme, a chemical that can change the structure of living material. When the pickle men dropped a cucumber into a barrel, the enzyme crawled through the brine into the vegetable. The result: a soft pickle.

Understanding this, pickle makers now must either remove the flower or drain off the brine after it has soaked up the enzyme. The result is a two-million-dollar saving to the cucumber industry.

Under the heading of new uses lies the story of flame-resistant cotton. For 25 years, cotton has been losing markets to rayon and nylon and wool and paper. So government scientists jumped into the battle to help the cotton farmers.

Two scientists, Wilson A. Reeves and John D. Guthrie of the Southern Regional Research Lab, produced the chemical THCP.

If you light THPC-treated cotton cloth, it won't flame. It won't even glow. The match just leaves a black spot.

Experimenting isn't over with THPC. The lab doesn't know how much it will cost to treat the cotton or how THPC-treated clothes will wear.

MRS. BEVERLY GRIFFIN

Scholarship Goes To Delhi Student

WASHINGTON, April 16 (Special) — Mrs. Beverly E. Griffin, of Delhi, who has been studying at the Cobb Chemical Laboratory, University of Virginia, has won a Marshall scholarship award entitling her to two years of study at a Univer Kingdom University, Sir Roger Makins, the British ambassador, announced today.

Mrs. Griffin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solon Smith of Delhi.

Sir Makins announced that Mrs. Griffin would take up her scholarship this fall at Girton College, Cambridge University, where she will do research in chemistry.

The Marshall scholarship is a British gesture of appreciation for Marshall aid.

Mrs. Griffin was one of 12 students from throughout the United States who received a scholarship for 1955.

Recital Proceeds Will Benefit Charles Koontz

On May 2 Estelle Schulze Sanders will present her annual voice recital with all proceeds going to a fund to aid Charles Koontz, who at present is a patient at Bellevue Medical Center of New York University.

The Charles Koontz Fund was initiated by a group of local citizens to secure medical treatment for Koontz at the New York hospital.

Headed by Dr. Ben Oliphant, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, the group raised enough money to have Koontz admitted to Bellevue, but the present problem is to keep him there until doctor's have had time to make a complete diagnosis of his case.

Koontz was injured in an automobile accident and the principal injury he sustained was to his brain. To the amazement of his doctors Koontz did not die from the injuries he sustained, but was completely paralyzed on the right side and the principal injury was diagnosed as aphasia, or loss of the use of words.

Sale of tickets for the voice recital, known as "Spring Serenade" are under the direction of Claude Gilliland. The event is under the sponsorship of St. Paul's church.

Gilliland said that tickets would be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Mail orders will be filled by writing to St. Paul's Church, Box 1773, or by calling 2-6164.

Serving on the committee to raise the necessary funds are Dr. Oliphant, Tom Scott and Dr. H. F. Guerriero.

District Court To Open Here May 9

The regular spring session of fourth district criminal court will begin on May 9 and will continue through the week of May 16, according to Judge David I. Garrett.

Usually the initial court day for the spring session is on May 2, but due to the fact that the Louisiana Bar Association and the Louisiana State Law Institute are holding their annual convention in Biloxi, Miss., during that week, it will be postponed for one week.

This postponement was ordered by Judges Garrett and Jessie H. Heard at the request of Chief Justice of the Louisiana supreme court, John B. Fournet.

Ford, Chevrolet Battle For Lead In Auto Industry

DETROIT, April 16 (AP) — The hottest phase of the auto industry's record-smashing competitive battle, Chevrolet and Ford are slugging it out harder than ever for industry leadership.

It's a fight between the world's two largest car makers. Last year they accounted for 51 per cent of the industry's total output of 5,508,600 passenger automobiles.

The production totals favored Chevrolet. Both Chevrolet and Ford claim to have sold the greater number of cars at retail. So far this year, including trucks, Chevrolet tops Ford in production, 573,281 vehicles against 438,608 for the first quarter. Sales figures are not up to date. Those available give Ford a modest margin.

In the old Model T days Ford was undisputed leader in production and sales. But it lost a great deal of ground during the prolonged shutdown after discontinuance of the Model T in 1927.

The late William S. Knudsen, famed production genius who had been fired by Ford, had taken over at Chevrolet. He got Chevrolet into the top place in 1927 and again in 1928. During most of the time from the early 1930s through the postwar period, Chevrolet has held onto the top spot.

But Ford began fighting back the day a younger Henry Ford took over as head of the big empire founded by his grandfather. 'Beat Chevrolet" has been his most cherished ambition since mid-1945.

A few weeks ago Ford announced final computations showed Ford retailers delivered more cars in 1954 than Chevrolet. The figures given by Ford were 1.387,344 Ford cars against 1,362,087 by its "nearest competitor."

Chevrolet claimed leadership with 1,417,453 new car registrations. Ford said this figure included many cars registered in dealers' and manufacturers' names. It said these cars would not actually be sold until sometime after Jan. 1 of this year.

A battle of major proportions now is under way.

The battle has not reached the price-cutting stage at the factory level; it probably never will. Instead, leaders of the two big producers tell you each is trying for an acceleration of product quality without price increases. So here is a "war" in which many persons can benefit.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Director Reuerstein has completed his casting of all but three of the roles, in "Time Out for Ginger." Here's a breakdown of the parts to be played. Mother and Father, and three teen - age daughters, a maid, a banker, a high school principal, and two teen-age high school boys. The cast to date includes the following members, as of Friday night. "Howard Carol," the father . . . Morry Twomy. "Joan Carol" . . . Jackie Masur. "Jeannie Carol" . . . Susan Stewart. "Ginger Carol" . . . Tavie Kenny. "Lizzie," the maid . . . Pat Martin. "Tommie Green" . . . Ralph Bird Jr. "Ed Hoffman," the banker . . . Ralph Bird Sr.

The roles yet to be cast are the mother, the school principal, and a football type teen - age boy. Please get in touch with the director after 6 o'clock Monday night, at 3-4263, or come out to the Little Theatre at 7:30 Monday night, if you are interested in one of these parts. You are bound to enjoy the fun, if you do, because this is one of the most completely amusing scripts we have read. Even the tryouts had one and all shouting, on occasions, at the hilarious lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Gill are Oklahoma visitors this week end, attending the wedding of Mary Gill's niece at Muskogee, Okla. . . . Allene and Fred Petty were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Gray with whom they drove to Ruston Friday night to hear the well . known Dr. Evans, of Los Angeles, Calif. Lealis Hale spent the week end in Jackson, Miss. on a business trip . . . Nine of the Tech students of TV and Radio classes spent Saturday and Sunday in New Orleans, attending the Tulane Educational Television conference. They were accompanied by Thom Feuerstein. They witnessed color TV demonstrations, and heard discussions on programming, production of educational TV, scenery, and witnessed one of the rehearsals of a Tulane TV production . . .

April 18-25 is "membership renewal week" for all members of the Twin Cities Concert Association. A tea will be given for workers for the membership drive at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Slade Brown, on April 21, from 4 to 6 o'clock. The kick-off dinner for the membership drive will be held at the Virginia Hotel on April 25. Any one who is interested in working for the drive is asked to phone 2-2522.

Business Briefs

I. A. Faulk, president of Faulk-Collier Bonded Warehouses, Inc. said his company had joined Allied Van Lines, for which they are agents in this area, in a drive for funds for United Cerebreal Palsy Assn. Inc. The drive, staged by all Allied Van agents throughout the country is called "Motorcade of Hope" and is symbolized by scale model vans of the world's largest mover of household goods.

Faulk said his employees would conduct the drive in the Twin Cities to fill the scale model van by May 6. He said the Allied agents hope to raise $50,000 to turn over to UCPA whose national drive for funds starts in May. Faulk said 75 per cent of all funds raised would remain here for local services.

Duncan Smith, Monroe Swift & Co. manager said he had been advised by his company the Horace Heidt advertisement run in the News-Star & World by Piggly Wiggly on Feb. 28 had been rated as one of the ten best ads in the country-wide promotion.

Walter H. Johnson, Jr., 12 day old son of the Walter Johnsons is receiving much publicity in financial circles as the world's youngest shareholder of American industry.

Within minutes of his birth on April 5 Johnson purchased 100 shares of Fundamental Investors, Inc. in his son's name. Johnson is Monroe representative for the firm.

H. M. Donald, manager of Acoustican of Monroe, said his company has developed a hearing aid so small it can be covered by a three cent stamp yet is so powerful it can operate a 20 watt high fidelity speaker.

Donald said it could be worn along with eyeglasses, on a new plastic headband under the hair or as a lapel button for men or as a jeweled ornament on a woman's dress.

The B. F. Goodrich Company has announced a $50,000.00 Sweepstakes for this month. Anybody can win the $25,000 first prize or the lesser prizes by entering his name and address as the local Goodrich store on Louisville, Massey's Service Station on Jackson or Economy Auto Supply in West Monroe.

La. Civic, Moral Foundation To Convene Tues.

The fifteenth annual convention of the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation, Inc., will be called to order at 10 a.m.. Tuesday, in the auditorium of the First Methodist Church at Lake Charles, La., according to an announcement Dr. J. D. Grey, New Orleans, president of the foundation, just released by LMCF headquarters in Baton Rouge.

Featured guest speaker will be Dr. A. C. Miller, of Nashville, Tenn., who is the executive secretary of the Christian life commission of the Southern Baptist Convention. LMCF Research Director Mark A. Lower will present the annual message on "Review and Preview."

A significant action scheduled for this convention will put into effect a recent charter amendment which increases LMCF's governing body from a committee of one hundred to a committee of one thousand, coincident with the enlargement of LMCF's activities and services to a well - integrated scheme of 24 separate functions.

Sure to engage the attention of the convention is the proposed Pelican Park Race Track, which churchmen, civic leaders and other good citizens of Calcasieu parish plan to oppose in a local option campaign. It is believed by many leaders in all parts of the state that the time has come for legislative action to abolish all race tracks in Louisiana, including the Fair Grounds Race Track at New Orleans; and it is anticipated that this convention may instruct LMCF staff members to mobilize good citizenship forces all over the state for an all-out war against every form of gambling, including the pari-mutuel betting now legalized at race tracks.

Convention members will probly discussions about political candadicies, since no candidate for governor has yet announced on a platform of continued "Grevemberg law enforcement" and of "corruption - free good government" such as an aroused electorate is demanding in every part of the state. LMCF's executive director explains that "the foundation is not a political organization, will not endorse or campaign for any candidate; but it will exert itself to spotlight the main issues of the political campaign, in the confidence that a vast majority of voters will screen - test all the candidates on these matters of vital moral concern."

QUESTION: Please answer me this. The same night Jesus instituted the Lord's supper, He washed the Disciples feet. John 13:14, He says, "If I then your Lord and Master have washed your feet ye also ought to wash one anothers feet." Some people partake of the Lord's supper and leave off feet washing. Matt. 23:24, Jesus says "Ye blind guides which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel." I believe and practice the word of God. W. L. J.

ANSWER: We see the history of foot washing in the old testament in the following scriptures: Gen. 18:3-5, Gen. 19:2, Gen. 24, Gen. 43:24, I Sam. 25:41. 2nd Sam. 11:8, and Judges 19:21.

These examples from the Old Testament show it was a universal custom, as an act of hospitality, to give water to wash and bathe the feet.

In the new testament we see in Luke 7:14-46 another example of foot washing. Christ visited in the Pharisees house and sat down to meat. A woman came, washed his feet with her tears and wiped them with her hair and anointed them with ointment. This was an act of exceeding humiliation and kindness. The host in his heart was condemning Jesus for letting a sinner do this. Jesus chides him with lack of hospitality and kindness in failing to give him water to wash his feet. "This woman has supplemented your lack of hospitality by her tears in doing the washing for me, wiping with her hair." Jesus said to Simon: "Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head. Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment." (Luke 7:44-46.) Here it is classed by the Savior with acts of personal hospitality and kindness.

At the end of the day's journey, when they had finished supper, when the time for washing their feet was come, the Savior took a towel and basin of water and proceeded to wash the disciples's feet, as we find in John 13:1-15. It was performed as an act of condescending humility and kindness upon the part of the Master as an example for them to follow as individuals in their social relations. It was a practical enforcement of the precept: "He that would be greatest, let him be servant of all."

The only other reference to it in the New Testament is I Tim. 5:9, 10: "Let not a widow be taken into the number (sustained by the church) under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man, well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work." Here Paul places it with good works—just where the Savior did, just where it had stood among the people of God from the foundation of the world, just where it now stands by the authority of God. No man can believe it is a church ordinance, for faith cannot exist without evidence. Rom. 10:17. We have such evidence for the Lord's supper in Acts 2:42, Acts 20:7, I Cor. 11.

Whoever observes foot washing as a church ordinance must take bringing up children, waiting on the afflicted, entertaining strangers, as a church ordinance, too. It has stood inseparably connected with these from the foundation of the world.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Within a few days I am to marry the most wonderful man in the world. However, he made a terrifying confession to me the other evening. He has a veneral disease. I'm ready to call the wedding off. What would you do? G. P.

ANSWER: You have a terrible dilemma. Veneral diseases constitute one of the greatest of public health problems. Syphilis has been called the great killer and gonorrhea has been called the great sterilizer. Until a physician can prove an absolute cure for your husband-to-be, I would certainly postpone the wedding.

But your problem is even greater than this. The one whom you alleged to love apparently is the unfaithful and untrustworthy type. Certainly God can forgive his past sins—that is what we hope will happen. If he will confess his sins to God and acknowledge Christ as his Savior, the Bible says the blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin. Only if he will receive Christ and get cleansing from his sins, should you even think of marriage.

Mrs. Eggleston Is Highly Acclaimed

Mrs. Louise Eggleston, scheduled to speak Thursday, April 21 at 7:30 p. m. and April 22 at 10 a. m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church on the subject of prayer, is heralded as one of "the most spiritual women in this country," and is credited with establishing more prayer groups than any other individual in the United States.

Ministers, laymen and newspaper writers have written of her inspiring faith, radiant personality and sincerity as she discusses the power of prayer. Her writings in the field of prayer earned for her an honorary degree of doctor of Literature from Athens, Alabama.

Mrs. Aimee Cook, local prayer group leader, in issuing an invitation to the people of this area to attend these lectures said, "Mrs. Eggleston is in constant demand as a leader of spiritual life conference all over the United States and we feel it is a rare privilege to present one whose personal experience in prayer, study of the Bible and the power of prayer as an active force in living, whose writings on the subject are nationally recognized. You will find fresh vitality from her messages."

ASSIGNED HERE— Rev. J. A. O. Russell of Bastrop has accepted the call to become pastor of the Brownville Baptist Church of West Monroe and will move with his family immediately on the church field. The Rev. Russell is a graduate of Mississippi College and attended the New Orleans Seminary. He has been a successful pastor of the First Baptist Church, Cotton Plant, Arkansas, Darnelle, Arkansas and New Friendship Baptist Church of Bastrop, Louisiana. Brownville Baptist Church is a newly organized church located in the Brownville addition of West Monroe.

Religious Aspect Of Acadians' Pilgrimage Cited

Plans for the religious aspect of St. Martinville's three-day Pilgrimage to the Mother Church of the Acadians will be highlighted by a giant panorama depicting the apparitions and mysteries of the Blessed Mother. This was announced in St. Martinville by Monsignor Henri Hamel, pastor of St. Martin Catholic Church.

The Pilgrimage is part of Louisiana's year-long Acadian Bicentennial celebration during which the state is commemorating the 200th anniversary of the migration of the Acadians from Nova Scotia to the bayou country.

Actually, the Pilgrimage is an enlargement of St. Martinville's annual May Day Pageant which was begun in 1949 by Monsignor Hamel as a counteraction against the Communists' May Day observances. Since its inception the pageant has depicted six of the apparitions and mysteries of the Blessed Mother.

This year the pageant will depart from its usual program, Monsignor Hamel stated, and stage instead a giant panorama which will include tableaux from all of the previous pageants. As a special salute to the group of Canadians who visited the area earlier in the year as part of Canada's Acadian Bicentennial observances, the narration this year will be delivered in both French and English.

The procession will begin at six p.m. Sunday, May 1, in front of the church and proceed to Longfellow-Evangeline state park where the panorama will be staged.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

0. Matt. 12:35. The good man out of his good treasure brings forth good.
1. Rom. 2:9, 10. There will be glory and honor and peace for every one who does good.
2. II Cor. 11:9. I will refrain from burdening you in any way.
3. Matt. 26:41. Watch that you may not enter into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.
4. Prov. 24:28. Be not a witness against your neighbor without cause.

Easter Egg Hunt, Blocked By Rain Last Sunday, Will Be Conducted Here This Afternoon At Park

Youngsters of Northeast Louisiana, as well as their seniors, will have a big party at Forsythe park this afternoon at 2:30 when the Easter egg hunt, postponed from last Sunday because of bad weather, will be held. With a bright sunny April day assured, it is expected that several thousand will participate, states Capt. H. E. Roberts of the Monroe fire department. The affair is sponsored by the department and the captain.

Members of the fire department and their wives will be busy early this morning hiding thousands of gaily colored eggs in sequestered places in the park not too far from the Swayze natatorium. Some of the eggs will bear numbers which will entitle to prizes which merchants of Monroe have cheerfully contributed.

The start of the hunt will be at the stroke of a bell which will be sounded from a temporary grandstand near the pool, promptly at 2:30 p. m. This will be the signal for the youngsters to break loose into the exciting quest for prize eggs. In all there will be as many as four thousand of them hidden, but of course only a few will be ones bearing the much sought after prize numbers.

A string band from the Monroe fire department members will provide music during the hunt. Soft drinks will be on sale and there will be plenty of candy for everyone.

The prizes will include a diamond ring for some fortunate girl from five to 12 years; a boy's wrist watch for a youngster of similar age; and a tricycle for some youngster whose age is from two to five years.

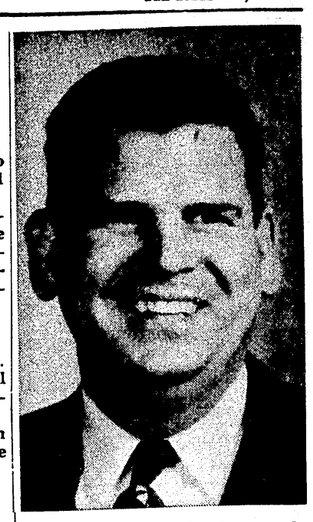

The management of the municipal bus lines has announced that extra buses will be operated from the DeSiard and Jackson streets to and from Forsythe park for all who need transportation.

Chief of Police M. L. Peters assures that there will be adequate police force to care for the handling of traffic in a way to safeguard the large throng that is anticipated.

LEGION MEETS MONDAY

The regular meeting of the L.B. Faulk post, American Legion, will be held in the Legion's home, Forsythe Avenue, Monday at 8 p.m.

All members are urged to be in attendance. Refreshments will be served at the close.

PASTOR — Members of Sterlington Baptist Church have a new pastor and family, Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Nelson and sons, Alex and Andy. Rev. Nelson, a graduate of Mississippi College and of New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, conducted his first service as new pastor on Wednesday evening, April 13. Immediately following the prayer service a reception was held in the church recreation room, under the direction of the Women's Missionary Society. At this time the pastor's family was also given a pantry shower.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
N. 2nd at Auburn
"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson - sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 17, 1955.
The Golden Text is: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." (Mark 10:45.)
Among the citations which comprise the lesson - sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness: but is longsuffering to usward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (II Pet. 3:9.)
The lesson - sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through repentance, spiritual baptism, and regeneration, mortals put off their material beliefs and false individuality" (242).

Mission Workers Sought in U. S. And Territories

The "help wanted" sign is out again for short term missionary service workers in the United States, according to Miss Alpharetta Leeper, department of missionary personnel, board of missions of the Methodist Church. Forty young men and women are being sought for the 1955 class which is to serve in the U. S. A. and its possessions for two or three years.

College graduates with "good health, good mind, and committed spirit" are offered opportunities in teaching, religious education work in rural areas, group work in community centers, and children's work. Among the special needs listed by the department of work in home fields of the woman's division of Christian service, which started this special program in 1951, are house parents, dieticians, farm managers, nurses, and doctors.

The group will train at Scarritt College for Christian workers for six weeks, July 23 to Aug. 30. The young home missionaries will receive special instruction in religion, group work, crafts, and other skills they may need in work in mission stations.

They receive a monthly salary of $100 plus maintenance and a month's vacation each year. The term of service is for two years in the United States and for three in the outpost missions of Alaska, Puerto Rico, and Hawaii.

Opportunities available include work with special groups such as Spanish - speaking, Negro, American Indian, and in such places as agricultural areas, mining communities, Indian reservations, fishing villages and cities.

College graduates interested n the program should write to: Miss Alpharetta Leeper, department of missionary personnel, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, New York.

Trenton WMU Will Meet In Calhoun

The Trenton W. M. U. Association will meet Wednesday at the First Baptist Church, Calhoun, La.

Mrs. F. A. Brown, Sr., president of the association, will begin the meeting at 10 a.m. The meeting will continue through the day with speakers discussing "Training for Tomorrow."

Rev. Fred Forester will be the missionary speaker for the association and will bring a missionary message at 11:25 a.m.

Other speakers on the all-day program are Mrs. S. N. Camp, Mrs. J. O. Williams, Mrs. W. B. Nelson, Mrs. D. L. Mercer, Mrs. Aline Gulledge, Mrs. G. A. Parker, Mrs. Bessye Thompson, Mrs. R.E. Wilson, Mrs. A. R. Green and Mrs. Charles Guready. Recommendations of the executive committee will be made by Mrs. P. M. Donald and treasurer report by Mrs. A. J. Barnette.

All the 21 Baptist churches of the Trenton Association were urged to have messengers at the meeting. A good attendance is expected.

'Louisiana Day' At All Saints College

Episcopalians from Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi will visit All Saints College at Vicksburg, Miss., Saturday, April 16. This is an annual affair and the program for the day includes a tour of the grounds and a dinner for all visitors. The college is owned and operated by the churches of the three states.

Big Ben, London's famous clock, has faces 22 feet across, says the National Geographic Society.

La. Civic, Moral Foundation To Convene Tues.

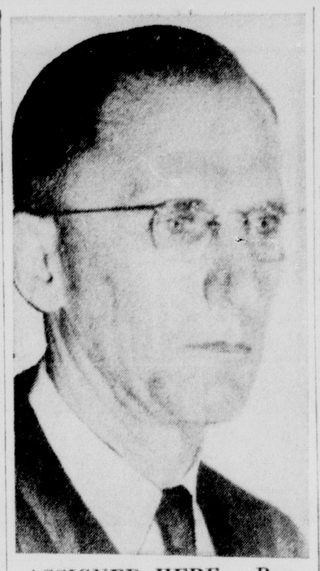

The fifteenth annual convention of the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation, Inc., will be called to order at 10 a.m., Tuesday, in the auditorium of the First Methodist Church at Lake Charles, La., according to an announcement Dr. J. D. Grey, New Orleans, president of the foundation, just released by LMCF headquarters in Baton Rouge.

Featured guest speaker will be Dr. A. C. Miller, of Nashville, Tenn., who is the executive secretary of the Christian life commission of the Southern Baptist Convention. LMCF Research Director Mark A. Lower will present the annual message on "Review and Preview."

A significant action scheduled for this convention will put into effect a recent charter amendment which increases LMCF's governing body from a committee of one hundred to a committee of one thousand, coincident with the enlargement of LMCF's activities and services to a well - integrated scheme of 24 separate functions.

Sure to engage the attention of the convention is the proposed Pelican Park Race Track, which churchmen, civic leaders and other good citizens of Calcasieu parish plan to oppose in a local option campaign. It is believed by many leaders in all parts of the state that the time has come for legislative action to abolish all race tracks in Louisiana, including the Fair Grounds Race Track at New Orleans; and it is anticipated that this convention may instruct LMCF staff members to mobilize good citizenship forces all over the state for an all-out war against every form of gambling, including the pari-mutuel betting now legalized at race tracks.

Convention members will probly discussions about political candadicies, since no candidate for governor has yet announced on a platform of continued "Grevemberg law enforcement" and of "corruption - free good government" such as an aroused electorate is demanding in every part of the state. LMCF's executive director explains that "the foundation is not a political organization, will not endorse or campaign for any candidate; but it will exert itself to spotlight the main issues of the political campaign, in the confidence that a vast majority of voters will screen - test all the candidates on these matters of vital moral concern."

ASSIGNED HERE— Rev. J. A. O. Russell of Bastrop has accepted the call to become pastor of the Brownville Baptist Church of West Monroe and will move with his family immediately on the church field. The Rev. Russell is a graduate of Mississippi College and attended the New Orleans Seminary. He has been a successful pastor of the First Baptist Church, Cotton Plant, Arkansas, Darnelle, Arkansas and New Friendship Baptist Church of Bastrop, Louisiana. Brownville Baptist Church is a newly organized church located in the Brownville addition of West Monroe.

Easter Egg Hunt, Blocked By Rain Last Sunday, Will Be Conducted Here This Afternoon At Park

Youngsters of Northeast Louisiana, as well as their seniors, will have a big party at Forsythe park this afternoon at 2:30 when the Easter egg hunt, postponed from last Sunday because of bad weather, will be held. With a bright sunny April day assured, it is expected that several thousand will participate, states Capt. H. E. Roberts of the Monroe fire department. The affair is sponsored by the department and the captain.

Members of the fire department and their wives will be busy early this morning hiding thousands of gaily colored eggs in sequestered places in the park not too far from the Swayze natatorium. Some of the eggs will bear numbers which will entitle to prizes which merchants of Monroe have cheerfully contributed.

The start of the hunt will be at the stroke of a bell which will be sounded from a temporary grandstand near the pool, promptly at 2:30 p. m. This will be the signal for the youngsters to break loose into the exciting quest for prize eggs. In all there will be as many as four thousand of them hidden, but of course only a few will be ones bearing the much sought after prize numbers.

A string band from the Monroe fire department members will provide music during the hunt. Soft drinks will be on sale and there will be plenty of candy for everyone.

The prizes will include a diamond ring for some fortunate girl from five to 12 years; a boy's wrist watch for a youngster of similar age; and a tricycle for some youngster whose age is from two to five years.

The management of the municipal bus lines has announced that extra buses will be operated from the DeSiard and Jackson streets to and from Forsythe park for all who need transportation.

Chief of Police M. L. Peters assures that there will be adequate police force to care for the handling of traffic in a way to safeguard the large throng that is anticipated.

LEGION MEETS MONDAY

The regular meeting of the L.B. Faulk post, American Legion, will be held in the Legion's home, Forsythe Avenue, Monday at 8 p.m.

All members are urged to be in attendance. Refreshments will be served at the close.

PASTOR — Members of Sterlington Baptist Church have a new pastor and family, Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Nelson and sons, Alex and Andy. Rev. Nelson, a graduate of Mississippi College and of New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary, conducted his first service as new pastor on Wednesday evening, April 13. Immediately following the prayer service a reception was held in the church recreation room, under the direction of the Women's Missionary Society. At this time the pastor's family was also given a pantry shower.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
N. 2nd at Auburn
"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson - sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 17, 1955.
The Golden Text is: "The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Mark 10:45.)
Among the citations which comprise the lesson - sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to usward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (II Pet. 3:9.)
The lesson - sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through repentance, spiritual baptism, and regeneration, mortals put off their material beliefs and false individuality" (242).

QUESTION: Please answer me this. The same night Jesus instituted the Lord's supper, He washed the Disciples feet. John 13:14, He says, "If I then your Lord and Master have washed your feet ye also ought to wash one anothers feet." Some people partake of the Lord's supper and leave off feet washing. Matt. 23:24, Jesus says "Ye blind guides which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel." I believe and practice the word of God. W. L. J.

ANSWER: We see the history of foot washing in the following scriptures: Gen. 18:3-5, Gen. 19:2, Gen. 24, Gen. 43:24, I Sam. 25:41, 2nd Sam. 11:8, and Judges 19:21.

These examples from the Old Testament show it was a universal custom, as an act of hospitality, to give water to wash and bathe the feet.

In the new testament we see in Luke 7:14-46 another example of foot washing. Christ visited in the Pharisees house and sat down to meat. A woman came, washed his feet with her tears and wiped them with her hair and anointed them with ointment. This was an act of exceeding humiliation and kindness. The host in his heart was condemning Jesus for letting a sinner do this. Jesus chides him with lack of hospitality and kindness in failing to give him water to wash his feet. "This woman has supplemented your lack of hospitality by her tears in doing the washing for me, wiping with her hair." Jesus said to Simon: "Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head. Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet. My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment." (Luke 7:44-46.) Here it is classed by the Savior with acts of personal hospitality and kindness.

At the end of the day's journey, when they had finished supper, when the time for washing their feet was come, the Savior took a towel and basin of water and proceeded to wash the disciples's feet, as we find in John 13:1-15. It was performed as an act of condescending humility and kindness upon the part of the Master as an example for them to follow as individuals in their social relations. It was a practical enforcement of the precept: "He that would be greatest, let him be servant of all."

The only other reference to it in the New Testament is I Tim. 5:9, 10: "Let not a widow be taken into the number (sustained by the church) under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man, well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work." Here Paul places it with good works—just where the Savior did, just where it had stood among the people of God from the foundation of the world, just where it now stands by the authority of God. No man can believe it is a church ordinance, for faith cannot exist without evidence. Rom. 10:17. We have such evidence for the Lord's supper in Acts 2:42, Acts 20:7, I Cor. 11.

Whoever observes foot washing as a church ordinance must take bringing up children, waiting on the afflicted, entertaining strangers, as a church ordinance, too. It has stood inseparably connected with these from the foundation of the world.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Within a few days I am to marry the most wonderful man in the world. However, he made a terrifying confession to me the other evening. He has a veneral disease. I'm ready to call the wedding off. What would you do? G. P.

ANSWER: You have a terrible dilemma. Veneral diseases constitute one of the greatest of public health problems. Syphilis has been called the great killer and gonorrhea has been called the great sterilizer. Until a physician can prove an absolute cure for your husband-to-be, I would certainly postpone the wedding.

But your problem is even greater than this. The one whom you alleged to love apparently is the unfaithful and untrustworthy type. Certainly God can forgive his past sins—that is what we hope will happen. If he will confess his sins to God and acknowledge Christ as his Savior, the Bible says the blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin. Only if he will receive Christ and get cleansing from his sins, should you even think of marriage.

(What is your question? Write Billy Graham care of this newspaper.)

Mrs. Eggleston Is Highly Acclaimed

Mrs. Louise Eggleston, scheduled to speak Thursday, April 21 at 7:30 p. m. and April 22 at 10 a. m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church on the subject of prayer, is heralded as one of "the most spiritual women in this country," and is credited with establishing more prayer groups than any other individual in the United States.

Ministers, laymen and newspaper writers have written of her inspiring faith, radiant personality and sincerity as she discusses the power of prayer. Her writings in the field of prayer earned for her an honorary degree of doctor of Literature from Athens, Alabama.

Mrs. Aimee Cook, local prayer group leader, in issuing an invitation to the people of this area to attend these lectures said, "Mrs. Eggleston is in constant demand as a leader of spiritual life conference all over the United States and we feel it is a rare privilege to present one whose personal experience in prayer, study of the Bible and the power of prayer as an active force in living, whose writings on the subject are nationally recognized. You will find fresh vitality from her messages."

Religious Aspect Of Acadians' Pilgrimage Cited

Plans for the religious aspect of St. Martinville's three-day Pilgrimage to the Mother Church of the Acadians will be highlighted by a giant panorama depicting the apparitions and mysteries of the Blessed Mother. This was announced in St. Martinville by Monsignor Henri Hamel, pastor of St. Martin Catholic Church.

The Pilgrimage is part of Louisiana's year-long Acadian Bicentennial celebration during which the state is commemorating the 200th anniversary of the migration of the Acadians from Nova Scotia to the bayou country.

Actually, the Pilgrimage is an enlargement of St. Martinville's annual May Day Pageant which was begun in 1949 by Monsignor Hamel as a counteraction against the Communists' May Day observances. Since its inception the pageant has depicted six of the apparitions and mysteries of the Blessed Mother.

This year the pageant will depart from its usual program, Monsignor Hamel stated, and stage instead a giant panorama which will include tableaux from all of the previous pageants. As a special salute to the group of Canadians who visited the area earlier in the year as part of Canada's Acadian Bicentennial observances, the narration this year will be delivered in both French and English.

The procession will begin at six p.m. Sunday, May 1, in front of the church and proceed to Longfellow-Evangeline state park where the panorama will be staged.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

0.	Matt. 12:35.	The good man out of his good treasure brings forth good.
1.	Rom. 2:9, 10.	There will be glory and honor and peace for every one who does good.
2.	II Cor. 11:9.	I will refrain from burdening you in any way.
3.	Matt. 26:41.	Watch that you may not enter into temptation; the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak.
4.	Prov. 24:28.	Be not a witness against your neighbor without cause.

The "help wanted" sign is out again for short term missionary service workers in the United States, according to Miss Alpharetta Leeper, department of missionary personnel, board of missions of the Methodist Church. Forty young men and women are being sought for the 1955 class which is to serve in the U. S. A. and its possessions for two or three years.

College graduates with "good health, good mind, and committed spirit" are offered opportunities in teaching, religious education work in rural areas, group work in community centers, and children's work. Among the special needs listed by the department of work in home fields of the woman's division of Christian service, which started this special program in 1951, are house parents, dieticians, farm managers, nurses, and doctors.

The group will train at Scarritt College for Christian workers for six weeks, July 23 to Aug. 30. The young home missionaries will receive special instruction in religion, group work, crafts, and other skills they may need in work in mission stations.

They receive a monthly salary of $100 plus maintenance and a month's vacation each year. The term of service is for two years in the United States and for three in the outpost missions of Alaska, Puerto Rico, and Hawaii.

Opportunities available include work with special groups such as Spanish - speaking, Negro, American Indian, and in such places as agricultural areas, mining communities, Indian reservations, fishing villages and cities.

College graduates interested n the program should write to: Miss Alpharetta Leeper, department of missionary personnel, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, New York.

Trenton WMU Will Meet In Calhoun

The Trenton W. M. U. Association will meet Wednesday at the First Baptist Church, Calhoun, La.

Mrs. F. A. Brown, Sr., president of the association, will begin the meeting at 10 a.m. The meeting will continue through the day with speakers discussing "Training for Tomorrow."

Rev. Fred Forester will be the missionary speaker for the association and will bring a missionary message at 11:25 a.m.

Other speakers on the all-day program are Mrs. S. N. Camp, Mrs. J. O. Williams, Mrs. W. B. Nelson, Mrs. D. L. Mercer, Mrs. Aline Gulledge, Mrs. G. A. Parker, Mrs. Bessye Thompson, Mrs. R.E. Wilson, Mrs. A. R. Green and Mrs. Charles Guready. Recommendations of the executive committee will be made by Mrs. P. M. Donald and treasurer report by Mrs. A. J. Barnette.

All the 21 Baptist churches of the Trenton Association were urged to have messengers at the meeting. A good attendance is expected.

'Louisiana Day' At All Saints College

Episcopalians from Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi will visit All Saints College at Vicksburg, Miss., Saturday, April 16. This is an annual affair and the program for the day includes a tour of the grounds and a dinner for all visitors. The college is owned and operated by the churches of the three states.

Mum Cuttings Are Best For Planting

Each day a plant puts out new leaves—one that suffered freeze damage, so it seems we'll only lose blossoms but not the plants themselves. Putting out two sets of leaves in one year is really going to take lots of food. I hope you've fed your plants with 8-8-8 or 5-10-5. If not—get busy.

In the Garden

If you remember, last year at this time Mr. Hunt told us to feed our dogwoods with a mixture of half bone meal and half cotton seed meal. He said the root system reaches out to a little beyond the shadow of the tree at noon. So that's where you punch your foot deep holes with a crow bar. Fill the holes to within a couple of inches of the top, replace soil and step on it. The holes should be a foot apart. Mr. Hunt recommended a second circle of holes a foot farther out, filling them the same way.

The freeze seems to have killed all the buds on the scarlet climber because it is such an early bloomer. Other climbing roses are putting out a few feeble blooms, and in some protected places bloom is about normal. As soon as these climbers quit blooming, then is the time to prune them. Cut out the oldest limbs, close to the ground. If you will cut each pruned limb into six or eight inch pieces, they'll fall to the ground and you won't have to pull the entire vine down.

When you're planting seed, don't forget Belles of Ireland. It is a very beautiful foliage plant and dries quite successfully. It matures in six weeks if the weather is warm.

The pill bug is doing his dirty work. 50 per cent DDT dust sprinkled on the ground should put a quick end to him. 6 per cent Chlordane sprinkled on the lawn will kill the ants and red bugs around the children's play yard.

With all the damp weather, the mildew will be showing up. Verbena and crepe myrtles are those usually hardest hit with this disease. Keep the sulphur handy for dusting for mildew and for red spider on violets. Be sure the foliage is completely dry before applying this dust.

For crayfish use one pound of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder to 10 gallons of water. Put about a cup full in each crayfish hole.

Chrysanthemum News

The idea in setting mum plants late is to shorten their growing season so they won't become manageable. Growing this plant from cuttings is recommended because they are less likely to be diseased than those grown from dividing old plants. Cuttings are supposed to make more vigorous plants, too. Prepare the beds well before planting mums. That means deep spading, incorporating humus, adding some 5-10-5, then allowing the bed to set for at least two weeks. So—it's time to do that job, now. This plant likes a well drained plot and full sun. When they begin growing, pinch out the tops to induce bushiness. Stop your pinching by August 1. Buds are forming after that. Malathion is recommended for leafhoppers, aphids, and spider mites on mums. There is no known cure for a wilt that causes the lower leaves to turn brown. Plants grown from cuttings seem to be less affected by it. Sulphur dusting helps prevent leaf spot.

Food Notes

If you're watching calories, here is a salad dressing recipe you will like:

Combine one-half cup vegetable juice cocktail, one tablespoon fine-lemn juice and salt and pepper to taste. Mix well and serve over lettuce or mixed vegetable salads. Minced parsley may be added.

This recipe makes about one-half cup of dressing and has approximately 30 calories. Besides—its brimming full of vitamins and minerals.

Since oysters are so rich in iron, we need to eat more of this sea food. For oyster recipe book, call 3-2251. Among the collection is a famus New Orleans recipe for Oysters Rockefeller.

Painting Primer

It doesn't seem to matter what the project's size, we can somehow manage to spill the same amount of paint! I picked up a few tips that may make the job a little easier, at least as far as cleaning up is concerned. First give yourself a prime-coat of hand lotion with oil around and under the nails. Now let's get on to the paint can and brush. It's a simple matter to pick up the brush, but what to do when you want to put it down again, is a different matter Just drive a large-headed tack into the handle of the brush just above the metal collar. The tack provides the hanger for the brush. Then, to keep drippings off the floor, stick a large paper plate on the bottom of the bucket.

Bells Of Ireland Design Wins Top Honors

The Sprigs and Twigs Garden Club of Monroe presented our lovely flower show this week. Mrs. V. S. Garnett and Mrs. C. C. Lucky served as judges. All blue ribbons in the horticulture class! Ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. T. J. Mulhearn, Jr., for a collection of cornflowers (Bachelor Button) and also for marguerite daisies. Mrs. E. D. Slaughter for blue cornflowers. In the arrangement section, first place was awarded to Mrs. Max Kulke. In a shaded green container Mrs. Kulke created a lovely line - mass arrangement of Bells of Ireland in graceful curves and pink carnations. A few salal leaves were placed low in the arrangement to accentuate the bold forms of the carnations. The background color was chartreuse. Mrs. T. J. Mulhearn, Jr. was awarded second place. For a container, Mrs. Mulhearn chose a soft green pillow vase and designed a striking line - mass arrangement of bottle brush (Callistemon) with a cluster of photinia foliage in the focal area. For those not familiar with the bottle-brush, this is a shrub with narrow leathery leaves and remarkable showy cylindrical spikes of bright red flowers tipped with yellow anthers. This lovely arrangement was placed against a rosy pink background. Third place was awarded to Mrs. E. D. Slaughter and Mrs. J. A. Coleman. These arrangers chose a deep green low container for their beautiful line-mass arrangement. Aspidistra leaves were arranged in an asymetrical pattern and the buds and blooms of red amaryllis placed in the focal area. Very striking.

Its flower show time again and the interesting and original schedules are arriving daily. The Tensas Garden Club has chosen for their theme "Garden of Life." In the arrangement section there are thirteen classes beginning with "Bundle From Heaven," a baby bouquet, on through the cycle of life to "Mellowing Mood", golden anniversary, a formal arrangement of yellow flowers. Sounds like a wonderful show.

I believe the Wisner Garden club is planning an indoor and outdoor show. Tours of the gardens which will be judged according to size, and class, that is formal and informal. Then the arrangements by placement in the homes. This is always most interesting for you see the arrangements in the settings for which they were designed.

The Monroe Garden Club Flower Show will be staged on May 10. Their theme is "Country Fair." The horticulture section is open to all flower growers in the Twin Cities. It is hoped that many of our fine gardeners, especially the men, will make entries in the show and give us all the privilege of viewing outstanding plants that can be grown locally. We have been asked to give again the hints on "conditioning" flowers for flower shows. Flowers should be cut no later than the day before they are to be exhibited. They should be cut early in the morning or after the sun goes down. Cut stems cleanly at an angle with a sharp knife or pruners and place at once in deep water. After cutting place plant material in a dark cool place in deep water over night or for an equal period of time. Away from drafts, please! This is called "hardening." Plant material prepared in this way holds its freshness for some time. Some of the foliage used for arranging, such as pittosporum, aspidistra, etc., may be submerged overnight. Roses for exhibition in horticulture should be in the bud stage— one-half to three quarters open. Be sure all your foliage is clean. Be sure your house plants are clean and tidy. Foliage may be washed but never waxed or oiled. Transporting your specimens to the show in good condition is important. Such perishable specimens as iris blooms should be placed in an upright position, not touching each other, to prevent breakage and tearing of petals. Milk and coke bottles in their cases make good carriers. (Borrow a milk case from your grocer.) Keep flowers out of the wind. Correct naming is desirable and will win recognition from judges and inform visitors to the show.

Flower Show To Be Held In Monroe May 10

Flower lovers of Monroe and surrounding area are invited to display their most perfect specimen blooms in the fifth annual flower show to be presented by the Monroe Garden Club. Entries in the horticulture section do not have to be registered ahead of time, but should be brought to the show on Tuesday May 10 at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Entries will be received between 8:00 a. m. and 11:00 a. m. They may not be removed from the show before 7:00 p. m. or after 9:00 p. m. All entries in the horticulture division must be grown by the exhibitor, or in his possession at least three months prior to the show. Only one entry in each class may be made by an exhibitor, and it should be properly labeled with the correct name.

If you are planning to display your flowers, be sure to bring the required number of stems. When entering the annuals section, three stems are required for proper evaluation if you bring ageratum, balsam, calaippsis, clarkia, columbine, cornflower, cosmos, datura, feverfew, forget-me-not, heliotrope, hollyhock, larkspur, lobelia, marigold, pinks, poppy, snapdragon, stock, sweet William, torentia, verbena, or zenia. You will need to show nine stems of alyssum, nasturtium, sweet pea, and viola.

When entering section two, for perennials or plants grown as such, bring three stems of coreopsis, phlox, salvia, or statice. Bring five stems of daisies.

Section three is for bulbs, corms, rhizomes, tubers, and only one stem of each is required. Included in this group are amaryllis, cana, crinium, hermocallis, gladiolus, iris, tuberose, and all types of lilies, such as calla, Easter, madonna, regal, tiger, and zephyr lilies.

A sirgle spray or branch of any named variety of flowering shrubs, trees, and vines may be entered in section five. Setcion six is for house plants grown for foliage or bloom, and for cacti and succulents. You may have only one entry and only one kind of plant in the pot.

Those who have green houses may exhibit any type of plant they have grown in section seven. Section eight is for vegetable gardeners. A collection of home grown vegetables should be displayed artistically on a tray or basket. If you would like to display a collection of flowers, enter section nine, in which a collection of roses, iris, day lilies, peonies, amaryllis, orchids, or gladioli should be shown on a tray or basket.

The horticulture division will be judged by scales of point in the handbook for flower shows, National Council of State Garden Clubs. The decision of the judges will be final. The entry committee reserves the right to subdivide the classes to facilitate judging.

Awards in each class will be a blue ribbon for first place, a red ribbon for second place, and a yellow ribbon for third place. A tri-color award will be made for the most perfect specimen of blue ribbon winner in the horticulture division.

All classes in horticulture are open to all local flower gardeners, and it is hoped that everyone will enter at least one class.

Clean-Up Winter Garden Weeds

Now is the time to clean up the winter and spring weeds from the flower garden and get a mulch on the beds to hold down the summer weeds. If you will cover up the soil where you have just removed the old weeds, the seeds of the summer kinds will be discouraged from sprouting, and there will be a minimum of work to do in removing the ones which do grow through the mulch. It doesn't matter greatly what kind of mulch you use — compost or even partly decayed compost from your compost pile, peat moss, pine needles — any of these and many other kinds of mulch will do. Just avoid saw dust unless it is so thoroughly decayed that you cannot find little pieces of wood in it when you rub it hard between your fingers. The important thing is to get the mulch on within an hour or so after you remove the weeds. The best system to follow is to take a basket of mulch along with you when you are weeding and cover the soil immediately after you pull the weeds. Then the sun or warm air cannot wake up the seeds. Under a mulch, they will tend to stay asleep.

The deeper your mulch, the less seeds will sprout, but, of course, four to six inches of mulch is about as deep as oridinary perennials and other plants in our flower beds will stand. If you do not like the looks of your mulch material, you can sprinkle something like pine needles or peat moss over it to give an even appearance all over the beds. Be sure to sprinkle a light feeding of complete fertilizer of some kind over the mulch after you put it on. In the process of breaking down your leaves, pine needles, sawdust or what have you, the bacteria will need some food. If you do not provide it in the form of fertilizer, they may have to steal it from the soil around your flowers.

Do not try to pull up wild onions when you are weeding. They must have special handling. Wild onions know all the tricks in the book of survival! Tug at one harmless looking onion, and you may be able to pull it up, but you will leave a nest of babies behind to grow and mock you this fall. Dig each onion out with the greatest care to get all the soil and all the tiniest bulblets that go with it. Often you will find the bulbs way down deep in the soil where they have sprouted from some dormant bulblets you brought in with your topsoil. In this case, nothing but a very long narrow spade will get them up.

Remember that in each clumb of wild onions (called wild garlic in the Yankee books) there is a joker. Even very small clumps which are just developing from a single bulblet nearly always have a few tiny, fattish dried up looking things that are not even rounded out enough for you to think they are bulbs at all. They are. They are the dormant babies which will stay asleep until the cooler weather wakes them up this fall to grow in the winter and show up as big plants next spring. If you take the clumps of onions up and do not take the greatest care to put them on a newspaper and keep the sleeping little devils from falling off on the ground, you will have more onions in no time. Since the dormant bulblets do not have any roots or tops, they fall out of the clump as if they were only harmless pebbles! Save all your onions in an old container and burn them in the hottest fire you can find or bury them in a bottomless well! Don't let them get near the compost pile or touch the ground anywhere.

The Monroe Garden Club Flower Show will be staged on May 10. Their theme is "Country Fair." The horticulture section is open to all flower growers in the Twin Cities. It is hoped that many of our fine gardeners, especially the men, will make entries in the show and give us all the privilege of viewing outstanding plants that can be grown locally. We have been asked to give again the hints on "conditioning" flowers for flower shows. Flowers should be cut no later than the day before they are to be exhibited. They should be cut early in the morning or after the sun goes down. Cut stems cleanly at an angle with a sharp knife or pruners and place at once in deep water. After cutting place plant material in a dark cool place in deep water over night or for an equal period of time. Away from drafts, please! This is called "hardening." Plant material prepared in this way holds its freshness for some time. Some of the foliage used for arranging, such as pittosporum, aspidistra, etc., may be submerged overnight. Roses for exhibition in horticulture should be in the bud stage— one-half to three quarters open. Be sure all your foliage is clean. Be sure your house plants are clean and tidy. Foliage may be washed but never waxed or oiled. Transporting your specimens to the show in good condition is important. Such perishable specimens as iris blooms should be placed in an upright position, not touching each other, to prevent breakage and tearing of petals. Milk and coke bottles in their cases make good carriers. (Borrow a milk case from your grocer.) Keep flowers out of the wind. Correct naming is desirable and will win recognition from judges and inform visitors to the show.

Flower Show To Be Held In Monroe May 10

Flower lovers of Monroe and surrounding area are invited to display their most perfect specimen blooms in the fifth annual flower show to be presented by the Monroe Garden Club. Entries in the horticulture section do not have to be registered ahead of time, but should be brought to the show on Tuesday May 10 at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Entries will be received between 8:00 a. m. and 11:00 a. m. They may not be removed from the show before 7:00 p. m. or after 9:00 p. m. All entries in the horticulture division must be grown by the exhibitor, or in his possession at least three months prior to the show. Only one entry in each class may be made by an exhibitor, and it should be properly labeled with the correct name.

If you are planning to display your flowers, be sure to bring the required number of stems. When entering the annuals section, three stems are required for proper evaluation if you bring ageratum, balsam, calaippsis, clarkia, columbine, cornflower, cosmos, datura, feverfew, forget-me-not, heliotrope, hollyhock, larkspur, lobelia, marigold, pinks, poppy, snapdragon, stock, sweet William, torentia, verbena, or zenia. You will need to show nine stems of alyssum, nasturtium, sweet pea, and viola.

When entering section two, for perennials or plants grown as such, bring three stems of coreopsis, phlox, salvia, or statice. Bring five stems of daisies.

Section three is for bulbs, corms, rhizomes, tubers, and only one stem of each is required. Included in this group are amaryllis, cana, crinium, hermocallis, gladiolus, iris, tuberose, and all types of lilies, such as calla, Easter, madonna, regal, tiger, and zephyr lilies.

A sirgle spray or branch of any named variety of flowering shrubs, trees, and vines may be entered in section five. Setcion six is for house plants grown for foliage or bloom, and for cacti and succulents. You may have only one entry and only one kind of plant in the pot.

Those who have green houses may exhibit any type of plant they have grown in section seven. Section eight is for vegetable gardeners. A collection of home grown vegetables should be displayed artistically on a tray or basket. If you would like to display a collection of flowers, enter section nine, in which a collection of roses, iris, day lilies, peonies, amaryllis, orchids, or gladioli should be shown on a tray or basket.

The horticulture division will be judged by scales of point in the handbook for flower shows, National Council of State Garden Clubs. The decision of the judges will be final. The entry committee reserves the right to subdivide the classes to facilitate judging.

Awards in each class will be a blue ribbon for first place, a red ribbon for second place, and a yellow ribbon for third place. A tricolor award will be made for the most perfect specimen of blue ribbon winner in the horticulture division.

All classes in horticulture are open to all local flower gardeners, and it is hoped that everyone will enter at least one class.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Clean-Up Winter Garden Weeds

Now is the time to clean up the winter and spring weeds from the flower garden and get a mulch on the beds to hold down the summer weeds. If you will cover up the soil where you have just removed the old weeds, the seeds of the summer kinds will be discouraged from sprouting, and there will be a minimum of work to do in removing the ones which do grow through the mulch. It doesn't matter greatly what kind of mulch you use — compost or even partly decayed compost from your compost pile, peat moss, pine needles — any of these and many other kinds of mulch will do. Just avoid saw dust unless it is so thoroughly decayed that you cannot find little pieces of wood in it when you rub it hard between your fingers. The important thing is to get the mulch on within an hour or so after you remove the weeds. The best system to follow is to take a basket of mulch along with you when you are weeding and cover the soil immediately after you pull the weeds. Then the sun or warm air cannot wake up the seeds. Under a mulch, they will tend to stay asleep.

The deeper your mulch, the less seeds will sprout, but, of course, four to six inches of mulch is about as deep as ordinary perennials and other plants in our flower beds will stand. If you do not like the looks of your mulch material, you can sprinkle something like pine needles or peat moss over it to give an even appearance all over the beds. Be sure to sprinkle a light feeding of complete fertilizer of some kind over the mulch after you put it on. In the process of breaking down your leaves, pine needles, sawdust or what have you, the bacteria will need some food. If you do not provide it in the form of fertilizer, they may have to steal it from the soil around your flowers.

Do not try to pull up wild onions when you are weeding. They must have special handling. Wild onions know all the tricks in the book of survival! Tug at one harmless looking onion, and you may be able to pull it up, but you will leave a nest of babies behind to grow and mock you this fall. Dig each onion out with the greatest care to get all the soil and all the tiniest bulblets that go with it. Often you will find the bulbs way down deep in the soil where they have sprouted from some dormant bulblets you brought in with your topsoil. In this case, nothing but a very long narrow spade will get them up.

Remember that in each clumb of wild onions (called wild garlic in the Yankee books) there is a joker. Even very small clumps which are just developing from a single bulblet nearly always have a few tiny, fattish dried up looking things that are not even rounded out enough for you to think they are bulbs at all. They are. They are the dormant babies which will stay asleep until the cooler weather wakes them up this fall to grow in the winter and show up as big plants next spring. If you take the clumps of onions up and do not take the greatest care to put them on a newspaper and keep the sleeping little devils from falling off on the ground, you will have more onions in no time. Since the dormant bulblets do not have any roots or tops, they fall out of the clump as if they were only harmless pebbles! Save all your onions in an old container and burn them in the hottest fire you can find or bury them in a bottomless well! Don't let them get near the compost pile or touch the ground anywhere.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. For ages, men thought women had too little managing ability to organize anything. But when men invented gadgets — especially the sewing machine — which freed women from home drudgery and making family clothes, they got out of the house pronto. They ganged up, not against men, but to cooperate with them. Furthermore, women have shown men how to do a lot of community jobs they had never thought of or believed possible.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. False. It hinders thinking. When most people want to solve a problem or think of something, they screw up their face muscles and unconsciously tighten many more, as though their muscles could pull things out of their brains. They look like Josh Billings' mule — "like they thought they were thinking of something." How to think more easily is told in our booklet "How To Increase Your Word Power, Think Better, Spell Perfectly," nonprofit, 15c, coin only, and self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Dr. Hans Kalmus says in "Scientific American" that they already know bees and starlings guide themselves by the sun. They have a "built-in" clock and sextant (sun guide.) If a bee finds food, he comes "home" and dances at a certain angle to the sun which shows the other "workers" the location of the food. Starlings do the same. One species of crab finds it ways by the moon — romantic rascals!

The Conquest of Fear

End your fears! by learning how to build self-confidence. A valuable 24-page booklet, based on research by Dr. David Mitchell, consulting psychologist. Shows you how to analyze and end your fears. Send 15 cents (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope (give name of city and state), to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, care of this newspaper.

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

To the player who finds the taking of finesses irresistible, today's hand possesses great charm in that it offers the opportunity for a finesse in each of declarer's three suits, but to the cautious declarer an interesting problem is presented. That is which finesse to choose and which to abandon.

South conducted the bidding as though he were convinced that Providence was on his side opening with one heart. North chose to respond with one no trump.

South, insisting upon reaching game, made a jump shift and North, rather than offer a mere preference bid of three hearts, decided to bid three diamonds. This call had the effect of so exciting South that when he finally got belated heart support he burst forth into a slam.

The opening spade lead was ruffed and declarer was faced with the choice of finessing for the queen of hearts or the queen of diamonds. Picking up the queen of hearts on a finesse would in itself not solve declarer's problems for he would still have numerous minor suit losers to be concerned with. But if the jack of diamonds could be finessed, assuming that suit broke reasonably, most of declarer's troubles would be over for his club losers could be disposed of on dummy's diamond suit and he could now afford to lose a trump trick.

Declarer decided to play the ace of hearts and then the king. Remember that while with eight cards the finesse is superior to the play for the drop, nevertheless the chance of dropping a doubleton queen is not very remote. Furthermore if hearts are finessed, declarer will be unable to finesse diamonds without blocking the suit.

When the queen of hearts did not fall, declarer led a low diamond to the jack. When this held he gave West his trump trick and was able to shed his losing clubs on dummy's fourth and fifth diamonds.

Commission Sets Railroad Case For Hearing May 26

FARMERVILLE, April 16 (Special)—Notice was received here today that the Interstate Commerce Commission would hear a petition filed by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company May 26 in Monroe to abandon the company's facilities from Litree to Farmerville.

A number of Farmerville citizens filed a notice with the commission protesting the abandonment of the facilities. The notice stated that the removal would displace employees, labor and contribute to unemployment. The citizenship also declared that the removal would deprive the area of a much needed facility, without any lawful or equitable reason.

The railroad company stated that the reason for it's petition to remove the line was that it was a "losing proposition." In the notice filed by citizens of Farmerville and Union parish the group stated that they disputed the statement that the line was a "losing propsoition."

Members of the citizens group who will attend the hearing are Harvey G. Fields, attorney for the businessmen of Farmerville, A. F. Rabun, city attorney, N. B. James, bank president, Farmerville Mayor R. L. Turnage, T. T. Fields, Union parish state representative, Marion Mayor Gurvis Post, Dan Green, bank president, and other interested parties.

THE STORY OF BREAD—6

Bread Is a Friendly Food

The two little Arab boys in the picture, Yusef and Ali, are eating bread as a gesture of friendship. They had never seen each other before, but when Ali offered to share a loaf of bread with Yusef, they knew right away they were friends.

Bread has come to be used as a general term for food. So we think of father as the "breadwinner" of the family and when we "break bread" with someone we share our meal with them.

The Lord's Prayer says: "Give us this day our daily bread" and there is the expression "Man cannot live by bread alone," meaning man must have more than material things to be happy.

To get enough bread, countries have gone to war and have tried to acquire wheat-producing territories. When there is not enough rain for the grain to grow well, there may be a great famine and many persons do not have enough to eat.

This is the last of the week-long series on the story of bread. Color the picture of the two little Arab boys so you can have your own complete story.

Solution Of Today's Puzzle Found On Classified Page

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. For ages, men thought women had too little managing ability to organize anything. But when men invented gadgets — especially the sewing machine — which freed women from home drudgery and making family clothes, they got out of the house pronto. They ganged up, not against men, but to cooperate with them. Furthermore, women have shown men how to do a lot of community jobs they had never thought of or believed possible.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. False. It hinders thinking. When most people want to solve a problem or think of something, they screw up their face muscles and unconsciously tighten many more, as though their muscles could pull things out of their brains. They look like Josh Billings' mule — "like they thought they were thinking of something." How to think more easily is told in our booklet "How To Increase Your Word Power, Think Better, Spell Perfectly," nonprofit, 15c, coin only, and self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Dr. Hans Kalmus says in "Scientific American" that they already know bees and starlings guide themselves by the sun. They have a "built-in" clock and sextant (sun guide.) If a bee finds food, he comes "home" and dances at a certain angle to the sun which shows the other "workers" the location of the food. Starlings do the same. One species of crab finds it ways by the moon — romantic rascals!

The Conquest of Fear

End your fears! by learning how to build self-confidence. A valuable 24-page booklet, based on research by Dr. David Mitchell, consulting psychologist. Shows you how to analyze and end your fears. Send 15 cents (coin only), plus self - addressed, stamped envelope (give name of city and state), to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, care of this newspaper.

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

To the player who finds the taking of finesses irresistible, today's hand possesses great charm in that it offers the opportunity for a finesse in each of declarer's three suits, but to the cautious declarer an interesting problem is presented. That is which finesse to choose and which to abandon.

South conducted the bidding as though he were convinced that Providence was on his side opening with one heart. North chose to respond with one no trump.

South, insisting upon reaching game, made a jump shift and North, rather than offer a mere preference bid of three hearts, decided to bid three diamonds. This call had the effect of so exciting South that when he finally got belated heart support he burst forth into a slam.

The opening spade lead was ruffed and declarer was faced with the choice of finessing for the queen of hearts or the queen of diamonds. Picking up the queen of hearts on a finesse would in itself not solve declarer's problems for he would still have numerous minor suit losers to be concerned with. But if the jack of diamonds could be finessed, assuming that suit broke reasonably, most of declarer's troubles would be over for his club losers could be disposed of on dummy's diamond suit and he could now afford to lose a trump trick.

Declarer decided to play the ace of hearts and then the king. Remember that while with eight cards the finesse is superior to the play for the drop, nevertheless the chance of dropping a doubleton queen is not very remote. Furthermore if hearts are finessed, declarer will be unable to finesse diamonds without blocking the suit.

When the queen of hearts did not fall, declarer led a low diamond to the jack. When this held he gave West his trump trick and was able to shed his losing clubs on dummy's fourth and fifth diamonds.

Commission Sets Railroad Case For Hearing May 26

FARMERVILLE, April 16 (Special)—Notice was received here today that the Interstate Commerce Commission would hear a petition filed by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company May 26 in Monroe to abandon the company's facilities from Litree to Farmerville.

A number of Farmerville citizens filed a notice with the commission protesting the abandonment of the facilities. The notice stated that the removal would displace employees, labor and contribute to unemployment. The citizenship also declared that the removal would deprive the area of a much needed facility, without any lawful or equitable reason.

The railroad company stated that the reason for it's petition to remove the line was that it was a "losing proposition." In the notice filed by citizens of Farmerville and Union parish the group stated that they disputed the statement that the line was a "losing propsoition."

Members of the citizens group who will attend the hearing are Harvey G. Fields, attorney for the businessmen of Farmerville, A. F. Rabun, city attorney, N. B. James, bank president, Farmerville Mayor R. L. Turnage, T. T. Fields, Union parish state representative, Marion Mayor Gurvis Post, Dan Green, bank president, and other interested parties.

THE STORY OF BREAD—6

Bread Is a Friendly Food

The two little Arab boys in the picture, Yusef and Ali, are eating bread as a gesture of friendship. They had never seen each other before, but when Ali offered to share a loaf of bread with Yusef, they knew right away they were friends.

Bread has come to be used as a general term for food. So we think of father as the "breadwinner" of the family and when we "break bread" with someone we share our meal with them.

The Lord's Prayer says: "Give us this day our daily bread" and there is the expression "Man cannot live by bread alone," meaning man must have more than material things to be happy.

To get enough bread, countries have gone to war and have tried to acquire wheat-producing territories. When there is not enough rain for the grain to grow well, there may be a great famine and many persons do not have enough to eat.

This is the last of the week-long series on the story of bread. Color the picture of the two little Arab boys so you can have your own complete story.

Forty Years An Actor

HOLLYWOOD, April 16 — In my 40 years in motion pictures, my credits state that I was an actor for only six months of that time, working in serials directed by Francis Ford, in Al Christie comedies and Wallace Reid productions.

This is an untruth.

In my own way I have been an actor for every one of those 40 years, but I confine my thespic endeavors to settings behind and away from the camera. Right now, in fact, while I am directing a gay CinemaScope musical with plenty of Technicolor splash, "The Second Greatest Sex," at Universal-International, I am also playing the part of a harassed father of a dozen mischievous youngsters. Some of these youngsters are old enough to be my twin brother. Like Bert Lahr, for instance. Others, like Jimmy Boyd, are young enough to be my grandchildren.

The reason for this is simple. Anyway, to me it's simple. I am a firm believer that unless the mood of the movie isn't matched in some way by the mood on the set, when the cameras aren't rolling, a director's going to find himself in a peck of trouble.

"The Second Greatest Sex" is only half - completed, but I know already that the finished product will have the sparkle it was intended to create. How do I know? Why, I just watch Jeanne Crain play prompter while Mamie Van Doren memorizes the lyrics of one of the songs for the picture. I know the dance routines will be loaded with zip because I watched young dancer Tommy Rall doing purposely awkward ballet stances to get laughs from our script girl, Betty Abbott. I know the important scenes will go along smoothly because of that crowd of younger players gathered around Bert Lahr, listening to his stories of days when he played the Columbia Burlesque Wheel. Performances will be topnotch because character actress Edna Skinner was hostess to the top members of the cast at a dinner last week end. Kitty Kallen joins in a barbershop quartet including George Nader, Paul Gilbert and Keith Andes for a horrible rendition of "A Butcher Boy I Loved So Well," and I am assured Kitty's movie debut will be a big hit, both musically and dramatically.

The cast is a close - knit group. They lunch at a special table in the Universal - International commissary. Often the players show up on the set on a day off just because they're having fun.

This is the mood the story requires and it's my job to see that it is maintained during production, on or off the screen. So I treat the cast like a gang of Rinky-Dinks. In the crowded commissary, I stand up and yell at their table: "All right, put down your forks and get up on the hill for work!" The next day I blow a police whistle to break up their coffee - klatch. Next week I may use a six - shooter loaded with blanks. I don't want anything to touch that precious spirit of camaraderie because I'm purposely spilling it over into the CinemaScope cameras.

We used to attempt the same things — W. C. Fields and I — when I directed the Old Master in "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man." We'd get the rest of the cast rollicking, then we'd let the cameras rool. The same ideas used to work when I directed comedies sarring Lloyd Hamilton or Laurel and Hardy. The spirit that was rampant before I yelled: "Roll 'em!" inevitably ended up on the screen.

The same thing applies to heavy drama, suspense stories or outdoor action. In dramas, I tried to inject a feeling of emotion on a set. If some actor or actress blew up in a rage or tears, it wasn't necessarily a bad omen. It heightened the emotional tension in a scene that followed. A "whispering campaign" (nobody talks loud) can do wonders for the atmosphere of a movie sound stage during the filming of a suspense story. Life around the camera gets downright foreboding and the scenes capture the spirit.

A close friend of mine with a statistical mind tells me I've directed more than 400 films, counting the two-and three-reelers. I don't remember figures, just fact. Such as handing Alan Ladd a bit role in "The Goldwyn Follies" about 20 years ago. Or, ten years before that, suggesting a test of newcomer Janet Gaynor for a movie called "The Johnstown Flood," an idea that helped her along to stardom. My memories of the movies go back to 1912 when, as a film extra, I teamed up with Frank Lloyd and William Seiter to buy a dress suit which we shared for extra calls, thus raising our pay checks on occasions from $3 to $5.

I have learned many things in my experiences in this wonderful business of manufacturing entertainment — and not the least is the fact that a director, in order to get his actors to deliver properly, has to be pretty much of a ham, himself. Perhaps we directors should be recognized for our behind-the-scenes emoting — perhaps with an offstage Oscar.

Voters League To Meet In W. Monroe

The Ouachita Parish Negro Voters League Inc. will hold its annual installation meeting at Calvary Baptist Church on 9th and Linderman Avenue, West Monroe, Sunday, April 17, at 3:00 p.m. with J. Allen Norris, mayor of West Monroe, delivering the keynote address.

Rev. B. F. Martin, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church of Monroe, will install the officers, states states President Ted Richards.

The music will be furnished by the following choirs: Central, Terzia, Boley, and Myles High schools.

The program will be preceeded by a band festival beginning at 2:00 p.m. on the church lawn, under the direction of A. V. Turner, and Sidney Dawson.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am writing about my parents. Dad is 72, and mother 69. Anyway you figure it, they have had a successful life. Dad wanted to make good as a farmer, and his dream came true. Mother has a lovely home and 10 children, all thriving and married.

They have an upper bracket income for their age, a beautiful country place, enough chores to keep them busy, yet not too heavy for them to handle. But despite this good fortune they are completely miserable with each other. When or why it began I don't know.

However, for the past year things have been bad. It is distressing to be near them, and dad has told some of the children to stay away —simply because they tried to ease the situation. We don't know who is more to blame, mother or dad. Each accuses the other falsely.

Desperately Need Therapy

We were taught as children that whatever dad said was right; and we were grown before we knew he had any faults. Mother seemed more like one of the children to us —full of faults, but lovable. They are desperately in need of outside help, as dad is sure his children don't understand, or aren't as interested as he thinks they should be.

It would take pages to tell of their troubles—which aren't troubles at all, if they knew the truth. How can I get help for them? If help isn't available in their nearby town, perhaps I could arrange to bring them here for a few weeks. They've been seeing doctors, but their illness isn't physical as they believe. I am sure of that.

O.K.

May Be Physical Basis for Fret

DEAR O.K.: Your parents' seemingly senseless quarreling with each other, in the late afternoon of a good life, suggests that one or both may be vaguely ailing with hardening of the arteries. This disability—arteriosclerosis is the medical tag for it—tends to muddle thinking, by interfering with the perceptive faculties of the persons afflicted.

It is rather a case of "now he gets it and now he doesn't, as regards his knowing what goes on with people around him. It seems that at times the receiving center of the patient's mind (the dispatcher's office of his self-governing system) gets kind of mixed-up, as if his inter-communication wires were crossed. Then he is apt to blast out in protest of something he thinks is transpiring, when actually it isn't; or he may demand attentions already received—and so on.

One gets the impression that the patient's nervous system is failing, intermittently, to transmit impressions clearly and keep them sorted out. It is as if he can't always distinguish surely between his real experiences, and what goes on in his head—as regards the materials of grievances. And the ability to keep irritation under control seems conspicuously lacking, when he feels upset, or unfairly treated.

Ancient Hurts Coming to Fore?

As the physical framework of personality begins to rust out (say as in arteriosclerosis), maybe the contents of the unconscious mind begin to float free, at least in part. Somewhat like a rising flood bearing a miscellany of emotional wreckage to the surface. Thus in the case of your parents, perhaps their recent quarreling has to do with compulsive airing of long buried indignations, that they cautiously pushed underground when the original incidents happened. Maybe this is the inner significance of their gouging at each other nowadays—on charges that strike you and the defendants as false.

Now for effective help. In the town near your parents' farm is a county mental health clinic, located in the psychology building on the university grounds. Psychiatrists and a psychologist are on the staff; and clients are interviewed Tuesday and Thursday afternoons—according to the latest directory I have. Moreover in the city through which you write, the university mental hygiene clinic, open daily except Saturdays.

Either place you'd get good advice, as to how to pave the way to treating your parents—if you discuss their symptoms with the experts and ask for guidance. M.H.

'A Man Called Peter' Opens At Paramount

"A Man Called Peter," Twentieth Century - Fox's CinemaScope production of Catherine Marshall's inspirational book, opened last night at the Paramount Theatre.

This is the story of a Scottish immigrant boy, whose conscience would permit no compromise with principles, who fought his way upwards into the love and affection of the America he adopted, who became famous, but remained humble, and who left the world a better place for his having toiled in the vineyard of human uplift. It is the story, too, of the girl who loved him and shared an emotional life that will inspire everyone to learn how really deep great love can be.

Richard Todd, as Peter Marshall, brings a man of great heart and character to life. His portrayal is a monument to a man, who in his ministeries and as chaplain of the U. S. senate rendered his electrifying appeals to the human conscience. His delivery of the famous sermons and prayers is masterful in eloquence and power and enriches the film, which is as electrifying as the man about whom it revolves.

Jean Peters was never better on the screen than she is as the romantic girl who learns all the heartaches of wifehood as well as the joys of the love and affection of a wonderful man. everyone in the cast seems to have caught inspiration from the story. Marjorie Rambeau, Jill Esmond, Les Tremayne, Robert Burton, Gladys Hurlbut, Richard Garrick, Gloria Gordon and Billy Chapin all give spirited performances.

"A Man Called Peter" is the story of faith and Twentieth Century - Fox has given it a meticulous production, making it an unforgettable experience in the theatre. There can be nothing but praise written for this great picture.

The same ideas used to work when I directed comedies sarring Lloyd Hamilton or Laurel and Hardy. The spirit that was rampant before I yelled: "Roll 'em!" inevitably ended up on the screen.

The same thing applies to heavy drama, suspense stories or outdoor action. In dramas, I tried to inject a feeling of emotion on a set. If some actor or actress blew up in a rage or tears, it wasn't necessarily a bad omen. It heightened the emotional tension in a scene that followed. A "whispering campaign" (nobody talks loud) can do wonders for the atmosphere of a movie sound stage during the filming of a suspense story. Life around the camera gets downright foreboding and the scenes capture the spirit.

A close friend of mine with a statistical mind tells me I've directed more than 400 films, counting the two-and three-reelers. I don't remember figures, just fact. Such as handing Alan Ladd a bit role in "The Goldwyn Follies" about 20 years ago. Or, ten years before that, suggesting a test of newcomer Janet Gaynor for a movie called "The Johnstown Flood," an idea that helped her along to stardom. My memories of the movies go back to 1912 when, as a film extra, I teamed up with Frank Lloyd and William Seiter to buy a dress suit which we shared for extra calls, thus raising our pay checks on occasions from $3 to $5.

I have learned many things in my experiences in this wonderful business of manufacturing entertainment — and not the least is the fact that a director, in order to get his actors to deliver properly, has to be pretty much of a ham, himself. Perhaps we directors should be recognized for our behind-the-scenes emoting — perhaps with an offstage Oscar.

At The Theaters

Jim Theatre

Now through Tuesday: "Ma and Pa Kettle at Waikiki" with Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride, Lori Nelson and Byron Palmer. It's their newest and funniest adventure.

Starting Wednesday: "Revenge of the Creature," starring John Agar, Loris Nelson and John Bromfield. Horror grips the city as the monster strikes

PARAMOUNT THEATRE

Voters League To Meet In W. Monroe

The Ouachita Parish Negro Voters League Inc. will hold its annual installation meeting at Calvary Baptist Church on 9th and Linderman Avenue, West Monroe, Sunday, April 17, at 3:00 p.m. with J. Allen Norris, mayor of West Monroe, delivering the keynote address.

Rev. B. F. Martin, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church of Monroe, will install the officers, states states President Ted Richards.

The music will be furnished by the following choirs: Central, Terzia, Boley, and Myles High schools.

The program will be preceeded by a band festival beginning at 2:00 p.m. on the church lawn, under the direction of A. V. Turner, and Sidney Dawson.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

ON THE BEACH AT WAIKIKI—Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride move the antics of the "Kettles" to Hawaii in Universal-International's "Ma and Pa Kettle at Waikiki," newest in the series of popular comedies. Lori Nelson, Byron Palmer and Hilo Hattie are featured in this Honolulu hi-jinx.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am writing about my parents. Dad is 72, and mother 69. Anyway you figure it, they have had a successful life. Dad wanted to make good as a farmer, and his dream came true. Mother has a lovely home and 10 children, all thriving and married.

They have an upper bracket income for their age, a beautiful country place, enough chores to keep them busy, yet not too heavy for them to handle. But despite this good fortune they are completely miserable with each other. When or why it began I don't know.

However, for the past year things have been bad. It is distressing to be near them, and dad has told some of the children to stay away —simply because they tried to ease the situation. We don't know who is more to blame, mother or dad. Each accuses the other falsely.

Desperately Need Therapy

We were taught as children that whatever dad said was right; and we were grown before we knew he had any faults. Mother seemed more like one of the children to us —full of faults, but lovable. They are desperately in need of outside help, as dad is sure his children don't understand, or aren't as interested as he thinks they should be.

It would take pages to tell of their troubles—which aren't troubles at all, if they knew the truth. How can I get help for them? If help isn't available in their nearby town, perhaps I could arrange to bring them here for a few weeks. They've been seeing doctors, but their illness isn't physical as they believe. I am sure of that.

O.K.

May Be Physical Basis for Fret

DEAR O.K.: Your parents' seemingly senseless quarreling with each other, in the late afternoon of a good life, suggests that one or both may be vaguely ailing with hardening of the arteries. This disability—arteriosclerosis is the medical tag for it—tends to muddle thinking, by interfering with the perceptive faculties of the persons afflicted.

It is rather a case of "now he gets it and now he doesn't, as regards his knowing what goes on with people around him. It seems that at times the receiving center of the patient's mind (the dispatcher's office of his self-governing system) gets kind of mixed-up, as if his inter-communication wires were crossed. Then he is apt to blast out in protest of something he thinks is transpiring, when actually it isn't; or he may demand attentions already received—and so on.

One gets the impression that the patient's nervous system is failing, intermittently, to transmit impressions clearly and keep them sorted out. It is as if he can't always distinguish surely between his real experiences, and what goes on in his head—as regards the materials of grievances. And the ability to keep irritation under control seems conspicuously lacking, when he feels upset, or unfairly treated.

Ancient Hurts Coming to Fore?

As the physical framework of personality begins to rust out (say as in arteriosclerosis), maybe the contents of the unconscious mind begin to float free, at least in part. Somewhat like a rising flood bearing a miscellany of emotional wreckage to the surface. Thus in the case of your parents, perhaps their recent quarreling has to do with compulsive airing of long buried indignations, that they cautiously pushed underground when the original incidents happened. Maybe this is the inner significance of their gouging at each other nowadays—on charges that strike you and the defendants as false.

Now for effective help. In the town near your parents' farm is a county mental health clinic, located in the psychology building on the university grounds. Psychiatrists and a psychologist are on the staff; and clients are interviewed Tuesday and Thursday afternoons—according to the latest directory I have. Moreover in the city through which you write, the university mental hygiene clinic, open daily except Saturdays.

Either place you'd get good advice, as to how to pave the way to treating your parents—if you discuss their symptoms with the experts and ask for guidance. M.H.

'A Man Called Peter' Opens At Paramount

"A Man Called Peter," Twentieth Century - Fox's CinemaScope production of Catherine Marshall's inspirational book, opened last night at the Paramount Theatre.

This is the story of a Scottish immigrant boy, whose conscience would permit no compromise with principles, who fought his way upwards into the love and affection of the America he adopted, who became famous, but remained humble,and who left the world a better place for his having toiled in the vineyard of human uplift. It is the story, too, of the girl who loved him and shared an emotional life that will inspire everyone to learn how really deep great love can be.

Richard Todd, as Peter Marshall, brings a man of great heart and character to life. His portrayal is a monument to a man, who in his ministeries and as chaplain of the U. S. senate rendered his electrifying appeals to the human conscience. His delivery of the famous sermons and prayers is masterful in eloquence and power and enriches the film, which is as electrifying as the man about whom it revolves.

Jean Peters was never better on the screen than she is as the romantic girl who learns all the heartaches of wifehood as well as the joys of the love and affection of a wonderful man. everyone in the cast seems to have caught inspiration from the story. Marjorie Rambeau, Jill Esmond, Les Tremayne, Robert Burton, Gladys Hurlbut, Richard Garrick, Gloria Gordon and Billy Chapin all give spirited performances.

"A Man Called Peter" is the story of faith and Twentieth Century - Fox has given it a meticulous production, making it an unforgettable experience in the theatre. There can be nothing but praise written for this great picture.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Being born a beauty is no advantage unless you invest some effort in personality development.

Physical Perfection Not Only Measure Of Beauty

It is fortunate indeed that concepts of beauty are individual. Each era has its general idea of what makes a woman beautiful (figure, clothes and hair styling) because the eye has become accustomed to seeing women look in a certain way, yet personal attraction is a highly individual matter.

This explains why one woman may seem beautiful to one man while she may look downright homely to another. Therefore we cannot rely on physical perfection alone. It is not, after all, a sound basis for overall, lasting beauty. It is the expression of the eyes, the animation of the face which reflects the spirit, the lift of a corner of the mouth, the impact of the complete ensemble which makes the greatest and most lasting impression.

Take Warning

This certainly should be comforting, because few of us can qualify for physical perfection. So, let us take warning from two ideas. The first, do not be discouraged if you were not born a beauty. Second, if you were, heaven help you if you depend on that alone!

We have often heard about "The Poor Little Rich Girl." Let's also think of "The Poor Little Beautiful Girl," or woman. Haven't you seen it happen many times?

Think of the young woman of 18 or more whom you knew years ago. She was so lovely that she became, if not conceited, at least smug. She did not have to struggle for attention during those early years. Then do you remember the girl who was not good looking, the one you felt sorry for?

Situation Later

What is the situation 20 years afterwards? Often the natural beauty has become dull and looks faded, while the one you felt sorry for is simply zooming in personality and chic, and has many friends and much attention. She invested in personality and developed it, and learned about figure control and hair styling and makeup and clothes, because she felt she had to do so.

The wonderful formula would be to be born beautiful and not know it, to give of one's self to make one's self as attractive in physical appearance and in personality as possible.

Of course, individual taste works the other way around, too. If a woman is in love with a man, characteristics which would irritate her or seem unattractive in another man become endearing, his crazy walk, or his funny nose, or even the way he snores.

So those of us who were born with average looks should be thankful, but should make the most of what we have.

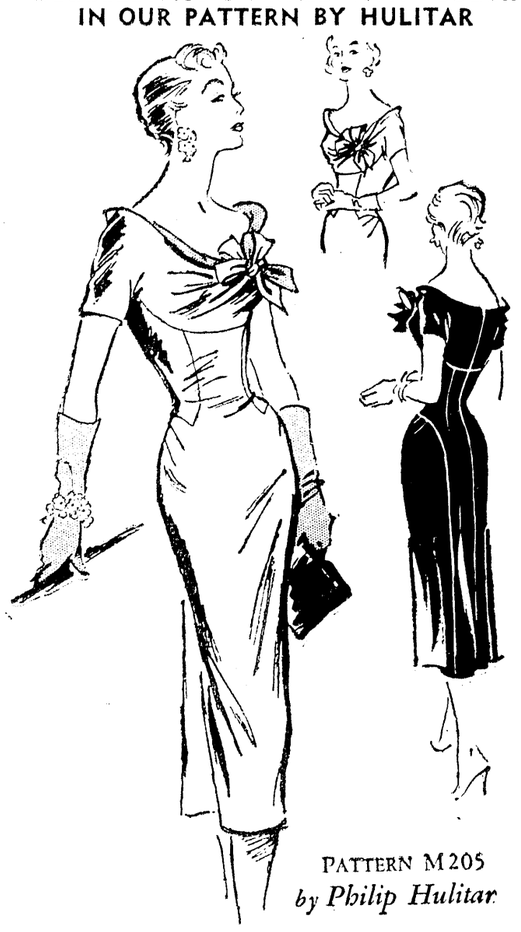

This week I am offering my 9-Day Reducing Diet which will bring you a loss of from five to ten pounds in nine days' time.

If you would like to have the complete 9-Day Diet in a convenient booklet, send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DECOLLETAGE SPARKED WITH COLOR IN OUR PATTERN BY HULITAR

PATTERN M205
by Philip Hulitar

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Here, the lithe long look topped by a decolletage, dipping discreetly at one side — a design by one of America's most famous couturiers, Philip Hulitar. We can't say enough about the subtlety of Mr. Hulitar's line — it makes the larger sizes appear smaller, and the petite figure look svelte and important. Imagine the original in a sultry black shantung with bodice sparked in vivid color. Or make it of silk crepe, a printed pongee, even a fine silk cotton. No one, but no one, able to hold a needle should hesitate to make herself this Hulitar Original, for it's simple in silhouette and devastatingly effective!

Pattern M205 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, and 18. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards 39-inch fabric; ⅞ yard contrast.

Send ONE DOLLAR for Pattern M205 to (Morning World), Pattern Department, P. O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N.Y. Please print plainly YOUR NAME, ADDRESS with ZONE, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Featuring His Pal Rosco Sweeney

by Roy Crane

HAVE YOU SEEN MY GOLDFISH, UNCLE ROSCO? I'VE LOST HIM.

A FOGFISH?

YOU NEVER HEARD OF A FOGFISH? THEN, AHEM, LET ME TELL YOU HOW I ONCE SAVED THE U.S. ASIATIC FLEET FROM STARVATION.

"WELL, IT WAS LIKE THIS: ONCE CROSSING THE INDIAN OCEAN, WE RAN INTO A FOG SO HEAVY IT PUT OUT THE FIRES IN THE SHIPS' BOILERS. WE WERE MAROONED IN MID-OCEAN. ALL WE COULD SEE WAS FOG."

HELP! WHERE AM I?

"STRANGE THINGS BEGAN HAPPENING. FOOD DISAPPEARED FROM OUR PLATES BEFORE WE COULD EAT IT. CANNON WOULD GO OFF."

BOOM!

"SO THE ADMIRAL SENT FOR ME."

I'M AT MY WITS' END, SWEENEY. YOU'RE THE SMARTEST MAN ABOARD. ONLY YOU CAN SAVE US.

AYE, AYE, ADMIRAL.

"I'D LONG SUSPECTED WHAT THE TROUBLE WAS, SO I WENT FISHING. BUT INSTEAD OF DROPPING MY LINE IN THE WATER, I SUSPENDED IT FROM A BALLOON IN THE FOG."

HOT DINGIES!

"ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, I HAD A STRIKE."

JUST AS I SUSPECTED, ADMIRAL, WE'RE IN A SCHOOL OF INVISIBLE FOGFISH. THE FOG'S ALIVE WITH THEM. THEY'VE STOLEN OUR FOOD AND ARE NIBBLING ON THE GUN TRIGGERS.

BUT WHAT'LL WE DO?

"AT MY SUGGESTION, WE DUG WORMS AND EQUIPPED EVERY MAN WITH HOOK, LINE AND BALLOON. WE CAUGHT FOGFISH BY THE MILLIONS. BOY, DID WE FEAST ON FOGFISH!"

SAILOR EATING INVISIBLE FOGFISH

ARE THEY GOOD TO EAT?

by Roy Crane

HAVE YOU SEEN MY GOLDFISH, UNCLE ROSCO? I'VE LOST HIM.

A FOGFISH?

YOU NEVER HEARD OF A FOGFISH? THEN, AHEM, LET ME TELL YOU HOW I ONCE SAVED THE U.S. ASIATIC FLEET FROM STARVATION.

"WELL, IT WAS LIKE THIS: ONCE CROSSING THE INDIAN OCEAN, WE RAN INTO A FOG SO HEAVY IT PUT OUT THE FIRES IN THE SHIPS' BOILERS. WE WERE MAROONED IN MID-OCEAN. ALL WE COULD SEE WAS FOG."

HELP! WHERE AM I?

BOOM!

"SO THE ADMIRAL SENT FOR ME."

I'M AT MY WITS' END, SWEENEY. YOU'RE THE SMARTEST MAN ABOARD. ONLY YOU CAN SAVE US.

AYE, AYE, ADMIRAL.

"I'D LONG SUSPECTED WHAT THE TROUBLE WAS, SO I WENT FISHING. BUT INSTEAD OF DROPPING MY LINE IN THE WATER, I SUSPENDED IT FROM A BALLOON IN THE FOG."

4-17

HOT DINGIES!

"ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, I HAD A STRIKE."

JUST AS I SUSPECTED, ADMIRAL, WE'RE IN A SCHOOL OF INVISIBLE FOGFISH. THE FOG'S ALIVE WITH THEM. THEY'VE STOLEN OUR FOOD AND ARE NIBBLING ON THE GUN TRIGGERS.

BUT WHAT'LL WE DO?

"AT MY SUGGESTION, WE DUG WORMS AND EQUIPPED EVERY MAN WITH HOOK, LINE AND BALLOON. WE CAUGHT FOGFISH BY THE MILLIONS. BOY, DID WE FEAST ON FOGFISH!"

The Little Captive MAID

ON THE ADVICE OF DAMARIS, THE LITTLE CAPTIVE MAID, NAAMAN GOES TO ISRAEL TO BE HEALED OF LEPROSY BY ELISHA... BUT ELISHA'S INSTRUCTIONS ANGER NAAMAN...

Portions of this story, included to show every-day life and customs of ancient times, have been based on historical research. These portions, though unrecorded in the Bible are not contrary to, nor do they change in any way, the biblical account which may be read in II Kings, Chap. 5: 1-14.

WHAT RIDICULOUS ORDERS— BATHE IN THE JORDAN SEVEN TIMES! ARE NOT THE ABANA AND PHARPAR RIVERS OF DAMASCUS BETTER THAN ALL THE WATERS IN ISRAEL? WHY CANT I WASH IN THEM AND BE CURED?

PLEASE, MY HUSBAND...DO NOT BE ANGRY.

ELISHA DIDN'T EVEN COME DOWN TO SEE ME! SURELY, I THOUGHT HE WOULD COME OUT... CALL ON THE NAME OF THE LORD HIS GOD, AND RAISE HIS HAND OVER ME TO HEAL MY LEPROSY!

THIS LONG TRIP FOR NOTHING...IT IS ALL THE FAULT OF THIS SLAVE OF YOURS! SHE SHOULD BE PUNISHED!

BUT...

...BUT IF YOU'D ONLY DO WHAT THE PROPHET SAID!

...IF ELISHA HAD TOLD YOU TO DO SOMETHING MORE DIFFICULT... SOME GREAT DEED...YOU WOULD HAVE! HOW MUCH EASIER THEN, TO WASH IN THE JORDAN AND BE CLEAN!

ALL RIGHT... WE'LL GO TO THE JORDAN!

AND, AS NAAMAN WASHES FOR THE SEVENTH TIME....

YOU'RE RIGHT! WHAT IN THE WORLD IS THAT THING HANGIN' OFF THE TAIL?

SHADES OF NORTH AFRICA! HE'S GOING TO DO A STUNT WE USED TO CUT ROMMEL'S TELEPHONE WIRES! THAT'S AN ENGINE BLOCK HE'S TOWING ON A STRONG WIRE

STEVE DOESN'T KNOW THE PILOT IS DOE! SHE CIRCLES THE THREE VESSELS, THEN LEVELS OFF FOR THE RUN ON THE TARGET...

GUNS BLAZING TO FLATTEN THE PEOPLE ON THE JUNK, SHE BORES IN UNTIL THE TRAILING BLOCK HITS THE TOWLINE AND SNAPS IT CLEAN...

BUT THE AIRCRAFT FALTERS—AND DRAGS A WING TIP... THE F-51 CARTWHEELS

AND PLUNGES INTO THE CALM WATER...

RIG THE MAST AND SAIL —I'LL PUMP THIS THING— THAT PILOT WILL BE OUT COLD! HE'LL DROWN!

BRINGING UP FATHER

JIGGS, I WANT YOU TO GET BUSY AND DIG A HOLE SO WE CAN PLANT OUR NEW TREE-

WHEW! THAT'S GOING TO BE A TOUGH JOB, MAGGIE-

I'VE GOT A TERRIFIC IDEA TO GIT MAGGIE'S BROTHER BIMMY TO DIG THAT HOLE! I'LL DRAW A PHONY PIRATES' MAP AND MAKE HIM THINK THERE'S BURIED TREASURE UNDER THE LAWN!

IF HE FALLS FOR THIS TRICK, IT'LL SAVE ME A LOT OF WORK!

I'D LIKE TO, BIMMY, BUT I HAVEN'T GOT THE TIME! WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT, YOURSELF?

SAY, JIGGS, ACCORDIN' TO THIS MAP, THE TREASURE MUST BE RIGHT HERE ON YOUR PROPERTY! IF YOU LET ME DIG FOR IT, I'LL SPLIT ANYTHING I FIND WITH YOU FIFTY-FIFTY!

I DON'T WANT ANYTHING OUT OF IT, BIMMY! IF YOU FIND A TREASURE, IT'S ALL YOURS!

HA-HA! THAT'S THE FIRST TIME BIMMY EVER DID ANY WORK IN HIS LIFE!

NOW I'LL GO OUT AND TELL HIM HOW I FOOLED HIM! I CAN'T WAIT TO SEE THE EXPRESSION ON HIS FACE!

JIGGS, LOOK! I FOUND THE PIRATES' CHEST! IT'S FULL OF GOLD COINS!! I'M RICH!! IT'S MINE-- ALL MINE!!

AND HE TOLD ME HOW GENEROUS YOU WERE IN REFUSING HIS OFFER TO GIVE YOU HALF OF EVERYTHING HE FOUND!

STEVE CANYON

by MILTON CANIFF

THE MINUTE SHE LEARNS BY RADIO FROM THE SUBMARINE THAT STEVE, HOLLY AND MR. HALL ARE BEING TOWED OUT TO SEA BEHIND THE RED JUNK — DOE REDWOOD BEGS THE USE OF AN F-51 AND TAKES OFF, TRAILING A STRANGE OBJECT...

HUMILIATING! THE SUB MUST HOLD ITS FIRE FOR FEAR OF HITTING US!

DON'T FRET YOURSELF, DADDY! THAT OL' MAN ON THE JUNK WOULD SNICK AT YOU WITH HIS CHATTER GUN IF YOU TRIED TO CUT US LOOSE!

LISTEN! FIGHTER AIRCRAFT! F-51! THERE!
